Santee Lakes celebrates 50-year-anniversary

by Chuck Karazsia

What began as one man's bold vision transpired into a globally recognized innovative reality.

Now fifty years later Santee Lakes has become a beautiful 190-acre park. The grounds includes seven scenic lakes that provide a safe and natural environment for camping, fishing, picnics, hiking, fitness, bird watching, boating events and recreation.

Santee Lakes was created and built by the Padre Dam Municipal Water District in 1961 to demonstrate the effect of water recycling by reducing wastewater stream and processing costs without burdening property owners or impacting ratepayers.

When construction of El Capitan Dam dried up the supply of water to an arid small agriculture town, Santee became the fastest growing community in San Diego County. In 1961 urban growth in East County required a new way of disposing of their increasing waste water.

Water District Manager Ray Stoyer decided not to join the costly San Diego Metropolitan System used by other towns in the county that sent poorly treated sewer water down to the Pacific Ocean. Stoyer helped devise and implement an alternative process utilizing a new treatment concept that employed a series of lakes to cleanse and recycle waste water. The goal was to clean Santee sewage and to provide a low cost water supply for irrigation of industries, crops, golf courses, home lawns, and highway beautification. Stoyer envisioned the lakes would also become a local recreational attraction for all to enjoy.

After persuading Carlton Santee Corporation director Bill Mast to donate to a gravel mining portion of Sycamore Canyon, Stoyer's vision became a reality. Four of the now seven Santee Lakes were created in 1961. Thinking green, the district saved many of the existing sycamore trees and planted grass islands around them. After initially denying permission to allow boating and picnic – and then Stoyer developing an all-natural third step cleaning process – the San Diego County Health Department granted the request.

California State Fish and Game had been stocking the lakes with several species of fish for months to determine which would successfully spawn in the recycled water. They determined Rainbow Trout, Largemouth Bass, Channel Catfish, Red ear Sunfish, and Thread fish Shad were the most reproductive. In the summer of 1962 'Fish-For-Fun' was allowed enabling a catch-and-release program. Two years later the County Health Department allowed anglers to keep their catch.

Swimming was eventually permitted and a sandy bottom swim basin separate from the lakes but with its water directly supplied from the lakes, was carefully monitored and controlled to meet special health and safety requirements. Nine-year-old Jimmy Lowery became the first swimmer to enter the reclaimed water on June 12, 1965. A traditional concrete pool ultimately replaced the original swim basin.

Campsites, a general store and a park office were added in the 1980s. A clubhouse was added in the 90s, and an upgrade of the water recycling facility in 1997 doubled the treatment capacity of recycled water that is used for city irrigation and to fill the lakes. Construction of 130 large deluxe campsites was completed in 2005 with added amenities. A four-acre solar panel project was completed in 2008 that helps shade recreational vehicles and with rebates, offsets construction costs with a tax credit. This is projected to save the district an estimated $600,000 over 20 years.

The Water District is celebrating their 50 years throughout 2011. A "Great San Diego Getaway" was unveiled on the northern shores of lake seven offering a unique "camping" experience. Rental cabins on the water's edge and three floating cabins were recently

Veterans Wall of Honor dedication

by Herb Cawthorne

On May 30, at 1 p.m., Four F-18 Fighter Jets will flyover in recognition of the dedication of the Veterans Wall of Honor and hundreds from the community will see veterans honored as never before in Alpine on a beautiful Wall of Honor adjacent to the Alpine Community Center. The flyover will follow immediately at the completion of the National Anthem. At its dedication, the Wall of Honor will display hundreds of veterans – fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers remembered by their loved ones, acknowledged by their neighbors.

The program will start on time. As soon as the Color Guard from the Alpine VFW Post 9578 present the colors, the Honorable Danny Tucker, Chairman of the Sycuan Band of the Kumeyaay Nation, will lead in the singing of the Star Spangled Banner. At the conclusion of the National Anthem, be prepared: The F-18s will come roaring above to mark the significance of the Veterans Wall of Honor.

"It will be a day we'll never forget," said Dan Foster, Chairman of the Wall of Honor Committee. "It's the icing on the cake — jets flying over, a magnificent gesture, because this is our Super Bowl, the final step in our tireless effort to create a peaceful, dignified way to honor those who have served our country and protect out way of life."

The F-18 Flyover is the result of the relentless efforts of Rear Admiral Ted Steele (ret.), an Honorary Member of the Wall of Honor Committee. "The pass will be from east to west, dead center over the wall," said Admiral Steele, noting "the #3 jet will pull up into a steep climb right over target leaving a 'hole' in the finger-tip formation. It's what we call the 'missing man' maneuver."

Admiral Steele adds, "This has been my labor of love to support those in our community who are dedicated to honoring our military personnel. The Wall of Honor is a wonderful symbol of the respect we have for those who serve in harm's way, for those who give up part of their lives to make sure America remains safe and free."

Particularly thanks to the hard work of Bob and Debbie Jackson, these names will be preserved for all history. Bob and Debbie have turned their home into the workspace of the Tile Verification Committee for this special tribute to our veterans. "We have almost 1,000 tiles to put up and we wanted each one of them to be accurate, respectful and exactly what the loved ones wanted. It's been a journey through history, where we've met heroes, uncovered great deeds of courage, and shared remarkable memories with people in our community. It's been a blessing to learn so much about which we can be very proud," said Bob Jackson.

Bob and his wife, Debbie, have reviewed every application, investigated every claim and discovered information even the families didn't know. "It has been a search for a needle in a haystack trying to verify the service of a World War I veteran, but we found ways to get it right. This process is filled with emotion for families. Some cried while they dug through old photos in the basement; others were astonished to re-discover the courage and sacrifice of their grandfathers and fathers," said Debbie, who has worked countless hours on getting the tiles ready for the May 30 dedication.

"It's amazing how families have come together. Some started with just one application for a tile and, before it was done, they had 5 applications — adding a grandfather, a cousin, a sister or brother, even an aunt from another state," Debbie added.

For those who did not get orders processed by the time of the dedication on May 30, Bob Jackson wanted everyone to know: "We will be filling the top half of the Wall first. We will have a table set up at the Memorial Day ceremonies where people can get applications, get help with selecting the wording for their tiles, place their tile orders, and get their questions answered. They can continue to send in their tile orders and as soon as we have a sufficient number of tiles completed, we will mount those tiles."

This year, the 2011 San Diego County Fair, presented by Albertsons/Sav-on, will feature a special 75th Anniversary exhibit at Surfside Race Place to tell the story of the Fairgrounds and the Fair. In the early days of the Fair, the event was held in various places, such as Escondido, Oceanside and Balboa Park in San Diego. The Fair found a permanent home in Del Mar in January of 1936, as the Works Progress Administration awarded San Diego County a half-million dollar grant to build the Fairgrounds on what was the old Del Mar Golf Course. Construction immediately commenced, and the first County Fair in Del Mar opened on October 8, 1936. The 75th Anniversary exhibit will feature three segments: A look back at the history of the San Diego County Fair, a retrospective of thoroughbred horse racing, and auto racing at the Fairgrounds. The theme for this year's Fair is everything about cars, Cars, CARS! Southern California is a mecca for car clubs and car enthusiasts from around the world.

There's no better place to celebrate automotive history and car culture than at the San Diego County Fair! Featured throughout the Fair are exotic cars, luxury cars, "star" cars, muscle cars, low riders, Southern California car culture and lots more! And, true to the mission of the 22nd District Agricultural Association, the 2011 San Diego County Fair will highlight agriculture, farmers, 4H, FFA and Grange. Gates open daily at 11 a.m., Tuesdays through Fridays, and 10 a.m., Saturdays, Sundays and Monday, July 4. In addition to the Father's Day picnic, events planned for this weekend include a scavenger hunt for the golden nugget, performances by the Julian Doves & Desperados, gold mine tours, gold panning, a special train ride and gold tour at Smith Ranch, photo opportunities, prizes, and fun for the entire family. "Julian Gold Rush Days is a great opportunity to 'turn back the clock' and give visitors an idea of what Julian was like in its early days," according to Tracy Turner, president of Julian's Merchants Association. In the winter of 1869 when former slave Fred Coleman discovered gold in a small creek just outside of Julian, it set off a frenzy that became San Diego's own gold rush. Within a few weeks, over 800 prospectors from all over the country were headed to Julian in search of gold. The first producing gold mine, the Washington Mine, was discovered in February 1870 and within days over 40 other claims were registered. The gold rush lasted off and on for about thirty years, producing almost $2 million in gold (about $150 million in today's market). While other nearby gold mining town such as Banner City, Branson City, Cuyamaca City, and Eastwood disappeared over time, Julian continued to thrive with the production of its newest asset — apples. Pictured above is Sheena Ludlum accepting checks presented by Eagle Aerie President Robert Lloyd and June Hitzaman from the Eagle Auxilliary to help in the fight to find a cure for SMA.

At a charity dinner fundraiser in honor of Kruse Madden Ludlum (April 12, 2010- May 24, 2010) for Spinal Muscle Atrophy (SMA) held this past Saturday at the Eagles Aerie 3973 in Santee, over $1600 was raised for the 'Hope for SMA' Foundation to help other families affected by this disease and fund research. Spinal Muscular Atrophy is the #1 genetic killer of infants and young children, 1 in every 40 people or nearly 10 million Americans UNKNOWNLY carry the gene responsible for SMA, 1 in 6,000 babies born are affected every year. SMA does not discriminate based on race, ethnicity, or gender. SMA is a motor-neuron disease affecting voluntary muscles used for swallowing, crawling, walking, head and neck control, and even breathing. National Institute of Health selected SMA as the disease closest to a cure out of 600 other neurological diseases.

Sycuan announces new Gaming Commissioners

The Sycuan Tribal Council has announced the appointment of four new gaming commissioners, including a new chairwoman. Bernice Hyde, Tribal Elder and well respected leader in Indian Country, has been with the Gaming Commission since its formation in 1993 and has served as chairwoman since 2004. She has now been appointed as commissioner. Charlene Worrell-Eckel has been with the Gaming Commission since 2004, having served as alternate commissioner since 2007. She has been appointed as commissioner. Shu Brown, Sr. once served as commissioner during his 1996 term. He has been appointed as alternate commissioner. Queenette Pettiford has been named chairwoman, after having served as a commissioner for over seven years. She has been with the Gaming Commission for over 12 years. Her appointment as chairwoman may mark a day in history for Indian Country as being one of the youngest female leaders to serve as chairwoman of the Sycuan Tribal Gaming Commission.

"Honorably, respectfully and enthusiastically I accept this very important position," said Chairwoman Pettiford. "It has always been my passion to be of service to my Tribe and Indian Country, to maintain our position of self reliance and governance, and to continue the strong oversight and high standards that have come to be expected of the Tribal Gaming Commission, their staff and all tribal entities."

The Sycuan Gaming Commission manages a large staff of regulators, compliance officers, auditors, investigators and technical staff. Their primary mission is to protect the assets of the tribal government; maintain compliance with all tribal, state and federal gaming laws, regulations and technical standards; ensure fair play and safety for all customers; conduct background investigations and determine suitability for licensing of gaming activities and machines; and adjudicate patron disputes. They are completely independent from casino management and are appointed by the Sycuan Tribal Council pursuant to tribal ordinance.

Applicants sought for vacancies on college district's bond oversight committee

A construction funded by a 2002 bond measure nears an end, East County applicants are being sought for four upcoming vacancies on the citizens' committee responsible for ensuring that money from the $207 million bond for projects at Grossmont and Cuyamaca colleges is spent as promised.

The 11-member committee represents a wide range of the community. The four seats to be filled are: a representative from a business organization; a representative from a taxpayers association; a Cuyamaca College Foundation representative; and a representative from the San Diego Building & Construction Trades Council. Members of the Citizens' Bond Oversight Committee must live within the East County borders of the Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District.

The deadline for applying is June 3. Applications are available by going online at www.gcccd.edu and clicking on "Construction News" and then "Citizens' Bond Oversight Committee." Click on "Nomination Form" to get an application, which can also be obtained by calling the bond oversight committee office at (619) 644-7762.

Those selected will serve a two-year term. The committee is charged with ensuring that revenues from Proposition R, the bond approved by East County voters in 2002, are spent as promised. The committee also issues a report on the district's compliance with legal requirements.

The vacancies on the committee occurred because four members have completed serving their two-year terms. They are: Sharon Bullard, business organization; George Hawkins, taxpayers association; Ken McCormack, Cuyamaca College Foundation; and Joe Powell, San Diego Building & Construction Trades Council.

"This committee has played an invaluable role by serving as the eyes and ears of the community during construction of the projects that have transformed the Grossmont and Cuyamaca campuses," said Cindy L. Miles, chancellor of the Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District.

The last of the 14 bond projects under construction is the renovation and expansion of the Grossmont College Griffin Center and Student and Administrative Services Center, scheduled to be completed late this year.

Other major projects built using the bond money and matching state funds include a $35 million Health & Sciences building at Grossmont; a $28.2 million Business & Technology building at Cuyamaca; a $20 million parking garage at Grossmont; a $44.6 million Communications Arts Center at Cuyamaca, and a $20.5 million Student Center at Cuyamaca.

For the past eight years, the district has consistently received clean audits of its spending on the construction work.

"We want the residents of East County to be sure that their tax money is being spent properly," said Bill Garrett, president of the Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District governing board.

The oversight committee meets quarterly and its meetings are open to the public. The next meeting will be held at 6 p.m. July 11 at Grossmont College, 8800 Grossmont College Drive in El Cajon.

Six tips for businesses waiting for economic recovery CPA reveals six ideas for after the recession

As recovery creeps up on the U.S. economy like molasses going uphill in the winter time, small businesses are starting to feel the pressure ease, but that doesn't mean it's time to go back to "business as usual."

That's the opinion of consultant Jim Muehlhausen, CPA and author of The 51 Fatal Business Errors and How To Avoid Them (www.51errors.com). He wants to help owners keep their cool as the economy starts to warm up. He has narrowed down the reasons why small businesses tank during the lean times.

Small businesses face more challenges than the large corporations with huge cash reserves to help them through financial crises. They are more susceptible to market fluctuations, have fewer clients to support them and generally have more transient staff. On the flip side, they also make up 70 percent of the businesses in the U.S., so as goes small business, so goes the economy. Small business:

- Represents 99.7 percent of all employer firms.
- Employs about half of all private sector employees.
- Pays nearly 45 percent of total U.S. private payroll.
- Has generated 60 to 80 percent of new jobs over the last decade.
- Hires 40 percent of high-tech workers (such as scientists, engineers, and computer workers).

In order to prevent the ensuing panic and confusion to consume your business, Muehlhausen has devised six basic rules that can help steer businesses clear of the pitfalls of recession:

- Focus – Pay more attention to your business model and your business, and pay less attention to the economy. Keep your eyes on the road, and not the landscape, and you'll get where you're going.
- Don't throw the Hail Mary – Don't make dramatic changes. Work on the tactics already in front of you. Keep moving and keep working at the tasks that have traditionally helped your company succeed and don't count on that big order or some other source of instant salvation.
- Stop fretting – This is a terrific time to tune up systems, make large time investments in future products/services that you just did not have time for when times were good. Rather than lamenting bad times and wasting time on activities aimed at making things better right now, focus on two years from now while everyone else is short-term focused.
- Buy a competitor – Now is a great time to buy weaker competitors. Prices are low and rolling their business into yours can add valuable employees and sales at bargain prices.
- It's not the economy, it's your model – The weak economy has hit businesses with weak business models MUCH harder than those with solid models. If the economy has hit you hard, this is not bad karma. It is a sign that you need to tune up your business model.
- Ignore Web 2.0 at your peril – Yes, Web 2.0 is just as valid for B2B as it is for B2C. Web 2.0 has very little to do with Facebook and Twitter. At its core, Web 2.0 is nothing more than an automated referral system. If your business does not need additional referrals, ignore Web 2.0, but beware that traditional marketing methods will continue to lose effectiveness while Web 2.0 methods will continue to improve.

"Decisions made out of panic and anxiety are rarely, if ever, the right ones," Muehlhausen said. "I'm not sure there is a single business book or consulting firm that has recommended running scared when times are bad. That being said, far too many business owners let fear affect them and their choices. Times are not great, but people still have money and companies are still spending. For every business that is closing, ten more are surviving. So, relax, focus and get smart about how to navigate the tough times. You may find you wind up doing even better than before."

Jim Muehlhausen CPA, JD graduated from Valparaiso University with a B.S. in Accounting, passing the CPA exam while still in college. While subsequently attending the Indiana University School of Law, he became the youngest franchisee in Meineke Discount Muffler history (1987-1991).

Colleges press on with fundraising

Tea Party in El Cajon

Diedrea Lewis

After several years as a stay-at-home mom with three young children, Vicki Watkins faced the prospect of going back to work after a marital split.

She struggled at first to make ends meet with a near-minimum-wage job as a retail clerk, and then decided with some trepidation to return to school. At Cuyamaca College, she found the support she needed – an on-campus job and financial aid, including a $1,000 Osher scholarship, made possible by donations and matching dollars from the Bernard Osher Foundation.

"I am not sure where I would be in my life right now if I wouldn't have met such caring and encouraging people that I have met here at Cuyamaca," said Watkins, who will be graduating in June and transferring to San Diego State University in the fall as an accounting major. "Being that I am a single mother of three children, the Osher scholarship has helped relieve some of my financial hardship that I have faced by returning to school. It has also helped bring my family closer together by having the extra money to do the little things that make my kids smile."

The June 30 deadline is approaching for the California Community Colleges Scholarship Endowment, a statewide $100 million fundraising drive that will forever provide $1,000 annual Osher scholarships to community college students like Watkins. Both Grossmont and Cuyamaca colleges report exceeding their initial fundraising goals, with their foundations collectively raising nearly $800,000. They vow to continue till the clock runs out.

With the Osher match, $1.2 million is available to fund 60 Osher scholarships each year in perpetuity at Grossmont and Cuyamaca. Each scholarship represents a $13,500 donation with a $6,500 match from the Osher Foundation.

The fundraising goals – based on each college's enrollment – were established three years ago as the maximum amounts eligible for matching by the Osher Foundation. The cap was lifted this year, and the San Francisco-based foundation will match whatever money the colleges can raise.

Although community college fees are low, they have been climbing as the state's budget woes have worsened and other costs such as gas and books have also been on the rise. These scholarships to the neediest students can mean the difference between continuing their education and having to forego dreams of bettering their lives.

"With the state budget crisis translating into sharp reductions in class offerings, it's taking longer for students to finish college," said Cindy L. Miles, chancellor of the Grossmont-Cuyamaca Community College District. "That, coupled with a challenging job market, makes the Osher scholarship all the more valuable to our students. The Osher Foundation's donation is the single largest gift to a community college system in the nation and represents a strong endorsement of the work that we do, from workforce training to preparing students to transfer to four-year schools."

Judy Garrett, vice president of the Cuyamaca College Foundation and a member of the Grossmont College Foundation, and her husband, Governing Board President Bill Garrett, have donated

The Watkins family: Evelyn, 6; Jordan, 7; and Caina, 12, seated with their mom, Vicki.

$40,500 to fund three Osher scholarships – two for Grossmont and one for Cuyamaca colleges. Rudolph & Sletten, a construction contractor on several of the colleges' new buildings that have gone up in recent years, has donated funds for three Osher scholarships. Samuel Ciccati, who served as president of Cuyamaca College from 1984 to 1993, also funded three scholarships.

"We believe so much in the importance of the Osher scholarships," Judy Garrett said. "For some students, the scholarship can make the difference that enables them to continue their education and sets them on a path for success."

Grossmont College student and Osher scholar Diedrea Lewis said the scholarship has helped with the myriad incidental costs of attending school.

"In addition to books, it's helped pay for computer software, the ink cartridges to print my homework, transportation, the batteries for my tape recorder – just your basic school supplies – it all costs money," she said.

The scholarship endowment will give top priority to students with the greatest financial need. To be considered, students must have completed 24 units toward their degree, be enrolled in at least six units, and qualify for the California Community Colleges Board of Governors fee waiver.

"This is a once-in-a-lifetime gift opportunity for our students today and those to come," said Ernie Ewin, executive director of the Grossmont College Foundation. "We do not want to leave any dollars on the table. We are driving till midnight on June 30th. We would love for the public to support our efforts as a 50 percent match applies to all we raise."

For information on donating to the colleges' Osher funds, go to www.grossmont.edu/foundation/ and www.cuyamaca.edu/foundation/.

Tea Party held in the Prescott Promenade in El Cajon. Photo credit: Chuck Karaszia

by Chuck Karaszia

A tea party was organized and took place last weekend in El Cajon. The coalition group Tax Enough Already (TEA) rallied their constituents and interested residents at the Prescott Promenade on a sunny Saturday afternoon.

TEA rallied to inform the public about some issues at the local, state, and federal levels; , and to educate and motivate the local citizens on the eve of what they call "a huge election." Fielding questions and supplying ideas about the current debt situation, supporting smaller government and keeping taxes down were some of the topics they discussed.

U.S. Representative Duncan D. Hunter (Alpine) one of the elected officials in attendance shared his views on several topics including the budget. He expressed his desire not to raise the debt ceiling. He also shared to the audience his vote not to shut down the government which he felt could jeopardize the military.

When the rally ended the Tea Party organizers encouraged everyone in attendance to stay engaged and focused for the any upcoming election.

Inspiration

When trouble comes knocking, don't answer the door

Rev. James L. Snyder

For as long as I can remember, I have always looked forward to Monday. Throughout the years there have been very few Mondays that I have missed, although there are some Mondays I miss. After a long weekend of labor, I enjoy the slow pace that Monday brings with it. I can sleep in as long as I want, do anything my little heart desires and just simply enjoy the day.

It is the one day of the week when the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and Yours Truly can just take it easy and enjoy the day together. Sometimes we enjoyed the day together and sometimes we enjoy the day going our separate ways. Usually, my way goes by the bakery to sample a freshly baked Apple Fritter. As an Apple Fritter connoisseur, I need to constantly study and keep up-to-date on the world of Apple Fritters. Since this is not on my wife's diet, I save her the awkwardness and only go there when I am by myself. It is not that I am trying to hide it; I am just thinking of her.

Lately, something has been messing with my Mondays. In fact, it is becoming a little bit to the point that I am about to mark Mondays off my calendar. Then see what Monday will think of that.

It began several weeks ago. It was a Monday afternoon and I needed to visit someone in the hospital. Usually I do not do this sort of thing on a Monday, but sometimes you have to do what you do not normally do. I went to the parking place and discovered there was only one parking slot, which was just as I went in through the gate. It was a tight squeeze, but I finally got my truck parked. Everything seemed in good order.

After making my hospital visit, I returned to my truck to leave. I knew I was in a tight spot but, after all, I have been driving since Henry Ford said,

"Let's take this buggy for a spin." With the care that years of experience have afforded me, I backed out of my parking space and just as I did, I heard something crack. I pulled forward and much to my chagrin, I had backed into the gate and broke it in half.

I parked my truck and went into the hospital to turn myself in to the hospital guards. They came out, looked at the damage and discovered I had broken the gate in two. After two hours of filling out paperwork, taking photos and generally standing around admiring the damage, I was free to go home. It was late Monday afternoon and I was ready to call it a day. Oh, what a day it was.

It took me almost a week to recover from that. On the following Monday I got up as usual to enjoy the pleasantries of the day. It was late in the afternoon and I was at a small strip mall to do a little shopping. I went in to a West Indian store to buy an ice-cold soda. It was one of those hot days begging for a cool drink.

I got my soda out of the refrigerator and went to the counter to pay for it.

I greeted the young woman behind the counter, we exchanged a few pleasantries and then I crossed the line. I do not often cross the line, but for some reason I did. I asked her how her day was going. I should note that this is an absolute no-no, especially on Monday.

"Oh," she said with a cheerful bounce, "this has been a wonderful day. Nothing has gone wrong today and I'm most grateful for that."

I should not have done it, but I did it without thinking. I smiled at her and said, "I sure am glad for you." I then handed her a dollar to pay for my soda. She opened the door to give me a quarter change and as she did, she pulled the entire money drawer out of the register and everything went all over the floor.

All I could say was "keep the change." I could have waited around for her to collect the money and put it all back into the register drawer but then, what more damage would I cause in that store in the meantime? The best part of valor at that point was to vamoose.

And, vamoose I did, valiantly.

How well I remember the time when I looked forward to those carefree Mondays. Now, I go to bed Sunday night with a certain level of apprehension for what the next day will bring forth. My Mondays are not quite as carefree and peaceful as they used to be.

I remember what my father used to tell me. "Son, when trouble comes a knocking, don't answer the door." At the time, I had no idea what he was talking about, but now, after several Mondays of what some might call misfortune, I am beginning to understand what he meant.

I have something new to look forward to, "Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God" (Hebrews 12:2 KJV).

No apprehension here at all.

Dear Dr. Luauna

Dear Readers,

I have done everything imaginable wrong, I know I can never be forgiven. I feel worthless, guilty, and tormented in my mind. Why should I even try to change? Signed, What's the Use

Dear What's the Use,

I want you to know that you are a perfect candidate for forgiveness. Jesus came and gave His life to wash away every sin, every wrong we have done. Matthew 9:12-13, "When Jesus heard that, He said to them, 'Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick.' But go and learn what this means, I desire mercy and not sacrifice; for I did not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." Jesus came to call sinners to change, to feel remorse for their wrongs. That is repentance.

Jesus also hung on the cross between two criminals, though they were rightly deserving of death, Jesus had forgiveness on His mind. Luke 23:39-43, "Then one of the criminals who were hanged blasphemed Him, saying, 'If You are the Christ, save Yourself and us.' But the other answering rebuked him, saying, 'Do you not even fear God, seeing you are under the same condemnation? And we indeed justly, for we receive the due reward of our deeds; but this Man has done nothing wrong.' Then he said to Jesus, 'Lord, remember me when You come into Your kingdom.' And Jesus said to him, 'Assuredly, I say to you, today you will be with Me in Paradise.'"

You may be surprised to know many people feel the same way you do. That is why we need a Savior. Jesus loves you and has a wonderful plan for your life. When you come to Him in sincerity and confess your wrongs to Him, He will forgive you and help you change. Jesus will give you a new life in Him and the strength to overcome your past. 2 Corinthians 5:17, "Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; old things have passed away; behold, all things have become new." Jesus changed my life drastically. What He did for me, He can do for you.

The Bible, Through the Eyes of a Child part 2

Here's the version of the stories of the Bible if they were to be told by a child.

Noah

The next important person was Noah. He was a really good guy, but one of his kids was a Ham. Noah built a big boat in his back yard and put his family and a lot of animals in it. He asked his neighbors to join them, but they said they would have to take a rain check.

Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and Joseph

Next were Abraham, his son Isaac and his grandson Jacob. Esau was Jacob's brother, but Jacob was more famous because Esau sold him his birthmark for some pot roast. Jacob had a son, Joseph. Joseph wore a really loud sports coat.

Moses

Moses was the next important man. His real name was Charlton Heston. Moses led the Israel lights out of Egypt because of the bad Pharaoh. God sent ten plagues on the Egyptians. Some of the plagues were mice, frogs, bugs, lice and no cable.

Every day in the desert, God fed the Israel lights some man-cotti. He gave them His "Top Ten" commandments. They were things like: don't lie, don't cheat, don't dance, don't smoke, don't covet your neighbor's stuff (whatever that means). He also told them to humor their fathers and mothers.

For Health's Sake

Can we prevent everyday conflicts? Learn how to stop them from ruining your life

It starts in the morning with the kids before you go to work, then kicks into second gear with your co-workers or your boss, and finally culminates at home with your spouse and children. It's conflict, and it doesn't have to be a part of your daily life, according to Tim Scudder, CEO of an international firm that prepares top companies and their executives on how to better deal with the conflict in the workplace.

He said that recent research suggests that the top reason why people leave their jobs is because of a poor relationship with their immediate supervisors. Conflict, both at work and at home, can actually be an opportunity to resolve long-standing issues and help people lead more fulfilling and productive lives. The secret is understanding the five keys to conflict and how to move them forward toward the final step – resolution.

"The key to managing conflict isn't just about pushing them to resolution, but also to learn how to have nicer conflicts," said Scudder, CEO of Personal Strengths USA and co-author of Have a Nice

Conflict: A Story of Finding Success and Satisfaction in the Most Unlikely Places (www.haveaniceconflict.com). "As one set of conflicts is resolved, others will take their place, so it's important to learn how to make conflicts productive and positive experiences, instead of allowing them to distract us from our goals and disrupt our lives."

Scudder's five keys to conflict include:

- Anticipate - Anticipating conflict starts with knowing who you're dealing with. Then ask yourself how various people might view the same situation differently. When two or more people see things differently, there is the potential for conflict. If you can figure that out, you have a good shot at steering clear of it.

- Prevent - Preventing conflict is really all about the deliberate, appropriate use of behavior in your relationships. A well-chosen behavior on your part can prevent conflict with another person. But you need to prevent conflict in yourself sometimes too, and that might have more to do with choosing your perceptions than choosing your behaviors.

- Identify - There are three basic approaches in conflict: rising to the challenge, cautiously withdrawing, or wanting to keep the peace. When you can identify these approaches in yourself or others, you are empowered to handle the situation more productively.

- Manage - Managing conflict has two components: managing yourself and managing the relationship. Managing conflict is about creating the conditions and empowering them to manage themselves out of the emotional state of conflict. It's also about managing yourself out. Managing yourself in conflict can be as easy as taking some time to see things differently.

- Resolve - To create movement toward resolution we need to show the other person a path back to feeling good about themselves. When they feel good about themselves, they are less likely to feel threatened and are free to move toward a compromise and resolution.

"Unresolved or poorly managed conflict costs companies in ways they can't even calculate," he added. "Lost institutional memory, low productivity, bad morale, high turnover all cost real companies real dollars. On the other hand, well-managed conflict can not only prevent all those losses, but it can also promote higher productivity and a stronger bottom line. So, the end result will not only be fewer conflicts, but also nicer ones with positive results."

Laughter is the Best Medicine

No one is available

A Mississippi man was going to bed when his wife told him that he'd left the light on in the shed. He opened the door to go turn off the light but saw there were people in the shed in the process of stealing things.

He immediately phoned the police, who asked "Is someone in your house?" and He said no and explained the situation. Then they explained that all patrols were busy, and that he should simply lock his door and an officer would be there when available.

"Okay," he said and hung up, counted to 30, and phoned the police again.

"Hello, I just called you a few seconds ago because there were people in my shed. Well, you don't have to worry about them now because I've just shot them all."

Then he hung up. Within five minutes three squad cars, an Armed Response unit, and an ambulance showed up. Of course, the police caught the burglars red-handed.

One of the policemen said "I thought you said that you'd shot them!"

"I thought you said there was nobody available!" the man replied.

2011 Hyundai Sonata Hybrid

by Dave Stall

Gas prices keep climbing and I don't see an end to the insanity, we are addicted to gasoline. What to do? Turn to the auto manufactures for the answer, well Hyundai is one company that is listening to the screaming consumers. The test vehicle this week is one of my favorites. Why? Because of the vehicle warranty, 5-year 100,000 mile New Vehicle Warranty, 10-year 100,000 mile Powertrain Warranty, 10-year 100,000 mile Hybrid System Components Warranty, seven year Unlimited-mile Anti-perforation Warranty and last but not least five year Unlimited Roadside Assistance. That in itself should convince consumers this is a great deal. Hyundai has added comfort and styling to sweeten the package by adding standard features like Electronic Stability Control, Traction Control, Abs Braking, Electronic Brake Force Distribution, Brake Assist, air bags up front, curtain air bags down the sides, crumple zones surrounding the occupants, Active Head Restraints, Seat-belt Pre-tensioners, and Tire Pressure Monitor. That is the safety side of Hyundai, now to the comfort side. Seating is very comfortable with included power driver seat with power lumbar adjustments, (no big knob to turn), center console with plenty of storage and connectivity for cell phones, I-pods, etc., keyless entry with touch handle opening, the dash is driver friendly, a 4.2-inch LCD trip computer and Hybrid Technology display back lit in vibrant blue to enhance the Hybrid features, a center dash information center that will keep drivers going green and fuel mileage will reflect what is on the dash, 35 mpg in the city and 40 mpg on the open road all with regular fuel. I must add this bit of information before I continue on with this review. At the end of 2010 I was invited to a press event with Hyundai previewing the Sonata Hybrid, part of the press event was a mileage contest. How many miles can be squeezed out of a Hyundai Hybrid? Well I won the contest by racking up 51.7 mpg from Julian to Torrey Pines Inn in Del Mar! Yes I had to work at it but anyone can by changing a few driving habits.

Back to the review, other comfort features are steering wheel controls, headlights with led accents, side mirror turn signal indicators, front led fog lights, dual automatic temperature controls with rear seat vents. The sound system was great, AM/FM/XM/CD/MP3 with six well placed speakers, and integrated Blue Tooth.

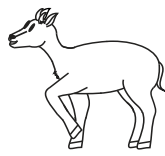

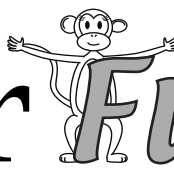

Hyundai is great choice for the hard working families that want to give back and help keep America green. Hybrid vehicles may not be the total answer but it is the best of what we have today. At a base price of $25,795 plus tax and license, a great warranty how could consumers go wrong? The end price on this Venetian Red Pearl Sonata was $26,650 which included freight and one option, floor mats!

My suggestion is to drive one and make the choice!

The Human League, with special guests Men Without Hats, will appear in concert at Viejas Casino's DreamCatcher Thursday, September 1, 2011.

The Human League is a highly-acclaimed British pop band. Formed in 1977, they've sold more than 20 million records worldwide and have had 10 #1 singles in the U.K. and two in the U.S., including the chart-topping "Don't You Want Me" from their triple-platinum DARE album, released in 1981. The group's latest studio album, CREDO was released in March, 2011.

Men Without Hats, a Canadian New Wave group from Montreal, Quebec, released their debut album, RHYTHM OF YOUTH in 1982. The album included the single "The Safety Dance," which became a major hit, peaking at #3 on the U.S. charts in 1983 and is considered one of the biggest synth pop hits of the new wave era. In 1987 they had another success with, "Pop Goes the World." Their next album, THE

ADVENTURES OF WOMEN & MEN WITHOUT HATE IN THE 21ST CENTURY, released in 1989, featured a cover of ABBA's song "SOS."

Due to unfortunate circumstances in the late 90s the group decided to break up releasing their final album NO HATS BEYOND THIS POINT in 2003. In September 2010, lead singer and front man Ivan Doroschuk reformed Men Without Hats, with three hired backup musicians, and appeared at the Rifflandia Music Festival in Victoria, British Columbia, performing ten songs from the Men Without Hats back catalogue.

Viejas Outlets is a huge draw for East County residents seeking shopping, eating and entertainment venues. Since its inception the Outlets have continued to re-invent themselves for the betterment of the community. With those ideas at the forefront of the Viejas Tribe's decisions, the addition of a mini-golf course is in the final stages of construction in the park area at the Outlets. A 'soft opening' for Viejas Mini Golf will take place this Saturday, May 28, with an official Grand Opening planned for Father's Day Weekend.

"Over the years our concept has changed, and we are now looking for more things guests can do in addition to shopping," said Peter M. Cortese, the General Manager of Viejas Outlets and the VP of Property Management. "We have proved that on a couple of different endeavors like the Viejas Ice Rink."

The Outlet Center started with a smaller version of the ice rink and because it was so successful, drawing in more than 15,000 people in the holiday season, they recently doubled the rink size. Visitors to the rink now average about 33,000 in that same time period. Other entertainment venues at the Center include the show court's interactive fountain, fun zone arcade and Viejas bowling alley.

"We've had some great success with these entertainment pieces," Cortese said. "East County is starving for family-friendly things to do, and the Center Outlets live for families, kids and shoppers. That's why they come here."

As concerts eventually went away Cortese and his team needed to figure out what to do in that space to encourage families to stay longer, move around the park, have fun yet still be cost effective considering the current economy.

"We discussed a bunch of ideas, and from a cost perspective the mini-golf idea became very attractive," he said. "We know the ice rink is very successful, so after thinking about miniature golf, we started researching modular type mini-golf course set ups."

The modular mini-golf course is from Mini-Golf, Inc. in Pennsylvania. Joseph Rogari, co-owner and VP of marketing, said the company has been in business since 1981. "We've placed these modulars in outdoor and indoor family fun centers, more than 50 foreign countries, private home yards and some east coast casinos," he said. "Viejas is our first west coast casino."

Prefabricated holes in the modular system allow for easier removal to replace it with the ice rink. Plans are to have the mini-golf course open around Easter every year and close around September 30 to allow time for the ice rink to open around the second week of November. It closes after the New Year holiday. Newly added to the center is a new ramp that parallels the Nautica store space. It is ADA accessible and will serve as the entry to the ice rink. Prices for mini-golf play are: $8 for adults, $6 for children (12 and under), $6 for seniors and military (ID required), $4 for replay.

"We found that the Viejas Ice Rink and Bowl really clicked with family demographics so Viejas Mini Golf is another win-win for the retailers and East County families looking for other things to do," said Robert Scheid, Viejas Public Relations Director, Viejas Tribal Government, Casino & Enterprises.

Cortese said Viejas likes to be a part of the East County community. "A lot of the reasons we do these types of things is because we want families to feel at home here. Our visitors are very important to us, and I think the Outlet stores work well for everyone. It's a good safe haven for kids — is well protected, and a beautiful environment. We're proud of that."

New 'Pirates' film has some problems

Review by Diana Saenger

There's nothing more exciting for movie fans than to anxiously await the next chapter in a hot film franchise. Enter Pirates of the Caribbean: On Stranger Tides, the fourth adventure in the love affair with pirate rascal Captain Jack Sparrow. Unfortunately, there's nothing more disappointing than when that balloon of expectation bursts.

I saw this film in 3D, which was a big frustration for me. At first glance – and all the way through with those obnoxious 3D glasses on – I thought the movie was in black and white. On Stranger Tides comes across with a dark tone to it, so much so there are scenes that appear to be shadows moving about rather than characters in a film. Adults don't like these glasses, and kids rarely keep them on. Unless fans are watching a cute children's movie like Despicable Me where things seem to jump out from the screen, 3D seems more of a nuisance than a pleasure. Did we really need to see a 3D cupcake in On Stranger Tides?

Okay, on with the plot. There actually is one in this film, and it involves a race to get to the Fountain of Youth. When England's King George (Richard Griffiths) receives word about Captain Jack Sparrow (Johnny Depp) being in town and looking for a new crew to voyage to the Fountain of Youth, he wants that treasure himself. The King hires Barbossa (Geoffrey Rush) – now with a peg leg – to find a crew and arrive there before Sparrow.

Other people, too, want to find this mythical fountain. In fact there's a Jack Sparrow imposter in town also trying to raise a crew for the adventurous voyage. What's a pirate movie without a few swashbucklers in a well-choreographed sword fight? And that's exactly where Sparrow meets his imposter. Only to his surprise it's not a he, but the lovely Angelica (Penelope Cruz). Apparently, by their banter they've had a previous relationship. For example, "What were you doing in a Spanish convent, anyway?" Angelica asks – and Sparrow answers, "Mistook it for a brothel. Honest mistake."

It seems Angelica wants to find this fountain of youth to offer her infamous father Blackbeard (Ian McShane) a few more years to do his devilish deeds. So Blackbeard's gang kidnaps Sparrow to lead them to the fountain according to his map. On occasion Sparrow and Angelica have run-ins but as equally engaging as Cruz is in the role, there's no chemistry between them, so their relationship remains a mystery as well as unfulfilling. McShane appears too laid back for Blackbeard's history. Barbossa, who was a truly entertaining character in The Curse of the Black Pearl, is also dumbed down in this story.

Even Sparrow is very non-active, mostly showing up with the same facial expressions in each scene and a far tamer personality than in the franchise's previous films.

I believe this is due to the script by Ted Elliott and Terry Rossio and direction by Rob Marshall (who excelled with Chicago) rather than because of the performances.

To me, the most interesting characters here are one of the mermaids and her champion. Syrena (Astrid Berges-Frisby) is not quite like her flesh-biting sisters when around the spiritual Philip (Sam Claflin), who tries to keep her alive when she's captured. These two have far more chemistry than Sparrow and Angelica.

Young kids definitely don't get this movie. Most in the screening I attended talked throughout the entire film. The few clever one-liners flew right over their heads; there's nothing about the plot they understand; and the almost-horror like scenes with the vampire-like mermaids are too frightening.

Naturally, many moviegoers interested in catching up on the latest Pirates of the Caribbean saga or ones who just want to see Johnny Depp, will opt to see On Stranger Tides in the theater. But because watching it in 3D is like trying to eat your dinner with a sheet of plastic wrap over the food, I suggest checking out the 2D version. How I wish the film could have featured as much color as Disney's photographer Peter Mountain captured in the movie's press photos!

'Bridesmaids' holds its own

Previews by Marilyn Forstot

Chick flick. Not really. Bridesmaids has enough gross and raunchy scenes to hold its own against the best of the male buddy films. That's not to say that women won't enjoy it, too. They will. Kristen Wiig, Maya Rudolph, Rose Byrne and Melissa McCarthy make the downside of bridesmaid-hood look like, well, the downside.

Annie (Wiig) is going through a really bad time. Her bakery went belly-up. She's working in a jewelry store to earn enough money to pay the rent to her weird roommate so that she won't have to move in with her mother (Jill Clayburgh). Her sometimes lover (Jon Hamm) is a jerk, but he's all she's got. And now, to add insult to injury, her best friend Lillian (Rudolph) is getting married. As if that's not enough, she now has a rival for best friendship with Lillian's fiancée's boss's wife, Helen (Byrne). Rich, beautiful, and competitive, Helen upstages Annie at every turn, from planning the bridal shower to choosing the bridesmaid's dresses. Annie finally wins a round, selecting a restaurant for lunch, which leads to the funniest, grossest scenes in the film.

After choosing Helen's idea for a bachelorette wingding in Las Vegas over Annie's more mundane suggestions and the fight-club theme espoused by the groom's sister Megan (Melissa McCarthy), the girls get on a plane. Annie isn't a happy flyer. Helen gives her a tranquilizer which Annie supplements with booze, and soon Annie is flying without a plane. The scene is funny, over the top, and clearly offers co-screenwriter Wiig the opportunity to show of her estimable talents. This particular adventure doesn't end happily for the women who are sent home in disgrace on a bus.

It's not all bad for Annie, because along the way she meets state trooper Rhodes (Chris O'Dowd) who is a wonderful, calm foil playing against Annie's manic behavior. She also gets to know Megan, who, with her brashness and crudeness is in many ways, the bridesmaid with the most sense.

Bridesmaids is laugh-out-loud funny with many clichés but some surprises too.

Could your cat or dog have Diabetes? — Symptoms to look for Diabetes in humans is a well-known epidemic in the United States, but few pet owners realize the disease can also affect their pets. In fact, diabetes is growing among cats and dogs. If the diabetes is not managed, cats and dogs could be at higher risk for recurrent infections and other diabetes-related conditions, such as nervous system disorders and blindness in dogs.

Diabetes can result when the pancreas does not produce enough insulin or the body is unable to use the insulin produced. Because of this, the body's cells do not properly use glucose (or sugar), resulting in elevated levels of glucose in the blood. Cats and dogs with diabetes typically exhibit one or more common symptoms of the disease. By paying attention to changes in their pet's behavior, pet owners can work with their veterinarians to ensure their pets receive the treatment they need to properly manage diabetes. These symptoms may include:

1. More Frequent Urination. The kidneys flush excess glucose into the urine using water. The pet will urinate more often as the kidneys work to reduce the elevated blood sugar associated with diabetes.

2. Excessive Thirst. Similar to humans, diabetic cats and dogs will drink more water than usual due to the increased urination as the kidneys work to reduce excess glucose in the body.

3. Increased Appetite Despite Weight Loss. Cells use glucose to produce energy. Without enough insulin, cells cannot use glucose as a source of energy. The cells "starve" and signal the pet to eat more. Most diabetics have increased hunger, but it is important to be aware that diabetic pets can become so ill that their appetite will go away and the pet will stop eating.

4. Weakness or Fatigue. Diabetic dogs and cats are frequently dehydrated and their bodies are not properly using glucose for energy. As a result, diabetic pets are often lethargic and tend to sleep more than usual.

Cats and dogs that exhibit one or more of the common symptoms should see a veterinarian, who can diagnose and help manage their disease. This may include helping pet owners set up a home-monitoring program with a blood glucose monitor specifically designed for cats and dogs, such as AlphaTRAK® Blood Glucose Monitoring System. With an early diagnosis and dedicated adherence to a veterinarian's treatment plan, a dog or cat with diabetes can be managed.

Taking care of a pet's health may be easier than many people realize.

Sweetie Pie: A Little Girl with a Big Heart! ID: 60549

Sweetie Pie is an adorable 1-year-old Chihuahua with lots of love to share. This special girl came to the San Diego Humane Society as a stray and has shown her big heart from the very beginning. She can't wait to find a family to cherish. When Sweetie Pie first arrived at the Humane Society she was initially timid around people. She spent some time in a foster home receiving lots of love and tender care, and soon began showing her appreciation and desire for human companionship. Today Sweetie Pie's foster mom says that she loves to cuddle at home with her people friends. She's an absolute snuggle-bug who follows her companions around the house and enjoys being by their side. While Sweetie Pie can still be initially shy with people, she warms up as she gets to know them better and eventually loves their attention. Sweetie Pie is great with other dogs and may benefit from living with another dog in the home. Her vibrant personality shines when socializing with her canine pals and especially during games of fetch. A description of Sweetie Pie would not be complete without mentioning her sense of humor! She is a silly and goofy dog at times who seems to enjoy making her people friends smile. She dances, chases after balls and toys and leans in for affection often...an ever-surprising source of joy and entertainment. Due to her initial shyness with new faces and places, she will do best in an adults-only home. Sweetie Pie will do well with other dogs (especially those her size) and cats in the home. Her adoption fee is $105 and includes her spay, current vaccinations, permanent microchip identification, certificate for a free veterinary exam, and more! If you would like to meet Sweetie Pie or learn more about this amazing girl, please contact our North Campus Customer Service at (760) 757-4357.

Can you find room in your heart and home for sweet Daisy? To meet Daisy, visit the County Animal Shelter at 5480 Gaines Street, or for more information call 858-205-9974. Her $69 adoption fee includes license, vaccinations, microchip, and spay.
