Youth of the Year Awards presented at City Council meeting

Each year the City of El Cajon Teen Coalition presents a "Youth of the Year" Award to recognize those youth who go above and beyond in serving their community, through their leadership abilities and/or their quality or level of community service in El Cajon.

The El Cajon City Council presented the annual Youth of the Year Award to an El Cajon high school student and a middle school student. This year the high school award was presented to Meshva Jariwala, a 12th grade student who attends El Cajon Valley High School; and the middle school award was presented to Sara Fakhoury, an 8th grade student at Hillsdale Middle School. The recipients were selected for outstanding community service and leadership. The award recipients each received a trophy and their name will be placed on a perpetual plaque displayed at city hall.

Teen Coalition criteria for the award says "Leadership" can be defined as those individuals who consistently facilitate a team vision and help guide others towards success. Community service is work that helps better the community through the value and impact of those served. Recognized work by youth is based on their personal merits and contributions and is not intended to be limited to their school involvement. Final awards were based on dedication and commitment beyond what may be required by school, and demonstrated impact of those served. Youth were recognized and awarded for service accomplished within the calendar year prior to the nomination period. The Teen Coalition made their selection based on work accomplished between January 1 and December 31, 2010. Current Teen Coalition members are not eligible for this award. CBP to open 'Ready Lane' at Otay Mesa border crossing travel documents with RFID technology allow users access to dedicated lane

Beginning Monday, May 2, 2011, U.S. Customs and Border Protection will open a new Ready Lane at the Otay Mesa port of entry for travelers who have a travel document enabled with Radio Frequency Identification, or RFID, technology.

The Ready Lane is a lane for vehicle traffic that only accepts RFID-enabled cards. The new Ready Lane at the Otay Mesa border crossing will be open Monday through Friday from 4 a.m. until 8 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. In order to use this dedicated lane, all adult passengers in the vehicle over the age of 16 must present an approved travel card. The U.S. Passport Card, SENTRI card, the new Legal Permanent Resident "green card" and the new Border Crossing Card are all RFID-enabled documents.

For example, the Ready Lane can be used by a group of travelers in one vehicle who may have different kinds of RFID-enabled travel documents, such as if the driver is a member of the SENTRI trusted traveler program, and the passengers all have other kinds of RFID-enabled documents, such as a U.S. Passport Card or a new Border Crossing Card. While only vehicles with all SENTRI members can use the dedicated SENTRI lane, a group with any mixture of RFID-enabled travel cards can use the Ready Lane.

"RFID-enabled cards allow our officers to screen travelers faster," said Chris Maston, director of field operations for CBP in San Diego. "By having a lane designated just for travelers with these cards, we can reduce the time everyone spends waiting to enter the country, and encourages legitimate business and tourism for our communities on both sides of the border."

Preparations for the lane opening will be completed

CBP to open 'Ready Lane' at Otay Mesa border crossing travel documents with RFID technology allow users access to dedicated lane.

this week, prior to the lane opening on May 2, in the afternoon. CBP has coordinated extensively with officials in Mexico to ensure that the approaches to the lane on the south side of the border will be clearly marked and easy to understand for travelers crossing between the two countries. The approach to the Ready Lane will be in Mexico, to the far west side of the lanes of traffic, about one-third of a mile before the border crossing.

Since the implementation of the Western Hemisphere Travel Initiative (WHTI), June 1, 2009, U.S. and Canadian citizens entering the United States by land or sea from Mexico, Canada and the Caribbean, are required to present a valid, WHTI-compliant document. Using a WHTI-compliant document that is an RFID-enabled travel card allows for more efficient processing of travelers at the border, since RFID technology allows CBP officers to receive information about travelers faster.

CBP recently opened Ready Lanes in Blaine, Wash., Nogales, Ariz. and Progreso, Texas and has plans to implement additional Ready Lanes at the Lukeville, Douglas, and San Luis ports of entry over the next few months.

simple steps as they approach a U.S. land port of entry with their RFID-enabled travel card:

1. Stop at the beginning of the lane and make sure each passenger has their card out.
2. When it is your turn, drive slowly through the lane and hold all cards up on the driver's side of the vehicle.
3. Stop at the officer's booth.

CBP continues to strongly encourage travelers to obtain RFID-enabled card to expedite their entry and to help make crossing the border more efficient. On the morning of May 2, U.S. State Department officials from the San Diego Passport Agency will be at the Otay Mesa port of entry to provide information to cross-border travelers about obtaining the U.S. Passport Card, an RFID-enabled travel documents.

WHTI is the joint Department of State-Department of Homeland Security plan that implemented a key 9/11 Commission recommendation to establish document requirements for travelers entering the United States who were previously exempt, including citizens of the U.S., Canada and Bermuda.

College library worker believes in taking matters into her own hands

A Cuyamaca College library worker who came up with a novel solution when the college found it didn't have the funds to refurbish hundreds of old chairs as part of a building renovation is the latest recipient of an award that each quarter highlights the good works of the college and district staff.

Maria Gearhart, a senior multimedia assistant at the college's Learning and Technology Resource Center, took a hands-on approach to the dilemma by borrowing tools from her upholsterer father, and repairing more than 200 chairs to furnish a nearly 4,000-square-foot expansion of the library.

The $4.1 million addition to the learning resource center is the last of the campus' new facilities and building expansions funded through Prop. R, the $207 million facilities bond measure approved by East County voters in 2002 to address severe shortages of classroom and lab space at Cuyamaca and Grossmont colleges.

"Unfortunately, the money available for furniture, fixtures and equipment on this project is pretty humble," said Connie Elder, dean of learning and technical resources.

Elder, Gearhart and another library staffer picked out the fabric at a local fabric shop and Gearhart began the painstaking reupholstering about a year ago.

"The chairs were wearing out and now they look almost new again," said Gearhart, nominated by Elder for the Chancellor/Classified Senate Award. "Before me, they had sent them out at $35 a chair. When they decided that was too much and that the work could be done in-house, a couple of people tried to take on the work, but it was taking a long time. I saw that they were doing the repairs the hard way and went and asked my dad to borrow his tool I used to watch him use when I was little."

But the two hours it takes to repair each chair is nothing to take lightly; Gearhart has blisters to show for the roughly 500 hours she's put into the project so far. She does the repairs as her regular job allows, doing the handiwork at the library circulation desk whenever there's a lull and completing with the machine work in a back area.

In addition to the reupholstering, Gearhart has been the primary planner involved in moving the library stacks to accommodate the library expansion.

"She has tirelessly checked and double-checked to assure that all books are returned to the correct shelves in the correct order after work crews have moved the cases," Elder wrote in the award nomination form. "Every day that Maria comes to work behind the circulation desk in our library, she helps students in so many different ways. She helps them find the resources they need and patiently answers questions so that they will succeed in meeting their educational goals."

At Tuesday's Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District Governing Board meeting, she was presented an engraved trophy in honor of her Chancellor/Classified Senate Award, along with a $250 gift certificate from Barnes & Noble and a lunch with the chancellor and governing board president.

Gearhart, who received her associate degree in business office technology with honors from Cuyamaca College, also has an artistic flair she puts to use with monthly displays at the library entrance. She monitors Craigslist and frequents thrift shops, always on the lookout for items she could use for the displays. The four large glass display cases were Craigslist finds that she picked up for free and refurbished on her own time.

"It makes me feel real good. I just tell people – it falls under 'other duties as assigned' in my job description," Gearhart said about the pats on the back she has received for all her work.

In recognition of the dollars she has saved the college, Gearhart was honored during spring convocation with a Golden Coyote Award, named after the campus mascot.

Cindy L. Miles, Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District chancellor, said Gearhart's dedication to Cuyamaca College is what makes the close-knit campus special.

"It is truly 'The Cuyamaca Way,' that special something that makes everyone who comes here feel like they have become a part of this big family," she said.

Debi Miller, the district's Classified Senate president, said Gearhart is the perfect example of someone working outside the classroom whose contributions are invaluable to ensure student success.

"The students and the college as a whole benefit hugely from Maria's willingness to go the extra mile and to put so much effort and care in improving the library," she said.

Sex, drugs and stocks n' tolls

by Arkardi Kuhlmann

Parents are often more comfortable talking with their kids about sex and drugs than basic finance.

As astonishing as that sounds, it's exactly what a brand new survey from my company, ING DIRECT, found after examining the financial education habits of hundreds of moms and dads across the country.

Nearly a third (32 percent) said they were prepared to talk with their kids about drugs and alcohol. Roughly three in ten (28 percent) were prepared to discuss sex and dating. Yet just 26 percent reported being able to talk money and finances with their children.

This doesn't bode well for America's financial future. Parents are a key source of information about personal finances for children. Establishing good habits early in life is critical to healthy money management in adulthood.

Parents appreciate this. Our survey found that a full 95 percent believe they're primarily responsible for their child's financial education. Yet less than a third -- 29 percent -- actually consider themselves "excellent" financial role models.

Combine these findings and a desperate picture emerges -- many children are being deprived of the knowledge needed to develop basic financial literacy skills. This must change. Fortunately, there are a number of easy ways for parents to impart the basic tenets of good money management.

Consider allowances. Children shouldn't receive cash each week for simply mowing the yard or walking the dog. Instead, allowances should be used to introduce your child to saving -- starting with a piggy bank and eventually graduating to a proper savings account. Along the way, explain how and why you personally save -- and teach your child about the magic of compound interest.

Financial education can also be tied into traditional school. Once a child starts learning basic arithmetic, use personal finance examples to familiarize him or her with important concepts.

Of course, finance isn't just about mathematics -- it's also about language. A credit card agreement, for instance, can be chock-full of opaque provisions that require a close reading to fully understand. So once your son or daughter moves up to critical reading classes in school, teach them how to translate those skills to documents typical of financial life, like checking account terms, credit card agreements, and mortgage paperwork.

Help your child create a monthly budget that tracks earnings, spending, and progress toward long-term goals. Ultimately, it's your responsibility as a parent to enforce the terms of that budget and help them stave off impulses toward short-term thinking and spending sprees.

The next step is helping your child establish a checking account and get a debit card. Don't just pick an account for your child -- have them join you in the selection process. And explain what features they should be looking for, like no minimum balance requirement or monthly fees.

Keep your child away from a credit card for as long as possible. Plastic makes it too easy to violate a budget and accrue debt. But once it is time for them to get a card, explain what goes into a credit score, and how a low rating can make it difficult to get a car, apartment, or even a job.

Finally, introduce your child to investing, starting at an early age. Avoid the all-too-popular practice of buying them a government bond for Christmas or a birthday, and then immediately filing it away with little explanation. Start by setting them up with a custodial account. Then purchase your child a handful of stocks, ideally in a company they interact with regularly. Help them track the stock's progress by following relevant news stories and checking the price regularly in the newspaper or online.

There's no better time for parents to start a conversation with their children about money management. Passing along basic tips, tricks, and habits at a young age sets them up for a lifetime of financial flourishing.

Arkardi Kuhlmann is President and CEO of ING DIRECT USA.

The taxing of my fragile sanity

I'm fine now, but such was not the case this past week. Normally, I am not given to procrastination, except when it comes to giving my money away. I am not Mr. Scrooge but I am Mr. Fugal.

I always pay my income tax but I also wait until the last minute to write that check and autograph it for good old Uncle Sam. I was thankful to have several extra days to do it this year. Instead of April 15, the government extended to April 18. I am not sure the reason nor do I care to know what it is, it is enough that I had several extra days to send in my money.

Every year I know I need to send money and I make certain preparations for it. Such as, setting up a lemonade stand, buying lottery tickets and putting my used clothing on eBay. Of course, none of these things work but at least I try.

This year I decided to use one of those popular tax programs. According to all the advertisements, these are very easy to use and will save me millions of dollars in taxes I might otherwise owe.

I purchased the tax program and installed it on my computer. So far, nothing could be easier. I was anxious to find out how much I was going to save on my income tax this year. I do not mind paying my share of taxes; I just want to make sure I am paying my share and not somebody else's. It is, as I have heard, my patriotic duty.

I was all set to tackle this chore and I had all day to do it. I figured it would take me maybe two hours and then I could go out and celebrate. I was thinking of an Apple Fritter at the time.

My folder containing all of my tax information was at my left hand, right in front of me was my computer and the tax program up and running and all things were ready for me to dig in and do it. I love it when a plan comes together.

Entering all of the personal information was easy and I breezed through it quickly. I cannot tell you how many times I have sent my birthday to good old Uncle Sam and to this day, I have yet to receive a birthday card from him. You would think with all the money I sent him through the years he could at least send me a birthday card on my birthday.

Now came the chore of entering in all my financial data. Thankfully, my income is under $250,000 so I do not need to worry about any increase in my taxes. Of course, there is a side of me that wishes quite strenuously that my income would at least be $249,999. I could live on that.

I very studiously entered in all of the financial data, listing all of my deductions. I was trying to find a category where I could deduct my Apple Fritter expenses for the year but was unsuccessful. I made a mental note to send a suggestion to Uncle Sam explaining why Apple Fritters were a necessary part of my income deduction strategy.

I struggled on and finally came to the end of the steps in this program. I sighed a deep sigh of relief that I was near the end of this job. I then clicked the button to see how much income tax Uncle Sam could expect from me this year. When I saw the figure, I almost passed out.

According to this program, I owed more income taxes to Uncle Sam than my actual income for the year. I know the government can seem a little greedy at times but this was rather ridiculous. For the next four hours, I frantically redid and redid my income tax and finally got it down to where I only owed Uncle Sam half of my income for the year.

At this point, I did not know what to do. Unfortunately, I had spent that half of my income along with the other half. With frantic nipping at my heels, I called someone across town I had done business with and knew she did income tax returns. Under saner circumstances, I would never concede to this kind of defeat. It was not my feet I was worried about, it was my wallet.

I called her about three o'clock in the afternoon and asked if she could do my tax return today. She told me she was leaving her office at five o'clock but if I hurried, she could see what she could do. I grabbed my folder, jumped into my car and raced across town. Are speeding tickets a deductible item on my income tax return?

I got there in good time and during the next two hours she filled out my income tax return. According to her calculations, I only owed a fraction of taxes that the income tax return program said I owed.

Quite often we need help from other people. This reminded me of a Bible verse I memorized years ago. "Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not" (Jeremiah 33:3 KJV).

God is eagerly waiting for us to call upon Him so He can go into action for us. Just call.

Dear Dr. Luauna

My whole life seems like it is falling apart. My husband left me, I'm losing the house, and I don't have much money for raising my children. I feel so depressed and I feel angry.

Signed, Falling Apart

Dear Falling Apart,

I am so sorry. I am sure right now you may feel like no words will help, but be patient as I share some thoughts. The I Samuel 30:3-6 passage in the Bible talks about David, a mighty warrior who was downtrodden. His city had been overtaken, his wife and children had been taken captive by the enemy, and his own men wanted to stone him. He cried all night, but then David strengthened himself in the Lord. Little did he know that one week later; he would be crowned king and everything would be restored.

Another story, starts in Genesis Chapter 37 all the way to Genesis 45 about Joseph. He was a young boy who had a dream only to find himself hated and betrayed by his own brothers, thrown into prison, falsely accused over and over, broken and hurt. He also strengthened himself in the Lord through the trials. Years went by, he finds himself promoted from the prison pit to the palace.

My dear sister, I have a quote, "When I'm hardest hit is when I must not quit." In the hardest times you must strengthen yourself in the Lord. Do not lean on your own understanding, Jesus said, Matthew 11:28, "Come to Me all you who are heavy laden and I will give you rest." Unseen by your eye, God will work through this terrible time and brokenness in your life, if you will run to Him and trust Him. How do I know this? I have walked in your shoes and I have won the victory through Christ Jesus, our Lord and Savior. He is the Rock in which I stand, everything else is sinking sand, Jesus loves you and so do I.

Awarding kids who give

Young people across America are making a positive impact in their communities by volunteering. Fortunately, giving back doesn't always have to be its own reward.

Winners of the annual Kids Who Give contest, sponsored by Farm Rich, will each get a donation of up to $2,500 to their causes, a personal gift card and a prize pack valued at around $300. Grand-prize winners, with a parent or guardian, will also get an all-expenses-paid trip to the awards dinner in New York City. The contest is open to U.S. residents ages 7 to 17 and you can enter it at www.kidswhogive.com.

The contest was created by Farm Rich, the frozen snacks and appetizers brand, to recognize and celebrate outstanding young people who go above and beyond to volunteer in their communities in an effort to make a difference and to educate other interested kids on how to start giving back.

Entries will be accepted March 1 to May 31, 2011. You can join the conversations at www.facebook.com/FarmRichSnacks; follow @kidswhogive on Twitter; and view video entries at www.youtube.com/farmrichkidswhogive.

Westfield and Susan G. Komen for the Cure® San Diego 'Paint the Town Pink' in May

All seven Westfield San Diego centers are dedicating the month of May to raise awareness and funds for the cures of breast cancer.

Westfield and Susan G. Komen for the Cure, San Diego are partnering to "Paint the Town Pink" for the cures of breast cancer during the month of May. All seven Westfield San Diego shopping centers will participate in special activities to raise awareness and funds.

The initiative will kick off with Mayor Jerry Sanders and a generous gift presentation from Westfield to Komen San Diego at a press conference on April 28, 2011 at 10:30 a.m. at Westfield UTC near Talbots.

"So much of the focus on breast cancer happens during October's breast cancer awareness month, but all of us at Westfield acknowledge that breast cancer affects people all year round," said Tom Tierney, Senior Vice President of Westfield. "We specifically selected May because of the focus on Mother's Day and honoring the women in our lives. We are optimistic that with the programs we have planned, including the 'Make Change' campaign, we will raise significant funds and awareness that will support Komen San Diego in continuing their mission."

Westfield shoppers can "Make Change" by giving their pocket change and making a change in the world of breast cancer. The collection donation boxes will be posted at every Westfield Concierge Center and Management Office as well as participating retailers. Throughout the month, shoppers will have the opportunity to enter to win a party onboard the Pink Party Bus presented by Cali Party Bus and Susan G. Komen for the Cure. For more details on that promotion visit Westfield.com.

At Westfield Mission Valley, North County, and UTC, shoppers can participate in a special promotion called "Shop Pink for the Cure." When they donate $10 at the Westfield Concierge, they will receive a shopping pass for discounts at select retailers throughout a one-week promotion from May 19-26.

Sherwin-Williams, in-kind sponsor is literally helping to paint the Town pink by supplying "Partytime" paint that will be used in visual merchandising at the seven Westfield shopping centers during the month. Sherwin-Williams with 14 number of San Diego locations will make a $1 donation to Susan G. Komen for the Cure San Diego for every gallon of "Partytime" paint sold in San Diego in May.

"Without corporate contributions and partnerships such as the new relationship between Susan G. Komen San Diego and Westfield malls, our affiliate would not be able to do the great work that we do and help people in OUR OWN BACKYARD who are uninsured and under insured," said Laura Farmer Sherman, breast cancer survivor and executive director of Susan G. Komen for the Cure, San Diego. "1 in 8 women will get breast cancer in her lifetime. Events like Paint the Town Pink through Westfield Malls not only helps us raise funds, but it helps us to raise awareness about breast cancer and the importance of mammograms and breast exams."

Laughter is the Best Medicine

A child's point of view

Aware of her charms and her obvious effect on the three suitors, the story of Adam and Eve was being carefully explained in the children's Sunday School class. Following the story, the children were asked to draw some picture that would illustrate the story.

Little Bobby was most interested and drew a picture of a car with three people in it. In the front seat, behind the wheel was a man and in the back seat, a man and a woman.

The teacher was at a loss to understand how this illustrated the lesson of Adam and Eve.

But little Bobby was prompt with his explanation. "Why, this is God driving Adam and Eve out of the garden!"

Smoking and women

by Judy Callihan Warfield

The stats are alarming when it comes to health issues concerning women who smoke. As women, smoking opens the door to a multitude of cancers, heart disease, breathing difficulties, complications from diabetes, and image issues. Smoking causes problems with the health of skin and gums which affect, not only health, but the ability to feel as attractive as possible. Who wants more wrinkles or an unattractive smile?

Smoking can affect the health of a child during pregnancy. If there are small children already in the home, smoking can affect the child's health with increases in breathing illnesses and inner ear infections. Don't kid yourself into thinking that if you go outside to smoke it's okay. The second hand smoke that seeps into clothing and skin is just as harmful, and in fact some stats show second hand smoke is even more deadly.

One of the worst scenarios for a woman who smokes is the example to her children. Children of smokers are more likely to become smokers than not. This unhealthy habit is now affecting the future of our children and their future health.

It's a fact that unless the decision to stop smoking comes from the smoker him/herself it's almost impossible to stop. However, if the decision has finally been made; if the reasons to stop smoking now outweigh the desire to smoke; if the condition of your skin and smile mean something to you; and/or if future children and current children's health is a concern, then now is the best time to take action and get away from those cigarettes.

Think of the amount of money and time that would save. Think about the improvement in health and vitality.

Hypnotherapy provides a fast, effective and drug free way to rid yourself of this unwanted habit.

Relay for Life Luminaria ceremony to honor cancer survivors and remember those lost

The American Cancer Society's Relay for Life of El Cajon, to be held June 4-5 at El Cajon Valley High School, will remember those lost to cancer and honor those who have survived, during their Luminaria Ceremony at 9 p.m. June 4.

Anyone desiring to make a luminaria donation, $10 is suggested, may do so by contacting event chair Sharon Greiner, at (619) 440-1206, or by visiting www.relayforlife.org/elcajonca.

Each luminaria represents the life of someone who has battled cancer. It is a beautiful sight when all the bags with candles are illuminated around the track. The Luminaria Ceremony is a moving way to remember ones lost to cancer and to pay tribute to cancer survivors.

Relay for Life celebrates those who have battled cancer, remembers loved ones lost, and provides participants with an opportunity to fight back against the disease – all aimed at furthering the American Cancer Society's vision of a world with less cancer and more birthdays.

Information about making a luminaria donation, forming a team, or walking in the Survivors Lap is available by calling Sharon Greiner at (619) 440-1206, or visiting www.relayforlife.org/elcajonca.

Disappointing casting of lead in 'Water for Elephants'

Review by Diana Saenger

Adapting a book into a motion picture is an audacious task. While watching a movie, fans often see a story unfold for the first time before their eyes. With an adaptation, many readers who have read the book and formed their own impressions about the images and meat of the book need to be appeased with the film version. It's almost an impossible undertaking.

As one who read Sara Gruen's exciting Water for Elephants, I was among those who waited impatiently for the movie version. While I enjoyed much of the film, I left the theater puzzled – and reconsidering for days – why it didn't excite me.

The story of Jacob, a young college student in the 1930s who must drop out of his veterinarian degree program due to the tragic death of his parents – and the demise of any financial support – changes little in the film adaptation.

My biggest disappointment here involves the casting of Robert Pattinson (Twilight) as Jacob.

Left alone, jobless and penniless, Jacob jumps a train heading out of town only to find out he's landed on one of the train cars belonging to the Benzini Brothers circus. Normally, train jumpers are dealt with harshly by circus employees, but someone takes a liking to Jacob and when circus owner and boss August (Christoph Waltz) is told he's an animal vet – although not quite true – he's allowed to stay on.

Jacob's first chores are ones no one wants to do; but when he becomes memorized watching circus performer Marlena (Reese Witherspoon) – and wife of August – perform on some horses, he notices one of the horses is injured. His quick, but tough prognosis of the injury impresses Marlena. The contact they share during setting up the circus from town to town soon ignites into an affair.

Marlena, who became August's wife out of necessity, knows she must be aware of his discovery. Because of her husband's drinking problem and split personality that can erupt into dangerous outbursts with physical ramification, Marlena is guarded.

Witherspoon is beautiful in Elephants. She embodies the sexuality and charms of 30s and 40s bombshells such as Virginia Mayo, Jean Harlow and Rita Hayworth. But no chemistry exists between her and Pattinson. In fact, I found many of Witherspoon's scenes with Waltz when they are being romantic more believable than those with Pattinson. Jacob is quick thinking and pro-active and Pattinson, who works well in the Twilight series, seemed to laid-back for this man who is always under fire. This left me unable to buy into their affair, which would produce significant dangers for both of them and some of the circus folks as well. While reading the book, I had no problem buying into this relationship.

Christoph Waltz, Robert Patterson and Reese Witherspoon star in Water for Elephants

Waltz emerges as the stand-out performer in this film. He tackles this role with a mirror image of the role that earned him an Oscar in Inglourious Basterds. August can be a charming man both with his crew and wife, but without a moment's notice he can turn into a sadistic psycho. Waltz is the one who steers the movie, aided by a great cast portraying the circus crew plus the talented Hal Holbrook who bookends the opening and closing of the film as an older Jacob retelling his life story.

deeper into the story.

There are no complaints about the art decoration of Jack Fisk (Oscar nominated for There Will Be Blood) or cinematography by Rodrigo Prieto (Biutiful, Brokeback Mountain). Every scene on the train, in the small towns and inside the big tent, look and feel authentic. I was easily transported to this era and a world we seldom see. The combination of excellent work by these two professionals as well as costume designer Jacqueline West, should entertain most mainstream audiences. Note: no animals were harmed in the filming of this movie.

I also wanted more elements of the circus life in the film. Scenes with Witherspoon and the elephant Rosie are great, and Witherspoon went to great lengths to study her role and do most of her own stunts. Still, there were too few scenes of the animals that fuel the circus performances and that might have drawn an audience

If you need a little help starting a surprise, then finish this note for Mom. Fill in the middle with your ideas. Color and decorate it to give it your special touch. Cut it out and give it to your mother!

Surprise Mom!

How can you surprise your Mom on her special day? Think about all the jobs she does for your family every day. Is there something that you can do that would be helpful and a surprise too? What can you add to this list?

- be very quiet in the morning and let her sleep late
- make a card, place it somewhere you know she will see it
- with an adult's help, make breakfast and serve it to her in bed
- put little, fancy soaps in a basket or on a clean face cloth in the bathroom
- save your money and buy a gift just for her (write a few clues on some paper and let Mom search for it)
- finish a chore that Mom didn't have time to complete
- set the dinner table, follow this pattern: (the folded napkin may also be placed on the plate)
- What ideas do you have?

Or, slip this into a fancy card you make for your Mom.

Yum!

Let's dip some of these into chocolate for Mom!

Happy Mother's Day!

Mom, thanks for...

With all my love,

I picked these flowers for Mom. I need a finishing touch to present them to her. Can you help me by crossing off the silly idea and coloring the good ideas? Next, unscramble the letters and fill in the blanks.

Living with your pet without unleashing allergies

Vacuums designed specifically for pet owners are making it easier to rid your home of dander and other allergens.

Allergies no longer have to prevent pet ownership. By taking a few simple precautionary steps, it is possible to comfortably live with both pets and allergies. Here are a few helpful tips:

- Shut the door. Keep cats or dogs from your bedroom—and not just when you are sleeping. If you keep the door closed, it will prevent cat or dog hair from drifting in during the day. This also applies to a guest room if you happen to be hosting a guest with allergies.

- Keep pets off the furniture. You can do this by placing a plastic cover on the furniture or by placing pieces of aluminum foil on areas where pets settle. They find the noise disturbing. Or you can try orange peel; cats dislike the smell.

- Ditch the carpets. Pet hair tends to stick to carpets, especially soft, shaggy carpet. Try area rugs on tile or wood floors.

They are convenient because they are portable and usually machine washable.

- Bathe pets. Use an allergen-reducing shampoo. Clean dogs at least twice a week.

- Clean the air. Remove irritants with an air cleaner that has a HEPA filter.

- Vacuum and dust frequently. Use a vacuum designed especially for pet owners. These include features such as an odor-absorbing filter and powerful suction for pet hair, while still capturing and retaining the dust and dirt that can trigger allergies and asthma.

The recently introduced Cat & Dog vacuum, by the creators of the first HEPA-certified vacuum cleaner, is built with a sealed system designed to prevent dirt, dust and allergens from escaping back into the air. Floor care innovator Miele engineered the upright model specifically for cat and dog owners to deliver the powerful suction and airflow necessary to remove stubborn pet hair. Plus, it's so quiet it won't disturb your pet's mid-afternoon nap!

The vacuum's versatile brush roller automatically adjusts when transitioning from hardwood to high-pile carpet. This feature ensures proper airflow to remove pet hair in one pass.

SwivelNeck technology allows the entire brush roller to limbo under chairs and tables and to dance around lamps and other objects, including pets.
