Rio Seco helps 'Give Clean Water'

(Photos above and below) First graders learn the children's game Santerio. Photo Credit: Briana Thomas

by Briana Thomas

On Monday, April 4, first graders from Mrs. Galarneau's, Ms. VanDuzer's, Ms. Brodeen's, Ms. Meier's, and Ms. Marino's classes at Rio Seco Elementary School in Santee were introduced to the culture, currency, education and condition of the water in parts of Fiji. Rachel Rice, local high school teacher and representative of Give Clean Water Inc., showed the children how the dirty river water is filtered into clean, safe drinking water. The first graders learned about the currency used in Fiji, the materials used to make decorations and toys, the flag of Fiji, and games the children play.

Rio Seco has set a goal to raise enough money to purchase at least three filters for Give Clean Water Inc., a non-profit organization, to install in the needy schools of Fiji. One filter has a lifetime "one million gallon" guarantee and is as simple as hooking up to a five gallon bucket and filtering out 99.999 percent of life threatening bacteria. Rio Seco will be helping Give Clean Water Inc. in "adopting" an elementary school in Fiji.

"The Mission of Give Clean Water is to change the world by giving clean water to every person on Earth who needs it." The organization not only provides the water filters, they bring local volunteers into the homes of needy residents, install the filter and educate the families on using the filter, hygiene and the importance of cooking only with the clean filtered water. Each home is marked with a gps address and followed up with later on to see how the family is doing. Fiji is just one of the current projects that Give Clean Water Inc. is providing for. To learn more or to donate, visit www.givecleanwater.org

El Cajon and La Mesa Police Departments hosting prescriptions drop off site

On Saturday, April 30, 2011, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m., the La Mesa Police Department and the El Cajon Police Department, working in conjunction with Drug Enforcement Administration, are hosting a prescription drug drop off site. This is part of the second National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day encouraging citizens to get rid of their unused and out-dated prescription drugs. Go to www.dea.gov and click "got Drugs?" for a list of the drop off sites in your area. The Drug Take Back site will be in the east parking lot of the La Mesa Police Department, located at 8085 University Avenue, in the City of La Mesa. The site will be staffed by El Cajon and La Mesa Police Officers and DEA representatives.

The take-back effort is designed to prevent pill abuse and theft by getting rid of potentially dangerous expired, unused or unwanted prescription drugs in a safe manner. Studies show that most teens who have abused prescription drugs get those drugs from their own homes or from the homes of friends. Bring your out-dated, unused or unwanted prescription pills, ointments, or liquids; no questions asked! For more information please contact La Mesa Police Lt. David Bond at (619) 667-7516, or El Cajon Police Lt. Steve Shakowski at (619) 579-3325.

This challenging race promotes physical fitness and stamina within the ranks of the Police Department. Participants compete in this race on their own time; and numerous volunteers help with the logistics and support. Now is the time to prepare - April Is National Earthquake Awareness Month

With the devastation of Japan's earthquakes on everyone's mind, it is appropriate that April is National Earthquake Awareness month. Let's take a moment to make sure we are all prepared for our next quake.

What should you do when the earth starts moving?

- If you are inside a building, Duck, Cover, and Hold. Duck under a heavy desk, table, bench, or against inside walls. Cover your head and neck with one hand. Use the other hand to hold on to the table or desk above you and be prepared to move with it if the shaking causes it to move. Stay away from glass, particularly windows and glass doors.

- If you are outside, move to an open area and away from buildings, street lights, trees, utility wires and other objects that could fall.

- If you are in an automobile, stop and stay in it until the shaking ends. Avoid stopping near trees and power lines

Spring Garden Festival

A garden party of sorts is on tap Saturday, April 9, at Cuyamaca College, but don't expect cucumber sandwiches, Earl Grey tea, and the soothing strains of Pachelbel's Canon in D at this event.

Instead, an international food court, a "bug zone," and petting zoo for kids, a plant sale, horticulture demonstrations, arts and crafts vendors and exhibitors, and much more is in store at the 18th Spring Garden Festival, set for 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Rancho San Diego college.

The free event features two sites at the college: the nursery operated by Ornamental Horticulture students and The Water Conservation Garden., operated on campus grounds by an independent nonprofit board, The Friends of the Water Conservation Garden. Shuttle buses will be available to transport festival-goers between the sites and parking lots. Parking is free.

With a theme of "Conservation in Bloom," Cuyamaca College's Ornamental Horticulture Department will hold its biggest plant sale of the year, featuring a large assortment of ornamental and drought-tolerant plants, and The Water Conservation Garden will offer sustainable gardening advice throughout the day.

About a quarter of the student-operated OH nursery's total proceeds from the year are made at the event. Sales from the nursery supplement the OH program's regular funding, helping to pay for supplies and equipment, said Don Schultz, acting program coordinator.

Open to the public, operating hours for the small, but well-stocked nursery are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Saturday. In addition to the plant sale at the nursery, the festival will feature horticulture demonstrations of pruning, irrigation, pest management, masonry construction, plant identification and floral design by OH students. Gardening clubs and other organizations will be represented.

For more information about the Spring Garden Festival, call the OH department at (619) 660-4262, or the Water Conservation Garden at (619) 660-0614.

The garden is located 12122 Cuyamaca College Drive West in Rancho San Diego. For maps and driving directions, go to www.cuyamaca.edu

Budget woes force cuts at Grossmont-Cuyamaca College

Facing an $8.1 million cut in money from the state, officials at the Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District are planning to eliminate more than 780 class sections in the next school year – turning away almost 5,000 students -- and reduce summer school to a bare minimum.

The almost 30,000 students at Grossmont and Cuyamaca colleges can expect greater difficulty in enrolling for classes beginning this summer and will take longer to complete the courses they need to transfer to a university or train for a career. They'll also be paying $36 per credit unit, a $10 increase.

"We've had to make some agonizing decisions as we try to provide the best education to as many as possible with sharply limited resources," said Cindy L. Miles, chancellor of the Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District.

The district will be drastically reducing hiring, maintenance and supply purchases, and is seeking savings to cut benefits costs by $500,000.

The reduced funding from the state comes on top of a $15 million budget shortfall in the district's $104 million 2010-11 operating budget. The district now has 645 fewer part-time employees, and 60 full-time positions have been left unfilled.

Over the past two years, 1,000 class sections have been cut, and summer school classes have been cut in half from the 2008-09 school year. This spring, almost 12,300 students were unable to enroll in classes – a 350 percent increase from a year ago.

The district, which receives 94 percent of its funding from the state, had to begin preparing a 2011-12 spending plan as the negotiations over California's budget dragged on in Sacramento. Even in a best-case scenario – approval of the tax extensions measure sought by Gov. Jerry Brown – the district faced a $4.6 million budget cut.

Bill Garrett, president of Grossmont-Cuyamaca's Governing Board, said the district's fiscal policies helped to cushion it from having to make even more drastic spending cutbacks.

"We're in a stronger position than other public agencies because we've frugally managed our dollars," Garrett said. "The only good news is that our policy of strategic fiscal stewardship has helped us protect core programs."

Now that the June ballot measure seeking the tax extensions appears dead, district officials are preparing for more severe cuts. The cuts could go even deeper should the state Legislature decide to proceed with an "all cuts" budget plan to address the remaining $12.5 billion California budget deficit. If that happens, the district would lose $12.9 million in state money.

"That would be a true budget Armageddon," Miles said. "We would have to cut 1,000 classes, which would bring us down to 60 percent of the courses offered just two years ago. We'd have to freeze programs and cut more part-time employees. Worst of all, we'd have to destroy the educational hopes of more than 8,000 students. We need all the help we can find to advocate with us to avoid this devastation. Our students are depending on us."

BLM seeks applications for Recreation Permit Subgroup

The Bureau of Land Management's (BLM) California Desert District Desert Advisory Council (DAC) announces an open application period for six members of its Special Recreation Permit (SRP) subgroup. Persons interested in serving on the subgroup should meet at least one of the following qualifications pertaining to SRPs: be an event permittee, an event participant, or a representative of four-wheel, dual sport, equestrian, or other interests requiring SRPs.

The subgroup will identify operational issues in the application of required SRP procedures, provide comments about current or proposed actions by BLM, and aid in accurately communicating SRP procedures to interested parties. The subgroup will report its findings to the full DAC, which ultimately advises the Secretary of the Interior through the BLM's California Desert District Manager.

All members of the DAC SRP subgroup serve two-year terms without salary and meet at least four times per year. All members of the subgroup will be required to disclose any direct or indirect interest in leases, licenses, permits, contracts, or claims that involve lands or resources administered by the BLM, or in any litigation related thereto. No subgroup member will participate in any matter in which the member has a direct interest. Selection and appointment of subgroup members is by the DAC with the concurrence of the designated federal official.

Persons wishing to apply for consideration as a member of the SRP subgroup of the DAC should submit their applications to External Affairs, BLM CDD SRP Lead, 22835 Calle San Juan de Los Lagos, Moreno Valley, CA 92553, or dbriery@blm.gov, no later than May 3, 2011. Subgroup information, including application for membership, is available on the DAC web link: <http://www.blm.gov/ca/st/en/info/rac/dac.html>, or by special request at (951) 697-5200.

Each spring, millions of Americans look forward to receiving a hefty income tax refund. And it truly is "hefty" with the average federal refund in 2010 hovering around $3,000. That's a lot of money to be giving the government through what is essentially a year-long, interest-free loan.

If you regularly receive large refunds, you're probably having too much tax withheld from your paycheck. Instead, you might want to withhold less and put the money to work for you, by either saving or investing a comparable amount each month, or using it to pay down debt. Your goal should be to receive little or no refund at the end of the year.

Ask your employer for a new W-4 form and recalculate your withholding allowance using the IRS Withholding Calculator available at www.irs.gov. This is also a good idea whenever your pay or family situation changes significantly (e.g., pay increase, marriage, divorce, new child, etc.) Just be careful, because if too little is deducted, you might end up owing more tax next April, and possibly even interest or penalty fees. IRS Publication 919 can help guide you through the decision-making process.

Some people received larger-than-normal tax refunds in 2009 and 2010 thanks to the Making Work Pay credit, which expired December 31, 2010. In its place, most taxpayers will see a 2 percent reduction in the amount being withheld for Social Security in 2011 paychecks.

Another change this year was a Treasury Department pilot program that offered 600,000 randomly selected low- and moderate-income families an opportunity to have their tax refunds direct-deposited into a prepaid debit card issued through Bonneville Bank. The pilot explored ways to save the government money (direct deposits cost 1/10th as much to process as paper checks) as well as to give people with no bank account easier and more cost-effective access to their tax refunds.

Here are ways to put your refund to good use:

Pay down debt. By increasing your payment amount on outstanding loan or credit card balances you can significantly lower the total amount of interest paid. Say you're paying $80 a month on a $2,000 credit card balance at 18 percent interest. By doubling your payment to $160, you'll reduce the payoff time from 32 months to 14, and shave $295 off the total amount of interest paid.

Start an emergency fund. To protect your family against the impact of a layoff or other unexpected financial crisis (such as a medical emergency, car accident or theft), set aside enough cash to cover at least six months of living expenses.

Save for retirement. If your debt and emergency savings are under control, add to your IRA or 401(k) accounts, particularly if your employer matches contributions – a 50 percent match corresponds to a 50 percent rate of return.

Invest in yourself. Enroll in college courses or vocational training to ensure you have additional skills to fall back on should you lose your job or want to change careers.

Invest in your family's future. Another good use for your refund is to set up a 529 Qualified State Tuition Plan or a Coverdell Education Savings Account to fund your children's or grandchildren's education – all while ensuring your contributions will grow tax-free until withdrawn.

Smart uses for tax refunds

Alpine Planning Group: Time

by Lou Russo
Alpine Community
Planning Group Member
San Diego Rural Fire
District Director

County Policy I-1 is the document governing local planning groups such as the Alpine Community Planning Group (ACPG). Near the beginning of that document the reason for the County's decision to create these groups is stated as: "Local planning is more responsive to local needs if there is a high level of citizen participation in the planning process." In other words, the County Department of Planning and Land Use (DPLU) relies upon the local groups to provide local input to help them and the County Supervisors make decisions. Policy I-1 also clearly states: "Planning group members are not County officials. They are advisors to the Director of Planning, the Zoning Administrator, the Planning Commission and the Board of Supervisors only. Such groups are not empowered by ordinance or policy to render a decision of any kind on behalf of the County of San Diego or its appointed or elected officials."

The question I pose here is this. Has the ACPG outlived its usefulness and should it be disbanded? Has the ACPG prevented a "...high level of citizen participation..." and has it "...tried to render decisions..." which it cannot do? Let's look at the facts in a number of specific instances.

Strike 1: Although Policy I-1 states that "Community issues not related to planning or land use are not within the purview of these groups," the ACPG Standing Rules state: "The Group shall include in its agenda a Consent Calendar. The Chair of the Group may include any items he/she deems appropriate..." Now, read it again. What the ACPG is saying is citizen participation is solely dependent upon what the ACPG Chairman deems appropriate. What is that? Well, no one knows, except the Chairman as there are no criteria laid out. What this means, quite simply, is that you don't get your project, etc. put on the agenda unless the Chairman thinks it should be there. It's said the most powerful person in the White House isn't the President; it is the Chief of Staff because he/she gets to determine who sees the president. The Chairman of the ACPG wields the same power.

Strike 2: As most of you are aware, the Alpine High School isn't on life support, it has been removed from life support and we are all awaiting its last breaths. What you may not know is that the ACPG had a High School AdHoc subcommittee. It consisted of one person who had no agendas, no minutes, no notes and no meetings. Now, to be fair, the Brown Act does not require AdHoc's to have agendas or minutes but when asked if he would accept others to be on the subcommittee, ACPG Chairman Greg Fox's response was: "Thank you for your request to be added to the Alpine High School Ad Hoc Subcommittee. This Ad Hoc High School Subcommittee will stay as myself alone." And "This way I do not have to establish separate outside meetings which would require proper Public notification, an Agenda and Meeting Minutes." In other words, a "...high level of citizen participation..." wasn't a high priority.

Strike 3: In this case, there are revelations concerning the recently disbanded ACPG PowerLink AdHoc subcommittee. In response to a request for the records of this AdHoc, the following response was received from the former chairman (bold added): "There were no actual ad hoc subcommittee meetings held with Group members, or with the public. The main issue that APG [sic] members wanted to take up is to how to express to the California Public Utilities Commission the Alpine community's fear of adverse impact of the SRPL construction based upon facts as the APG [sic] could determine them. Greg, Scott, Roger, Travis and I would cluster heads (not always together, and generally infrequently) before APG [sic] meetings opened (, or sometimes after the meetings closed). " In other words, for the three years this AdHoc existed, from the beginning of 2008 through March 2011 "...a high level of citizen participation..." was absent.

As you may have all read recently in the Alpine Community Network, the Chairman Fox states he pleaded for community input. The three items above paint that plea as disingenuous. In fact, what the ACPG has done is exactly the opposite. It has created a system whereby agenda items must conform to some unknown set of criteria to be placed before the public, has deliberately avoided "...proper Public notification..." and acted out of the Public's eye in direct contravention of Policy I-1's "...high level of citizen participation..."

The PowerLink Construction

has caused great inconvenience for Alpiners, and most importantly, continues to cause revenue losses for businesses along the Alpine Blvd. Working on a project of this impact and magnitude without documentation, and without appropriate public input is a violation of the public trust. Did ACPG members act illegally? I don't know. Is it time to do away with it? You decide.

I am sure, however, that the Brown Act preamble states what we all believe:

"The people of this State do not yield their sovereignty to the agencies which serve them. The people, in delegating authority, do not give their public servants the right to decide what is good for the people to know and what is not good for them to know. The people insist on remaining informed so that they may retain control over the instruments they have created."

Inspiration

A really short history of broccoli

Have you ever had serious second thoughts about something? Of course, I usually have severe trouble with establishing first thoughts. But once I have finished a serious thought I like put it behind me and go on with life.

For example. For years, people have been telling me how harmful drinking coffee is. Something to do, so they tell me, with being addicted to caffeine. Then, if I cannot give up coffee, I am to limit the number of cups of coffee I drink per day.

This has always caused me great concern because I can never remember how many cups of coffee I have had in any given day. I suppose I could keep a tally and mark down every cup I drink. This in itself poses a serious problem for me.

When I am in a restaurant and drinking coffee and my cup is half-empty and the waitress tops off my coffee, is that considered one or two cups of coffee?

What about my coffee mug at home? Does it hold one or two cups of coffee?

By the time I have had my thoughts thoroughly stirred about the consumption of caffeine I read a health report informing us that caffeine helps prevent heart attack.

If that is true, and I have no reason not to believe it, there will be no heart attacks in my family for the next ten generations.

All that guilt I felt for years about drinking too much coffee has really been for nothing.

Therefore, in a show of good faith, I plan to drink as much coffee as I jolly well please.

Then there was the episode about chocolate. According to those people who hate other people enjoying themselves, chocolate is supposed to be bad for you. Or so they opined.

For years, I have been secretly eating chocolate behind the back of the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. She is one who takes these warnings rather seriously. Rather, I should say, she takes them out on me. For years chocolate was a forbidden substance in our otherwise merry domicile.

Then I read a report revealing the health benefits associated with eating chocolate. No wonder I am such a healthy rascal these days. The only exercise I have had for years is exercising caution in smuggling chocolate into our house.

The good news is, chocolate is good for your health along with a steaming hot cup of coffee. I do not know what I enjoy more in life.

With these two things in mind, I have had some cause to re-think my position on broccoli.

My reasoning goes something like this. For years, people have been telling us that coffee and chocolate is bad for your health. Then, somebody discovers that these two things benefit our health.

Now, for years, starting with my dear old mother, people have been extolling the virtues of broccoli. I cannot tell how many lectures I have heard explaining to me how wonderful and beneficial broccoli is for human consumption. I cannot remember the number of vitamins and minerals allegedly associated with this vegetable.

When I was a young lad in short pants, I took one look at broccoli and determined it was not for me at all. Even I, at that point, understood the maliciousness of what some people called a vegetable.

"Eat all your vegetables and then you can have your dessert." Which, to my mind, was second only to water-boarding. In fact, I think there was a period in my life when I would have preferred the waterboarding.

"It's good for you," people kept telling me.

What I want to know is how can something that looks like a miniature tree-wanna-be be good for a person?

The first and last broccoli I have ever eaten took me three days to chew. Then, I had to brush my teeth for a week to get it all out from between my teeth.

Now that I have become older, I have begun to rethink certain things in life. One has to do with the functional aspect of wearing suspenders. One unfortunate episode in the public mall was enough for me.

And the other has to do with broccoli. Maybe, just maybe, I have been too harsh concerning what some people call a wonderful vegetable. Maybe, if I give it some further thought, I might discover that broccoli is not half as bad as I thought it was.

It just could be that all these years those people bragging on the marvelous benefits of broccoli were right.

Just as I was polishing up this second thought about broccoli to present it to my wife, I saw a newspaper article that said, "Tainted broccoli spurs big recall in West."

I knew it. I knew that broccoli; in whatever form you want to cook it, is tainted.

Second thoughts can certainly be dangerous. I took this second thought about broccoli, threw it away and enthusiastically embraced my first thought and now broccoli is history with me.

The Bible warns us to be careful about what we think. "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things" (Philippians 4:8 KJV).

I have more important things to think about than broccoli.

Dear Dr. Luauna

I have a question for you; do you get opposition as a woman preacher? I read that women are not supposed to preach.

Signed, Curious Woman

Dear Curious Woman,

The answer to your question is yes, I get opposition as a woman preacher. Some people are just curious as you are and truly searching for answers about this subject. I searched the scriptures to find out what the Bible said because I have been in ministry for over thirty years. The Lord called me to do His work almost immediately, much like the woman at the well in the Bible, John 4:27-39, I had an encounter with Jesus which changed my life completely; I could not help but share my story with others.

Although over two thousand years have passed, there have been many powerful women ministers of the gospel, from the time of Christ until now; some preachers, teachers, pastors, evangelists, and missionaries. Some are well-known today; Marilyn Hickey, Joyce Meyer, Daisy Osborn and many other have served faithfully and we may never know their names.

I do not have room enough here to go in-depth on this topic, I will give you a few scriptures. In the beginning when God created Adam and Eve, He gave them dominion together, when they serpent deceived them they forfeited their God-given roles. When Christ died on the cross, He gave them back their dominion. Genesis 1:26, "Then God said, 'Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness; let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over the cattle, over all the earth and over every creeping thing that creeps on the earth.'"

The most important thing to me is to have as many preachers of the gospel as we can, proclaiming the Word of God, Matthew 9:37-38, "Then He said to His disciples, 'The harvest truly is plentiful, but the laborers are few. Therefore pray the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into His harvest.'" It is the Lord who calls men and women to do his work. Galatians 3:28, "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free, there is neither male nor female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus." Over the years I have realized it is better not to argue with those who are in opposition, just to pray for them.

Please join me on Wednesday nights for service at the Prayer Mountain: 16145 Hwy 67, Ramona, CA 92065. Call (760) 315-1967 for more information.

McAlister Institute recognized

McAlister Institute, a San Diego County non-profit providing professional services that heal the lives of individuals and families through recovery, announced today it is being recognized by A New PATH (Parents for Addiction Treatment & Healing) for its commitment to helping individuals achieve recovery from addiction and for its outstanding efforts in reducing the stigma associated with addictive illness.

CEO and founder of McAlister Institute Jeanne McAlister will receive the "PATH to Recovery Partner" Award at the "Musical PATH to Recovery" reception on Friday, April 29 at 7 p.m. at the McMillan Events Center at NTC Promenade. The event, which celebrates the 12th anniversary of PATH, will benefit the organization's efforts to end discrimination against individuals suffering with the disease of addiction, and to increase access to treatment and recovery services for individuals whose lives have been damaged by addiction.

"Having made it my passion for the past 34 years to provide effective treatment and services to men, women and children who are battling, or are affected by addiction, it's inspiring to see other organizations putting forth such valiant efforts," says McAlister. "We are honored to be recognized by PATH and wish the organization all the best in its mission to help improve lives within our communities."

A New PATH is a non-profit advocacy organization consisting of parents, concerned citizens, individuals in recovery, healthcare professionals and community leaders working together to educate the public, media and decision makers about the true nature of the disease of addiction, and to expand access to treatment services. The organization works to reduce the stigma associated with addictive illness through education and compassionate support, and to advocate for therapeutic rather than punitive drug policies.

McAlister Institute, a non-profit organization founded in 1977, provides professional services that heal the lives of individuals and families while improving the quality of life in communities through the miracle of recovery. The agency currently serves over 3,750 men, women and children each month who are affected by addiction. Our philosophy is that each individual is responsible for his or her own recovery. However, the community can support recovery through education, intervention, counseling, medical treatment, consultation and research.

Cowboy Joe

Cowboy Joe was telling his fellow cowboys back on the ranch about his first visit to a big-city church.

"When I got there, they had me park my old truck in the corral," Joe began.

"You mean the parking lot," interrupted Charlie, a more worldly fellow.

"The sidewalk to the door," Charlie corrected him.

"Inside the door, I was met by this dude," Joe went on.

"That would be the usher," Charlie explained.

"Well, the usher led me down the chute," Joe said.

"You mean the aisle," Charlie said.

"Then, he led me to a stall and told me to sit there," Joe continued.

"Pew," Charlie retorted.

"Yeah," recalled Joe. "That's what that pretty lady said when I sat down beside her."

The ethical grid can wait a bit as there is a case that is in need of prayer. Prayer for healing and prayer to limit frustration and anger in the process.

The patient is a little one who is special and not yet a year and a half. He had presented with a sudden bleed that would not stop and the trip to the ER started a process that will certainly challenge and exhaust a young family. Hopefully, it will not exhaust insurance coverage and family funds.

The parents of this little cutie are bright and quick to research all possibilities. As is too common in American medicine, the choices are limited. The Federal Drug Administration will only allow that which can not be patented and considers stem cell or neutraceutical approaches to be natural approaches that can not be studied and approved in their structured system of observation. Another words, the fascist drug administration only studies that which is synthetic and will not acknowledge that many agents they have approved are plant based, examples being many chemotherapeutic agents. There, I said it and wish I felt better.

Research explored by family, friends and our office have uncovered choices that are creative and do not necessarily and singularly poison the abnormal cell. Sadly, the vast majority of the more complete approaches are out of the nation and not covered by most insurances. It was exciting to observe a traditional plant poison chemotherapeutic agent be accompanied by something as simple as a Vitamin C drip to protect the normal tissue and guide the poison to the abnormal cells. A lot less hair loss in those patients. It was wonderful and validating to consistently observe the use of stem cells that are not of an embryonic source.

Even in foreign areas, stem cell therapy is in its infancy but what a success rate. And again, that therapeutic approach is not delivered singularly but with supportive approaches that clean up the patient and support the immune system, not render it senseless. We need to blend and protect. (Hats off to the little guy's oncologist, she is allowing the mother to have beefed up antioxidant regime and then translate it to the patient via breast milk.)

So, please remember little Caleb in your thoughts and prayers. He has already caused quite the stir at the hospital.

Adopters also must be a resident of the United States and have no convictions for inhumane treatment of animals. Qualified individuals with the proper facilities may adopt up to four animals.

Adopters should bring a nylon web halter and 20-foot, cotton lead rope for each animal. A stock trailer will be required to transport the animal(s). Drop-ramp trailers will not be allowed. BLM wranglers will load the animals into the trailer.

The process is called an "adoption" because BLM retains title to the animal for one year after the adoption. During the year, a BLM compliance officer or designated representative will visit each adopter to ensure the animal is being cared for and has a good home. During this time adopters cannot sell their adopted animal. Adopters must notify BLM if the animal is moved.

After the first year, adopters may apply for title. BLM will pass title of the animal if all the stipulations of the adoption agreement have been met. The animal becomes the private property of the adopter only after BLM transfers title, which completes the adoption process. For more information about the Redlands adoption or the Bureau's Adopt-A-Horse or Burro Program, contact BLM toll free at (800) 951-8720, or visit www.wildhorse-andburro.blm.gov.

Young actor shines in debut role in 'Win Win'

Alex Shaffer stars in Win Win.

Interview
by Diana Saenger

Alex Shaffer (Kyle) made his feature acting debut in Win Win. Although he did have a small part in a school performance of The Pirates of Penzance. Born and raised in New Jersey's Hunterdon County, Alex attends Hunterdon Central Regional High School. He has been wrestling since kindergarten, and eventually became a two-time regional champion. When he was declared 119-lb New Jersey state wrestling champion just before filming of Win Win, he had the distinction of being the first state champ from Hunterdon in 10 years. The previous one had been his coach. Alex is now nationally ranked.

Q: What made you audition for this role?

AS: At first I didn't want to. Then my friend texted me and said to so I checked out the local paper and told him, no. Because it was wrestling season, and I was really focused on wrestling and didn't want to do this acting thing.

Then he said it's a once in a lifetime opportunity and you should think about it. That got me thinking that I would not get the opportunity to be in a movie again so I went for seven or eight auditions and got the part.

Q: What was the audition process like?

AS: The first audition I really wasn't into it. I showed up and there were kids with shaved heads and varsity jackets, and I'm sitting there with bleach blond hair, a purple flannel top and pajama pants. So I thought I'm not going to get this part; but it worked out.

Q: Did you have any idea what's involved with making a movie?

AS: I had no idea how hard it was going to be, how long the hours are, and no idea it was filmed out of order and not in chronological order.

Q: Had you seen any of Tom McCarthy's movies before you auditioned?

AS: Not before, but after I knew I was going to be in his movie, I watched some. He's a great director. From watching them I never realized acting was such an art like how Tom does make's movies. They are so different than the movies I used to watch.

Q: You had an amazing cast. How did that help you with your role?

AS: I was very blessed with the people I worked with and the director. I could never imagine Paul (Giamatti) setting me down and saying this is the way you do it kid. But just from watching him acting was enough for me. I just tried to soak in his mannerisms and expressions. He's such an amazing actor.

Q: This is a lot about sports in this film, but it's different than the way you usually wrestle, right? Was that difficult?

AS: A lot different than Kyle's style in the film; he's more aggressive than I am. Which I guess helps with acting. And I like to put on a show. I like people to watch me, and say, 'wow, I can't believe he did that,' or 'how did he get that move.' I like having a style that interests people and I guess that goes along with acting.

Q: Could you relate to the family dynamics and problems in this film?

AS: Tom set me up with an acting coach, and she wanted me to understand the character and what he's dealing with not at the time of the story we see, but years ago. Like how many times he got home and saw his mom with a needle stuck in her arm or how many times there's a bunch of guys over there, or her passed out and him coming home thinking she's dead. That's what I had to think about. What I took away from the film is everyone makes mistakes, and Kyle has to accept Paul's apology that he messed up and did something terrible. And even good people make mistakes.

Shaffer said he's ready to take some acting classes and pursue a career as an actor. Shaffer's gritty enthusiasm and lack of preconceptions already inspired his first cast and crew. "Alex was so excited just to be part of this that it reminded me of how thrilling and fun movie-making can be," said fellow actor Paul Giamatti.

"He just felt so real to me," Director McCarthy said. "We really put him through the ringer on this movie and he just kept getting better and better. It was tremendous fun to watch him take on new challenges and keep growing."

Win Win is now in theatres.

— AT THE MOVIES —

An inspiring and soulful drama

Review by James Colt Harrison

Back in the Golden Age of Movies, a film such as The Music Never Stopped would be considered a "weepee." Yet there is genuine emotion in this tale of family love, ties and estrangement. And yes, tears play a significant part in the film's story of a family in crisis, but the tears come from the feeling of what might have been rather than what is and what can be fixed.

It's easy to understand the emotional ties in this true story based on the book The Last Hippie by Oliver Sacks, M.D. The connecting tissue is that everybody has a dad, and most of us have had confrontations at one time in our lives. Growing up is not easy for anyone, and Lou Taylor Pucci, as Gabriel, is no exception. The generation gap is there, and it's a fact.

J.K. Simmons, one of America's finest character-stars, is brilliant in his role of the not-so-understanding father when son Gabriel loves the music of his own era – the psychedelic music of the Beatles, rock bands, and The Grateful Dead. Pop likes Big Band music and singers like Rosemary Clooney and Bing Crosby. Therein lies the first gap in their relationship. The second is their completely opposing views of the Vietnam War and President Nixon's role in the unpopular skirmish. The two males let their testosterone get the better of them, and Gabriel storms out of the house, never to come back. He moves to Greenwich Village to live the musical life he always wanted. Henry and Helen (Cara Seymour) are devastated at the loss of their son to the world of sex, drugs, and rock n' roll.

Sadly, a tragedy brings them back together. After a gap of nearly 20 years, the family is reunited when Gabriel is found wandering the streets of New York while suffering from a brain tumor. He needs immediate brain surgery, and Henry and Helen are bereft by this turn of events. He is still their son, and the parental ties have never really been severed.

Because of the damage the brain tumor has caused, Gabriel is left in a near-catatonic state and his memory has been altered so that he believes it is still 1968. He has no memory of the past or present, but only those years of his rock n'roll days. Lou Taylor Pucci has what is probably his best role to date. The young actor impressed film goers in 2005 with his performance in Thumbsucker, for which he won the Sundance Special Jury Prize for acting, and the Best Actor Award at the Berlin Film Festival. In this remarkable performance, he is able to capture the youthful enthusiasm he has for music even though nearly two decades have passed since his college years, and a huge memory loss has occurred.

Lovely British star Julia Ormond enters the story as a music therapist, who does her best to unleash the trapped memories in Gabriel's damaged brain with the use of music. Miraculously, when she uses musical pieces from Gabriel's favorite era as a therapy tool, it sparks something in his brain to recapture his own articulate knowledge of music and his college experiences. His brain reactivates at the downbeat of a Beatles song or a Bob Dylan classic. Pucci comes alive and becomes the boy he once was. It's an amazing transition and performance.

Production values on the film are at best minimum, but pretty sets and colors are not the main point of this engaging film. Director Jim Kohlberg has encouraged J.K. Simmons to give a magnificent performance as a father who loves his son but is in agony over the debilitating illness that has rendered his boy all but a zombie. Kudos to Simmons, Pucci and the entire cast for being "real" and wringing true emotion from what could have been a maudlin story. Moviegoers won't leave the theater sad but inspired and fulfilled at this human drama.

fornia and spending time with Master Model Builder Gary McIntire. LEGOLAND California asked Carson to help break the red ribbon today - using a lightsaber - to officially open STAR WARS Miniland.

To commemorate their participation, Model Shop Supervisor Tim Petsche presented both Fisher and Carson with replicas of the LEGO miniland model of Princess Leia from the Hoth scene of STAR WARS Miniland.

Also in attendance were cast members from Lucasfilm's animated TV series, STAR WARS: THE CLONE WARS™ - James Arnold Taylor, who voices Jedi Masters Obi-Wan Kenobi and Plo Koon, and Catherine Taber, who voices

Padmé Amidala. Other attending celebrities included Christian Slater, Brooke Burke, Corey Feldman, Nolan Gould, Tony Hawk, Andy MacDonald, Sharon Leal, Lisa LoCicero, Shawn Hatosy, Atticus Shaffer, Gail O'Grady, Mark Feuerstein, Sharon Leal, Kiptyn Locke and Tenley Molzhan.

Visitors to the all-new STAR WARS Miniland can follow a chronological path through the STAR WARS timeline and retrace the major events of the beloved Saga. Some of the 2,000 LEGO models will be more than 8-feet-tall and interactive buttons will allow children to activate animations throughout the scenes.

"This is a really exciting day for LEGOLAND California -- we are the first LEGOLAND in the world to introduce Star Wars Miniland," said Peter Ronchetti, General Manager of LEGOLAND California Resort. "In the new area, you follow a chronological path through the Star Wars timeline to retrace the major events of the amazing saga. There are interactive elements and features that really create what we call the hands-on-minds-on experience of LEGOLAND California."

During the grand opening ceremony, members of the 501st Legion of Stormtroopers guarded each scene until pyrotechnics exploded and each was described in full detail:

The models for the new STAR WARS Miniland were developed and built by eight model designers and two animation electricians in LEGOLAND Deutschland. A team of three Master Model Builders at LEGOLAND California spent the last few months bringing the scenes to life with the help of animation electricians, technicians and landscapers - all working to ensure the LEGO models appear as realistic as possible with special effects and landscaping.

In honor of the grand opening of STAR WARS Miniland, Park guests can also enjoy an enormous sand sculpture created out of 40 tons of sand for a new series titled "The Sand Guys," premiering on the Travel Channel this summer. Also on display in the Park is a LEGO mosaic featuring memorable images from The Empire Strikes Back created out of 165,888 LEGO bricks and constructed by Park guests.

For the first time ever at LEGOLAND California, a live Web Cam has been set up atop the Model Shop for fans to visit STAR WARS Miniland anytime just by logging onto www.LEGOLAND.com.

2011 Chevy Silverado 2500 Crew Cab

by Dave Stall

Trucks, who doesn't love trucks? Trucks started out as bare bones work vehicles, no frills, no extras unless it helped get the job done. Today it is a different story, in fact the truck race is hotter and better than it has ever been in the past and the recipient of all these advancements are you!

I have driven all the competition and picking a winner is a personal choice. A look at the numbers shows that Chevy is ahead of the pack in several areas. Proven to be the most powerful diesel engine, 2011 Ford 6.7-liter Power Stroke V8 puts out 390 horsepower at 2,800 rpm and 735 pound foot of torque at 1,600 the Dodge Ram with the 6.7-liter Cummins inline six cylinder that produces 350 horsepower at 3,000 rpm and 650 pound foot of torque at 1,500 and the winner is: 2011 Chevy 6.6-liter Duramax V8 that puts out 397 horsepower at 3,000 rpm and 765 pound foot of torque at 1,600 rpm and with these numbers Chevy increased their fuel mileage range by 11 percent giving the Chevy a range of 680 miles on a 36 gallon tank.

In the towing arena the Chevy came out on top there too. Ford's towing capacity numbers are as follows, maximum conventional towing weight, 16,000 pounds, maximum 5th wheel towing, 21,600 pounds, maximum 2500 payload, 4,050 pounds and with the 3500 series, 6,520 pounds.

The Dodge numbers came in at 12,000 pounds (Dodge does not publish trailer ratings, 12,000 is the maximum rating in the truck builder guide), 5th wheel rate, 17,000 pounds, 2500 payload, 3,160 pounds and 3500 comes in at 5,130 pounds.

Chevy numbers were for maximum conventional towing, 17,000 pounds maximum 5th wheel towing, 21,700 pounds, 2500 payload 4,192 pounds, and 3500 payload is 6,635 pounds.

If there are plans to tow a lot with your new truck, then there is another point worth mentioning, Ford and Dodge require the use of a weight-distributing hitch (not factory supplied) to tow the maximum conventional trailer weight. The 2011 Chevy Silverado HD and the GMC Sierra HD can tow the maximum rating using the factory-installed trailer hitch.

Last but not least, Chevy has the best warranty coverage in the segment, bumper to bumper warranty: Ford, 3 year 36,000 miles (same with Dodge and Chevy) Powertrain: Ford: 5 year 60,000 miles for gas and 5 year 100,000 for diesel, Dodge: 5 year 100,000 miles for both gas and diesel engines and Chevy comes in at 5 year 100,000 for gas and diesel engine, Roadside Assistance, Ford 5 year 60,000 miles, Dodge: Towing only, Chevy: 5 year 100,000 miles, Courtesy Transportation, Ford: not offered, Dodge: not offered, Chevy: 5 year 100,000 miles, Corrosion: Ford: 5 year unlimited miles, Dodge: 5 year 100,000 miles and Chevy: 6 year 100,000 mile warranty.

Other than driving the trucks to help make the decision Chevy does a great job of getting the "truck job" done.

Pricing? My truck based out at $44,645 plus tax and license and with all the options it was $57,199. So if you need a truck there are fabulous options out there.
