Rotary Club of La Mesa donates dictionaries to LMSV

Murray Manor School teacher Mrs. Linda Telfer get a visits from former student Michelle Hamilton as she helps deliver dictionaries to students. Michelle is daughter of La Mesa Rotary Past President Lynn Hamilton and project chair.

The next time the third grade teachers of the La Mesa Spring Valley School District need students to look some thing up in a dictionary – THEY CAN.

Thanks to the Rotary Club of La Mesa all third grade students of the La Mesa Spring Valley School District are now the proud owners of a new dictionary, and it is theirs to keep! The goal is that students use them from year to year to support their education. They now know that is happening. Years later they run into students and they proudly say that they still have them. Even the third grade students will that their older brother or sister still has theirs. The Thank You Notes the Rotary Club receives after delivering the dictionaries are precious. Students will often look up a new word and the Club loves getting their notes.

This is the 8th year and to date they have given out over 12,000 dictionaries. The LM Rotary Club in partnership with The So Cal Dictionary Project were able to provide approximately 1,800 third grade students with these dictionaries. Joining them over the past few years is the Rancho San Diego/Spring Valley Rotary taking on five of the Spring Valley schools to make this happen.

The La Mesa Rotary Club is pleased to be of service to the community and provide these books to the students and support education.

Donate your teddy bear for the El Cajon Police Toy Drive

The El Cajon Police Department has joined the San Diego Regional Law Enforcement Teddy Bear Drive! Each year, law enforcement agencies around San Diego County seek donations of teddy bears and other stuffed animals through community events. caravan. The caravan starts at a pre-determined location and travels through city streets and highways with lights and sirens to Rady Children's Hospital where the officers and Charger Players are greeted by the cheers of the children, staff, and family members. The officers and Charger Players distribute the teddy bears and stuffed animals to the children throughout the hospital. One teddy bear or stuffed animal can make a difference in a child's eyes and can enhance the healing process. *Now until Dec. 13, there will be a donation box placed in the El Cajon Police Department lobby for donations. Donations of small, medium or large (new) teddy bears or stuffed animals can be donated to the Law Enforcement Teddy Bear Drive. Fudgy Fig No-Bake Brownie Bites

Makes 24 brownies

- 1 package (9 ounces) Famous Chocolate Wafers
- 1 cup stemmed, finely chopped Blue Ribbon® Orchard Choice® or Sun-Maid® Dried California Figs
- 1/2 Cup chopped, toasted pecans or walnuts
- 3 tablespoons confectioners' (powdered) sugar
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup half and half
- 1 cup (6 ounces) semisweet or bittersweet chocolate morsels
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Topping:

- 1/2 cup chopped figs or toasted nuts

Line 24 mini muffin pan cups with decorative paper or foil liners (or line an 8-inch square baking pan with foil or plastic wrap, extending up sides); set aside. Whirl wafers in food processor (or place in sealable plastic bag and crush with rolling pin) to make fine crumbs. Place in large bowl.

Stir in figs, nuts, confectioners' sugar and salt. Pour half and half into microwave-safe bowl and heat on 100% power in microwave oven for 30 seconds or until boiling. (Or bring half and half to a boil in small saucepan over medium-high heat.)

Add chocolate morsels and set aside for 1 minute to soften. Stir until chocolate melts. Stir in vanilla. Pour over fig mixture and stir until blended. While warm, spoon brownie mixture into lined muffin cups or baking pan and press with back of oiled spoon to an even layer. Sprinkle with topping.

Chill 2 hours or until set. If using a square pan, cut into 24 brownies. Store in the refrigerator.

Lakeside's Hill Country Community Church gives back

"To give is better than to receive," should be the motto for this congregation of happy volunteers of the Hill Country Community Church at the 11'th Annual Thanksgiving Dinner held on Sunday, Nov. 21. Photo credit: Chuck Karaszia

by Chuck Karaszia

What better way to celebrate Thanksgiving than to serve a traditional turkey dinner with all the fixings free to local residents.

For more than a decade the Hill Country Community Church (HCCC) of approximately 100 members feed, entertain, and share the word of God with the homeless, seniors, and low-income Lakeside residents at the VFW at 12650 Lindo Lane.

Tom Edelman, a longtime former H.C.C.C. pastor, recalled how the event began. "We saw a lot of needy people here in this area and just wanted to find a way to help them. We had no idea it would go on for 11 years or would serve this many people. I think it's really cool."

On Sunday, Nov. 21, the tradition continued with nearly 400 hungry people who were served dinner. Everything needed for the meal was supplied by the church and hall.

Donna Locke, the matriarch event organizer for 11-years, commended Viejas and Café 67 for their generous donations and thanked the local VFW for the use of the hall and kitchen. Locke also expressed sincere appreciation to the church volunteers who served as hosts, hostesses, cafeteria workers, and food line servers for this sit/down meal.

"It's a blessing that through the last few years people have wanted to help," Locke said. Donald Jamison, the hall caretaker who makes sure we have everything we need, hooks up the electric and stays the entire time.

Joe Watkins, a church member who has served at this event since its inception, described what it's like to work in the cafeteria and food service line. "When I first started I did all the running – bringing food from the kitchen to the food server line," he said. "Now we've got it down to a science. It works just like clockwork.

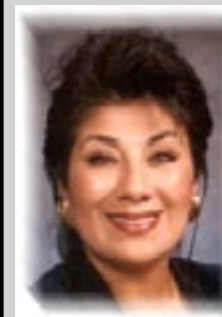

And I like serving God and our community. I wouldn't miss this for anything in the world."

Hill Country Community Church Pastor Al Hestor explained why his church continues to serve the community with this event. "God has pulled us out of the pit, and we just want to share his love with everybody. We want people to know that God loves them and have enough love in their life so they can begin to learn the joy of serving HIM."

A free Thanksgiving meal, musical entertainment, raffle prizes, and spiritual testimony was enjoyed by the needy and elderly residents of Lakeside at the local VFW near Lindo Lake. Photo credit: Chuck Karaszia

Dear Dr. Luauna

My husband and I work very hard, but we can't seem to get ahead. Everywhere I turn right now, all I hear about is Christmas shopping and my kids are talking about what their friends at school are getting. We feel under pressure and we don't want to let our kids down.

Signed Disappointing Christmas

Dear Disappointing Christmas,
The greatest joy of Christmas is not in material possessions; the latest toys, video games or jewelry we buy for one another. The Greatest Gift is Jesus Christ; God the Father gave us His only Son as a token of His great love for us. John 3:16, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life." Eternal life with Christ in Heaven is free and a wonderful promise for each of us; all we have to do is receive this wonderful gift as we would our most cherished Christmas present; take it for ourselves, unwrap it and let salvation transform our lives. There is nothing more satisfying we could experience or share with our children.

Unfortunately, the world has changed the focus of this special day, to spending money we don't have to buy things which will be out of date, broken or forgotten before the next Christmas. When my children were small, as a single mother and a new believer, I was in your shoes. I was so grateful to learn the true meaning of Christmas; I taught my children the valuable lesson of celebrating the birth of Jesus; receiving His love and loving one another. Children will always cherish your love more than any worldly possession. So this Christmas don't spend all your money; celebrate Jesus!

Luke 2:10-14, "Then the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which will be to all people. For there is born to you this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord. And this will be the sign to you: You will find a Babe wrapped in swaddling cloths, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying: 'Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men!'"

Veteran Grossmont College administrator fills new post as College district's senior dean

Jerry Buckley

Jerry Buckley can now put away one of the two hats he's been wearing for the past year as both a Grossmont College dean and a district administrator. Buckley, who holds a doctorate in educational leadership, has been appointed the senior dean of Research, Planning and Institutional Effectiveness for the Grossmont-Cuyamaca

Community College District. For the past 14 months, he held the dual post of Grossmont College's dean of Math, Natural Science, Exercise Science and Wellness, and acting senior director of the district's Institutional Research office. Buckley assumes his new position Dec. 1.

His previous job of heading the Institutional Research office has been expanded to include leading district strategic and long-range planning and assisting with improving institutional effectiveness. He will help develop and implement ideas on improving student learning and service outcomes and other measures of student success. As administrator of the Institutional Research office, he heads a team of analysts who collect data and produce studies on college and community demographics, population and enrollment projections, as well as research on specific programs and services for both Grossmont and Cuyamaca colleges.

"During his 20-year history with Grossmont College, Jerry has repeatedly proven his effectiveness in positions of leadership," district Chancellor Cindy L. Miles said. "It's clear that he is highly qualified for this critical position. As state budget dollars shrink and accountability demands escalate, we must be more efficient and transparent in our efforts to improve student success. Jerry brings the skills we need to increase our capacity for meaningful research as well as collaboration between faculty, staff, researchers, and administrators in applying these findings at classroom, program, and institutional levels."

Buckley said he is especially pleased to have the opportunity to expand research findings into new proposals to improve student outcomes. He added he has found the past year to be a welcome return to coordinating research projects, something he used to do in the 1980s with Sharp Memorial Hospital's cardiac research program.

Buckley, a Grossmont College professor from 1990 to 2006 in the cardiovascular technology program, said he can offer insight into improving student success and has utmost confidence in his team of analysts in Institutional Research to produce the information needed to answer some of higher education's toughest questions.

"Today the California community colleges are challenged to help students reach their educational goals while receiving less state funding," Buckley said. "Institutional research can provide useful information that informs strategic decisions and helps our colleges better serve students."

Buckley's many awards and recognitions from Grossmont College include a Distinguished Faculty Award in 1998, the Business and Professional Studies Division Award in 2000, the President's Leadership Award in 2005, and a Commitment to Service Award from the Grossmont College Foundation last spring.

He received the William E. Piland Leadership Award from San Diego State University, where he received his doctorate in June in educational leadership with a specialization in community college/postsecondary education.

He received a certificate in community college instruction from the University of California, San Diego in 1992; a Master of Arts in biology with an emphasis in comparative physiology from California State University, Fullerton in 1980, and a Bachelor of Science degree in biological sciences from the University of Southern California in 1976.

Ribbon cutting at Grossmont High

Grossmont High School recently held a poolside ribbon cutting with San Diego County Supervisor Dianne Jacob, to mark the completion of upgrades to the aquatic facility. Renovations included: a new pool deck, drains, markings, a shower facility, pool resurfacing, bleachers, a canopy and a new scoreboard.

Supervisor Jacob generously allocated $100,000 from the County's Neighborhood Reinvestment Program toward this $515,000 project. The balance was funded through Proposition H/U discretionary funds and deferred maintenance. In addition to CIF swim, water polo and PE classes, the pool is used by community swim and water polo groups as well as for recreation throughout the year.

The Grossmont Union High School District appreciates the deep commitment Supervisor Jacob has shown to its schools. She has allocated over $750,000 toward pool refurbishments throughout the Grossmont Union High School District. In total since 2001, Supervisor Jacob has allocated over $4.2 million toward athletic facilities (fields, tracks and pools) in GUHSD.

The Paw-fect HOLIDAY for PETS

Seasonal tips for pet parents

FAMILY FEATURES

This holiday season, share seasonal celebrations and traditions with the entire family, including four-legged family members. According to a national PetSmart survey, 72 percent of pet parents include their pet in holiday festivities.

“The holidays are about being with our loved ones — and that includes our pets, too,” said PetSmart Veterinarian and Pet Care Expert Dr. Robyn Jaynes. “Whether it’s including your pet in a family photo, taking them on a family trip or giving that perfect holiday gift or treat, it’s important for pet parents to consider the unique behaviors of each and every pet.”

As families everywhere kick off the season, PetSmart has a few simple tips to help pet parents make it a safe and enjoyable time for their pets.

Put Up Pet-Friendly Decor

Keep your pet’s safety in mind and help furry friends steer clear of dangerous decorations.

- Holiday lights mean extra electrical cords and plugs. For pets, these items are tempting “chew toys.” Taking extra time to tape down or cover cords will help prevent shocks, burns or more serious injuries.
- Christmas trees are sure to attract a pet’s attention. Secure Christmas trees to keep them from toppling over if a pet should try to climb them, use them as a scratching post or simply bump into them.
- Forgo small ornaments, especially balls, bells and tinsel that are attractive to pets — but deadly if consumed.

Traveling With Furry Friends

Many families travel at this time of year. Whether pet parents are taking their pets along or leaving them at home, it’s important to make sure their pets are safe and comfortable.

- Pet parents who board their pets should look for facilities that are clean and have friendly, responsive staff and strict policies on health and safety issues.
- If pets are included in a family’s travel plans, many resources can help you find hotels that accommodate pets. Visit www.petswelcome.com for more information.
- Many products are available to keep pets safe in the car, including harnesses and barriers that secure pets in the back of the vehicle.

Help Pets Get Camera-Ready

Just like the rest of the family, pets need to look their best for the holiday photo or the traditional shot on Santa’s lap. Try these tips to prepare your pet:

- Help your pets look their best with a pre-photo bath.
- For pets that enjoy dressing up, holiday outfits such as a reindeer or Santa costume, cable knit sweater, elf hat or jingle bell collar are festive.
- Having treats or special toys on-hand can keep pets from getting anxious while in line and also help them behave during the photo. To find out when and where you can have your pet’s photo taken with Santa Claws, visit www.petsmart.com.

Keep Pets Calm and Comfortable

The holiday season can be hectic for pets with the hustle and bustle of parties, travel and family dinners. To ease pet stress, pet parents should be mindful of the following:

- Pets may not understand why their usually quiet home is filled with people and noise. Provide pets with a quiet place to retreat.
- Pet parents often think they’re “treating” their pets with table scraps from their holiday meals. The danger, say PetSmart veterinarians, is that dogs can become seriously ill from human foods because they do not have the same digestive system or nutritional needs as people.
- For the most part, pets should stay indoors during the cold winter months. Some dogs may not adjust as well to the cold weather, so pet parents may consider sweaters to keep their pets warm.

Holiday safety tips for your pet

Home for the holidays can mean colorful decorations, sumptuous food and spirited cheer between friends and family. Unfortunately, it can also mean danger for the family pet.

Sweets, decorations and a multitude of guests can adversely affect your pet's health and behavior.

"There are lots of pet hazards during the holidays, but the right training can keep your dog safe," says Dawn Sylvia-Stasiewicz, trainer of Senator Ted Kennedy's dog Splash and Bo Obama, the First Family's dog, and author of the new book "The Love That Dog Training Program."

Common holiday decorations and treats that are toxic to dogs and other pets include mistletoe berries, poinsettia leaves, tinsel and water from a tree stand. In addition, your dog's appetite for unattended holiday chocolates, poultry bones or holiday decorations can result in emergency visits to the vet.

To keep pets safe, try keeping things out of reach or make them inaccessible, such as using a tree skirt to keep dogs from drinking water in a tree stand. But solid training based on positive reinforcement, especially for that new puppy you got for the holidays, is often the best prevention technique.

"Canine communication is usually visual, not verbal," says Sylvia-Stasiewicz. "Starting off with hand signals for 'sit,' 'down,' and 'stay,' encourages your dog to watch you closely, thereby making them more obedient once you add a verbal cue."

You should also positively reinforce good behavior in your dog instead of punishing bad behavior. That means your dog should come to understand that when he sits, he gets a reward -- either a toy or a treat.

"Dogs love making trades for something of equal or lesser value," Sylvia-Stasiewicz says. "If you teach your dog that bringing you a particular object will result in him receiving a more desirable alternative, such as a favorite toy or treat, then he'll be less likely to hold onto dangerous holiday decorations."

For anxious dogs, incessant doorbell ringing and an abundance of guests may be unnerving, leading them to act out. In order to give dogs a sanctuary, Sylvia-Stasiewicz recommends rewarding dogs for spending time in their crate. That way, they begin to associate their crate as a safe haven from the party, not a jail from which to escape.

For more tips on training dogs to be safe during the holidays, check out Sylvia-Stasiewicz's new book with Larry Kay, "The Love That Dog Training Program."

"The lessons learned from good parenting are also applicable in the dog world," says Sylvia-Stasiewicz. "Fortunately, it's never too late to teach an old dog new tricks."

For Health's Sake

Have a safe and healthy holiday

Wash hands frequently to keep germs at bay this holiday season.

Social calendars will soon be booked with holiday festivities with colleagues and friends and family. But oftentimes, uninvited guests join the party -- germs.

Germs can take many nasty forms, causing everything from seasonal colds and flu to contaminated holiday foods.

"Germs can ruin that holiday cheer," says Dr. Allison Aiello, a professor at the University of Michigan's School of Public Health and member of SCA's Tork Green Hygiene Council. "A sore throat, cough, runny nose, fever or body aches can be signs of the flu and should be treated properly, but unfortunately, many people don't avoid contaminating others."

Follow these holiday hygiene tips to enjoy the holiday season in style while staying healthy:

- Spread Cheer, Not Germs. Cold and flu germs are spread through airborne droplets from the mouth and nose that can easily be transferred to others. These droplets also land on surfaces that can remain contaminated for several hours, which guests can touch and be exposed without knowing.

Whether you come in contact with sick individuals or common surfaces, wash your hands with warm water and soap for at least 20 seconds, especially before eating or touching your eyes or nose. Dry hands thoroughly with a single-use paper towel and then immediately throw it away to avoid cross contamination.

- Be Smart, Keep Foods Apart. As you prepare holiday meals, keep you and your guests safe from food related illness. Keep raw meat, poultry, seafood, and eggs (including their juices) away from ready-to-eat foods and eating surfaces. Cook foods to the proper temperature. Refrigerate promptly and do not leave perishable foods out for more than two hours.

- Beware of the Buffet. Calories are not the only things lurking at the buffet table; germs live there too. Be a good guest by not snacking directly from the buffet or dipping vegetables or chips directly into a dish. Hosts can also help reduce contamination by making individual plates and not leaving food out in the open where germs from the occasional cough or sneeze can land.

- Keep Tableware Germ-Free. Avoid fanning out decorative napkins. Instead, save table space and keep guests from transferring germs by providing a napkin dispenser. For example, Tork Xpressnap, the leading tabletop napkin dispenser in the restaurant industry, is now available for the home. The uniquely designed containers dispense napkins individually so guests take only the one they touch. Plus, the photo slots on each side of the dispenser let you create designs to fit everyday or special occasions.

Hibernate If You're Not Healthy. If you do get sick, be good to yourself and stay home. While no one wants to miss the party, taking care of yourself is the best thing -- for you and your loved ones. And who knows, with a box of tissues and your favorite DVDs, staying home might be just what the doctor ordered!

Do you feel like you have hit a dead end?

by
Judy Callihan Warfield

These are difficult times, and many are feeling they have hit a dead end. Whether a loss of job or home it's difficult to get back on track. Taking the time to reframe the way you think about things can make a big difference in well-being. Go back in time -- even to school -- and recall goals and dreams and see where you are at today. Did you follow that dream and goal or did you get sidelined along the way and take a different path?

If not, this is the perfect opportunity to discover there is no where to go but up. Maybe you wanted to change careers but didn't want to feel forced to start over or at the bottom. So this situation is now a chance to try other career options you never would have considered before.

Have you lost your home? Take this opportunity to investigate other areas you may want to live in. While the current economic problems are a real issue, moving forward rather than staying stuck in the guilt, shame, and blame of the past is a positive way to handle these issues. Creating a new and better lifestyle can be freeing. Just the action of making decisions empowers you with the feeling of being back in control and moving forward rather than feeling like there is nothing you can do or it's out of your control to modify.

Go to a temp agency and see what is available. Don't pressure yourself that this will be your career for the next 20 years, but let yourself investigate career paths you may not have considered before.

Observing a light across the water, the captain had his signalman instruct the other vessel to change her course 10 degrees south.

The response was prompt: "Change your course ten degrees north."

"I am a captain," he responded testily. "Change your course ten degrees south."

The reply: "I'm a seaman first class--change your course north."

The captain was furious. "Change your course now. I'm on a battleship."

"Change your course ten degrees north, sir-- I'm in a lighthouse!"

Bolts humble the Colts with 36-14 win

by Chuck Karaszia

The stage was set on a nationally televised broadcast on NBC Sunday Night Football when the San Diego Chargers improved their record (6-5), winning their fourth straight game, destroying the Indianapolis Colts 36-14, beating them in their house for only the second time in 21 games.

What a night it was for the Bolts defense, special teams, quarterback, and running backs.

The Chargers defensive line harassed Peyton Manning all evening sacking him twice, intercepting four of his passes. The Bolts linebackers picked two, and the secondary got two. The first interception by Kevin Burnett was returned for a touchdown. This was his third INT of his career with 2 returned for scores. He also led the team in tackles (10). The second INT by Chargers safety Eric Weddle in the third quarter was returned 41-yards for a touchdown. This was the first time in 49-years the Chargers has two pick sixes in a game. (interceptions returned for touchdowns) The other 2 were by linebacker Stephen Cooper (who also forced a fumble). The last one by cornerback Antoine Cason.

The special teams of the Chargers did not fumble the ball. Bringing in veterans Kelly Washington and Pat Watkins, they have solidified the kicking unit limiting the Colts to a long field on every change of possession.

Kicker Nate Kaeding had a career night kicking five field goals, the most ever by the Chargers in a single game. He also kicked 3 extra points.

With two highly touted quarterback at the reigns, the Chargers Philip Rivers managed the game better than Peyton Manning. Although he did not throw any touchdowns Rivers completed 19-of 23 passes for his highest completion percentage as a pro (83%) in 75 games. He had a quarterback rating of 102.

The reason Rivers and the Chargers offense had success was because the offensive line protected their quarterback and cleared holes in the lanes for the running game. The O-line has been playing at a high level the last few weeks. You did not hear the names of the Colts Freeney or Mathis except when they were on the sideline.

What an effort by Antonio Gates. The Chargers All-Pro tight end ran like he was on a bed of nails (recovering from foot injuries) but still managed to catch 4 passes in the second half. What a trooper.

Head Coach Turner complimented his future Hall of Fame player saying, "He went in there and made four big catches, obviously had the big catch in the red zone. It makes you hurt to watch him run. He's as tough a guy as there is on this team. He sets a real good example for everybody."

Running back Mike Tolbert looking for linebackers to run over broke loose for 103-yards on 26 carries, scoring 1 touchdown (3-yards) and did not fumble. Darren Sproles had 4 carries for 17-yards. He also caught 4 passes for 24-yards Affectionately called Yogi and Boo Boo in the locker room, this dynamic duo offers a good one-two punch to opposing defenses.

Head Coach Norv Turner who surpassed 100 wins, the expression-less one, always complacent win or lose, commented after the game.

"Look at our turnover ratio in the first five weeks of the season. We were doing a lot of good things well on offense and on defense. Some unbelievable things. Guy's were

by Dave Stall

With all the problems Dodge has had in the past years they came out of the fog winning 2011 Motor Trend Truck of The Year. Congratulations to Dodge and the Dodge team.

This was not an easy feat, Chevrolet and Ford have put some serious product on the road and for Dodge to edge them out is quite an accomplishment.

I picked up my test truck, the Laramie model, from Carl Burger Dodge, showed it on KUSI and drove it for a while. I found it to be a great truck. My tester was equipped with the 6.7-liter inline six-cylinder Cummins Turbo Diesel and backed by a 6-speed automatic transmission. According to the computer located in the center of the dash I was getting 15 to 16 MPG on the open road. Not bad!

The Laramie came with a ton of standard equipment such as leather trimmed seating with a power 10-way adjustment at the driver seat and a power 6-way adjustment at the front passenger seat. This truck came with a heated steering wheel along with the front seats. I must say it was in the low 40's when I headed out to KUSI at 6 a.m. I turned on the heated steering wheel and before I could go a mile or two the wheel was warm enough I had to turn it off. That's a fabulous feature.

The interior was accented with wood and chrome trim, the standard center console was in place, but if you needed to add another passenger the center console flips up to make a front bench seat with a seat belt.

Five fun ways to get kids moving

Physical activity is essential for a healthy lifestyle. And now, more than ever, it's important to get kids engaged in physical activity for their long-term health.

Decreased opportunities for exercise and increased consumption of calories are just part of the problem. Recent studies have shown that 8- to 18-year-olds average 7 1/2 hours a day using entertainment media such as TV, computers, cell phones and video games. All of that has added up to 17 percent of all children in this country being obese. That obesity rate, according to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), has tripled since just one generation ago.

Obese children and adolescents are at what the CDC calls an "alarmingly high risk" for elevated blood pressure, cholesterol, diabetes and for becoming obese adults.

Fortunately, there are things parents and caregivers can do to help reduce the risk of obesity for the children they love. One of the most important is to get them moving.

Most kids won't do something if it's not enjoyable, so here are five fun ways to get your kids moving and on their way to a healthier life.

1. Family Go Time: Doing things together sets a good example for the kids and creates some healthy family bonding. Put "Go Time" on the family calendar and let everyone come up with fun things to do to such as: bike riding, a neighborhood hike, family tag, jumping rope, dancing, or hoola-hoop sessions.

2. Feet First: Instead of driving them everywhere, let them walk whenever possible – to school, to the library or to a friend's house. When you do drive, park at the far end of the parking lot, furthest from your destination. Encourage them to take the stairs instead of the elevator. Give them an inexpensive pedometer to help them track their steps each day.

3. Move for a Cause: There are many local charity events that involve physical activity. Walks, runs, bike rides and even jumping rope for charity are fun ways that kids can help others while helping themselves. Make sure they have plenty of time to train before the event and have the proper equipment they need.

4. Cool Competition: Whether it's soccer, volleyball, martial arts, dance or swimming, working with and competing against others develops good social skills along with physical ones. Don't have a league or a team in your area? You can always start one.

5. Go Natural: Kids don't need expensive equipment or a formal playing field to get moving. Let them run around the back yard and create their own fun. Encourage them to climb trees, use playground equipment or just play kick the can. Take advantage of the natural beauty of your area to go hiking, biking or rock climbing.

To help kids get more active and enjoy physical fitness, Sports Authority, Inc. has launched a national contest that taps kids' natural energy and creativity. The Sports Authority Move It Challenge is a national invention competition designed to uncover exciting new youth-created sporting and backyard games. A grand prize of $10,000 will be awarded to the winner, with four finalists each receiving $1,000.

The contest runs through January 3, 2011 and is free to enter. To learn more, get inspiration and helpful tips at www.moveitchallenge.com.

Dodge Ram ...

This was the 3/4 ton 4X4 model; engaging 4X4 was as simple as flipping a switch mounted on the dash within easy reach. There's a hard-wired trailer brake system mounted in the dash and big camper mirrors. The back seat is very comfortable with the option to flip and fold the seating 60/40. There are even storage boxes in the floor on both sides of the cab for items to be hidden. Another standard feature that I feel should be on all trucks equipped with a powered sliding rear window, is it should be power, and Dodge has made that happen.

The sound system is by Alpine, and I really don't need to say anymore – it's fantastic.

There is Blue Tooth, Sirius Radio, back up camera, remote keyless entry, tire pressure monitor, a ParkSense Rear Park Assist System and a plug for 12V equipment if needed. The option list is pretty long, but I feel the standard equipment has plenty to offer.

Being a diesel, the Laramie has an exhaust brake for down hill runs, and the Dodge is pretty quiet when it comes to diesel noises. I really enjoyed this tuck, but I would add running boards (see Burger's parts department). Parking was really doable even though this was a crew cab.

What's the price? The diesel engine runs $7,615, so for those who don't need a diesel, this truck based out at $43,265 and with options, $54,795. I see it as a really good investment. Visit Carl Burger in La Mesa and take one for a spin.

Anyone who has not had the privilege of hearing Jane Mitchell on COX Channel 4 San Diego's One on One with Jane Mitchell or on the Padres Honda pre-game and post-game show, as co-host on Forefront or cover the annual Holiday Bowl Parade is in for a surprise. So much about Mitchell and those she interviewed in her new book One on One – My Journey with Hall of Famers, Fan Favorites and Rising Stars will find hours with entertaining facts about sports icons but also incredible inside revelations about her subjects.

With sections on Charger, Padre, Hall of Famers and other sports legends such as Ken Caminiti, Ted Williams, Tony Gwynn, Junior Seau, LaDainian Tomlinson, Dick Enberg, Drew Brees, Trevor Hoffman, Jake Peavy, Antonio Gates, Dave Stewart, Dave Roberts, Jake Peavy, Tina Mickelson, Geoff Blum and David Wells, there is plenty to learn about and admire in this book.

Raised in a Navy family, Mitchell ended up in San Diego where she found work as a TV journalist and in 1977 fell in love with baseball at her first spring training. About her career Mitchell said in her book, "My years in television have opened doors to interviewing people of all walks of life. This is why I love my job. Story exploring and story telling allows people to connect with their past and places value on their journey."

In One on One readers will learn what Tony Gwynn said about Mitchell's skills at interviewing men; what one of Khalil Greene's favorite things in college was; what in his career made Jake Peavey cry; and why Jerry Coleman got a national honor from the U. S. Marine Corps.

In fulfilling her desire to complete this book as well as document some of her own memorable family moments, Mitchell lives up to her skills as a smart and intuitive journalist who has earned 26 Emmys

'The Next Three Days' is clever and gripping

Review by Diana Saenger

Over-burdened prisons and DNA technology certify that sometimes the cops get it wrong — innocent people do go to prison. That's the premise of Paul Haggis' new film The Next Three Days adapted from the 2008 French film Pour Elle (Anything for Her).

John (Russell Crowe) and Lara (Elizabeth Banks) Brennan are a devoted couple experiencing modern day life. John, an English professor at a Pittsburgh community college, likes to go beyond the subject and delve into deeper meanings. When we first meet Lara, we learn she works in the corporate world and seems troubled by problems with her female boss. At home there's a tender scene between John and his son Luke (Tyler & Toby Green) that reveals John as a tender and loving father. However, the family harmony turns into a volcanic eruption when law enforcement officers burst through the door and arrest Lara for murder. She drops the jacket she's trying to rinse blood from as they drag her out the door shoving off an interfering John.

The story then jumps ahead three years. Lara, somewhat complacent in jail, becomes disturbed when she learns there will be no appeal of her case. A mountain of pressure descends on John when Lara tries to commit suicide and Luke no longer talks to his mother who is soon to be moved away to a state prison.

Although the premise is the same as in Anything for Her, Haggis (Crash, Letters from Iwo Jima, Million Dollar Baby) brings to this project an undeniable talent for raising the bar with action-thrillers and lots of plot twists. After the film, I had fun thinking about what first seemed like plot holes and realizing they are really well thought-out actions by Crowe's character.

Haggis' choice to cast Russell Crowe as John was a wise one. John realizes he's about to take the biggest risk of his life by breaking his wife out of prison. In Crowe's proficient performance, we see the progressive but meticulous journey he plots on his living room wall after his lengthy research. Like getting into the deeper meaning of the subjects he teaches or asking himself the question he asked his students -- "What if we chose to exist in a reality completely of our own making?" -- John uses intelligence to overcome his desperation plus a love that is never compromised to counterbalance his hopelessness.

"I was really struck by the conundrum John Brennan faces," Crowe said about his character. "This man has an undying love for his wife and would do anything to save her. Yet to achieve what he has to achieve, he must turn into somebody she may not love. To me, that was an interesting journey to go on."

I really liked the chemistry Crowe develops with older son Luke, played by Ty Simpkins. Crowe convinces us that John navigates a minefield of humility, worry, guilt and extraordinary love while always keeping Luke foremost in his plans, which will change their lives forever.

Elizabeth Banks and Russell Crowe star in The Next Three Days. Photo credit: Phil Caruso / Lionsgate

Although little is seen of Lara throughout the movie, Banks does well in repeatedly showing Lara's short temper, a frame of mind that leaves the door of did-she-do-it always open. Unfortunately, Liam Neeson and Brian Dennehy fans are very short changed with the brief appearances of these actors. Neeson has only a few moments as an ex-con and repeated prison escapee who explains an encyclopedia of steps John needs to achieve his goal. As John's aloof father, Dennehy is seen in only a few scenes that really fuel the story.

The city of Pittsburgh -- at work, home, and in dark dangerous scenes -- clearly emerges as a character in this film. European cinematographer Stéphane Fontaine excels at making most of the scenes feel believable, although some are a tad long, especially the unrealistic and drawn-out police pursuit by overwrought Lieutenant Nabulsi (Lennie James). This operation could not have happened in a matter of hours as portrayed, and the result is too clichéd.

Because some of John's decisions in the story remain debatable, there's certainly a host of questions one asks while watching the film. How far would you go in the name of love and family? Can you live with decisions that of your own actions cross the line? Is it fair to risk one family member for another?

These dilemmas along with a solid story, terrific performances plus clever and suspenseful twists you never see coming make The Next Three Days very enjoyable.

I'm making puzzles for everyone.

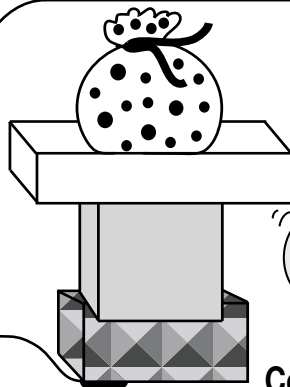

Gifts From The Heart

Wow! I went to the library and stood in front of the "do it and make it yourself" section of books. I had no idea how many books there are, each filled with ideas for making presents. You need some basic skills for some of the ideas, such as knitting, sewing or woodworking. Some gifts require a few small purchases. But, most of these books offer ideas for plenty of gifts that anyone can make with stuff around the house. So...not much money for gifts this holiday season? No excuses anymore – get to work on these gifts from the hands and heart!
