4TH OF JULY

This Fourth of July: Confirm thy soul in self-control

by Dr. Paul Kengor

I encourage you to set aside the burgers and dogs and soda and beer for a moment this Fourth of July and contemplate something decidedly different, maybe even as you gaze upward at the flash of fireworks. Here it is: Confirm thy soul in self-control.

What do I mean by that? Let me explain.

The founders of this remarkable republic often thought and wrote about the practice of virtue generally and self-control specifically, two things long lost in this modern American culture of self. Thomas Jefferson couldn't avoid a reference to one of the cardinal virtues—prudence—in our nation's founding document, the Declaration of Independence, which, incidentally, ought to be a must-read for every American every Fourth of July (it's only 1,800 words). Our first president and ultimate Founding Father, George Washington, knew the necessity of governing one's self before a nation's people were capable of self-governance. As Washington stated in his classic Farewell Address, "Tis substantially true, that virtue or morality is a necessary spring of popular government."

A forgotten philosopher who had an important influence on the American Founders was the Frenchman, Charles Montesquieu, whose work included the seminal book, The Spirit of the Laws (1748). Montesquieu considered various forms of government. In a tyrannical system, people are prompted not by freedom of choice or any expression of public virtue but, instead, by the sheer coercive power of the state, whether by decree of an individual despot or an unaccountable rogue regime. That's no way for human beings to live. There's life under such a system, yes, but not much liberty or pursuit of happiness; even life itself is threatened.

Montesquieu concluded that the best form of government is a self-governing one, and yet it is also the most difficult to maintain because it demands a virtuous populace. As noted by John Howard—the outstanding senior fellow at the Howard Center for Family, Religion, & Society—Montesquieu noted that each citizen in a self-governing state must voluntarily abide by certain essential standards of conduct: lawfulness, truthfulness, honesty, fairness, respect for the rights and well-being of others, obligation to one's spouse and children, to name a few.

"Each new generation must be trained to be responsible citizens ... to be virtuous and conscientious," writes Howard in The St. Croix Review. "Once the free society is well-established, the daily life of the family and the society is such that becoming virtuous is not a monstrous chore for the young people."

Sadly, becoming virtuous has indeed become a monstrous chore in a society not only lacking virtue but eschewing virtue—fleeing virtue like a vampire fleeing a cross. Living life in a good way—what Benedict Groeschel calls The Virtue Driven Life—becomes so alien that the people prefer darkness over light. When virtues are not taught—whether at home, at school, or by America's educator-in-chief, the TV set—they become unknown and ignored and unfulfilled, desiccated and dead upon the national landscape.

And perhaps saddest of all, as John Howard notes, virtue is something that can be acquired, like learning to speak a culture's language. Once inculcated, however, it needs to be continuously reinforced by the cultural elements of the society. Virtue needs nourished, like fruitful plants need water and sunlight. Says Howard emphatically: "I want to repeat.... Virtue must be continuously reinforced by the culture."

We Americans might not think about this much, but we actually sing it fairly often, even if the words don't sink in. Consider this line from one of our sacred political hymns, America, the Beautiful:

America, America,
God mend thine ev'ry flaw,
Confirm thy soul in self-control,
Thy liberty in law.

That's the ticket: Confirm thy soul in self-control. Our liberty is enshrined in our laws, but liberty should not be license for opportunities for the flesh. Our liberties, protected and permitted as they are, should not be exploited to do anything and everything we want, including things harmful to oneself, to one's family, to one's neighbors, to one's culture, to one's country. That misunderstanding and abuse of freedom is what Pope Benedict XVI calls a "confused ideology of freedom," one that can engender "the self-destruction of freedom" for others.

In truth, a genuine freedom requires responsibility. As the song says—and as Washington and Montesquieu intimated—we must successfully govern ourselves in order to successfully govern our nation.

It's a timeless concept worth remembering this Fourth of July and every day going forward.

Dr. Paul Kengor is professor of political science at Grove City College and executive director of The Center for Vision & Values. His books include "The Crusader: Ronald Reagan and the Fall of Communism," and the newly released "Dupes: How America's Adversaries Have Manipulated Progressives for a Century."

FIREWORKS

Fewer cities and businesses are presenting fireworks displays. The Gazette has taken the guess work out of finding the local displays for our readers:

El Cajon- Kennedy Park

9 p.m. The fun begins Monday at 12 noon with the annual 4th of July Picnic at Kennedy Park, followed by a spectacular fireworks show at 9 p.m. Kennedy Park, a "smoke and alcohol free" park, is located at 1675 East Madison Avenue in El Cajon.

El Cajon Police will have officers patrolling the park area to ensure a safe celebration! As always, please be careful and patient driving through this and all areas of fireworks, before, during and after the fireworks show. Watch for pedestrians and busy traffic conditions. Fireworks Safety

Fireworks during the Fourth of July are as American as apple-pie, but did you know that more fires are reported on that day than on any other day of the year in the United States? Nearly half of these fires are caused by fireworks. The good news is you can enjoy your holiday and the fireworks, with just a few simple safety tips:

PROCEED WITH CAUTION!

- !!! Leave fireworks to the professionals. Do not use consumer fireworks.
- !!! The safest way to enjoy fireworks is to attend a public display conducted by trained professionals.
- !!! After the firework display, children should never pick up fireworks that may be left over, they may still be active.

CONSUMER FIREWORKS

include sparklers and firecrackers. The tip of a sparkler burns at a temperature of more than 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit, which is hot enough to cause third-degree burns.

FACTS

- ❶ Each July Fourth, thousands of people, most often children and teens, are injured while using consumer fireworks.
- ❷ The risk of fireworks injury is more than twice as high for children ages 10-14 as for the general population.

— 4TH OF JULY —

The U.S. Fire Administration and Safe Kids USA encourage everyone to practice fire safety

The U.S. Fire Administration (USFA) and Safe Kids USA are encouraging families and individuals to prepare for a safe and memorable Fourth of July by practicing safe grilling and leaving the fireworks to the professionals.

"Independence Day is a major highlight of the summer and for many people there's a lot of excitement around setting off colorful fireworks and starting up the grill," said Deputy U.S. Fire Administrator Glenn Gaines. Meri-K Appy, President, Safe Kids USA joins Deputy Administrator Gaines in urging all Americans to have a fun and safe weekend. "We are reminding everyone of simple steps they can take to protect their children who are most vulnerable to fire-related burns, injuries, and deaths," says Appy.

Fireworks

Many children and adults are fascinated by fireworks, but they can be extremely dangerous. According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission's (CPSC) annual death and injury report (PDF, 325 Kb) on fireworks, approximately 40 percent of fireworks injuries occur to children younger than 15 years of age. In addition, CPSC received reports of three fatalities related to fireworks in 2010.

The best way to protect your family and friends is not to use any fireworks at home. Attend public fireworks displays and leave the lighting to the professionals.

Fireworks fire safety tips

- Sparklers are not toys.
- Keep, matches, lighters,

They can reach 2,000° Fahrenheit — hot enough to melt some metals.

- Leave pieces of fireworks on the ground after an event. Some may still be ignited and can explode.

- Stand several feet away from the professionals lighting fireworks; fireworks have been known to backfire or shoot off in the wrong direction.

For more information, please visit the USFA's Focus on Fire Safety: Fireworks webpage and Safe Kids USA at www.safekids.org.

Grilling

Every Fourth of July Americans look forward to picnics, camping, and other outdoor activities. The holiday, however, also brings fires and injuries due to outdoor cooking. By taking a few fire safety precautions, you can ensure that everyone enjoys a safe Independence Day.

Grilling fire safety tips

- Propane and charcoal BBQ grills must only be used outdoors. If used indoors, or in any enclosed spaces such as tents, they pose a fire hazard and a risk of exposing occupants to deadly carbon monoxide poisoning.

- Place the grill a safe distance from lawn games, play areas, and foot traffic. Grills should be positioned at least 10 feet away from siding, deck railing, and out from under eaves and overhanging branches.

and starter fluid out of the reach of children in a locked drawer or cabinet.

- Keep children and pets away from the grill area: declare a three-foot "kid-free zone" around the grill.

- Use long barbeque mitts and long-handled grilling tools to protect the chef from heat and flames when cooking.

- Periodically remove grease or fat buildup in trays below the grill so it cannot be ignited by a hot grill.

- For more information, please visit Safe Kids USA at www.safekids.org and the USFA's Focus on Fire Safety: Summer Fire Safety webpage.

Superintendent Halfaker moves on

During the past seven years the Lakeside School district and the community of Lakeside has enjoyed a very successful relationship with Lakeside Union School District Superintendent Stephen Halfaker. Halfaker made a name for himself as an accessible and hardworking Superintendent. Local events from the Stadium Association to the Chamber of Commerce were attended by Halfaker. It has been jokingly said, "Don't you ever go home Steve?"

The time has come when Halfaker has decided to move to the next phase of professional work which will give him the opportunity to spend more time with his family. Halfaker is looking forward to teaching at the college level and is interested in online teaching as another avenue of teaching. He has always encouraged kids to follow their passion and he will continue to do that. Steve Halfaker's love of the students and their possibilities will be missed.

The Superintendent serves at the pleasure of the school board of trustees. After a statewide search Brian Bristol E.D.D., who has been a Superintendent of Julian High School District and South Pasadena unified school District and is currently contracted with Apple Inc. has been appointed Superintendent to the Lakeside Union school District. Bristol's education includes a Doctorate in Educational and Organizational Leadership from USSD, Master Degrees in Educational Administration, 45 post graduate units in English and American Literature in addition to a B.S. Degree in communications with an emphasis in Public Relations. Bristol is serving as an adjunct professor with Cal State San Bernardino and Biola University as well as an advising professional to several universities on their teacher preparation programs and online learning.

Dr. Bristol will assume the role of Superintendent of Lakeside Union School District effective July 1, 2011..

learning to stretch, bend and even laugh at the El Cajon Library, 201 East Douglas Avenue, during weekly yoga classes. Every Thursday the library is offering Gentle Yoga at 2 p.m. and Laughter Yoga at 3 p.m. Classes are free, no prior experience is required and attendees are encouraged to wear comfortable clothes. The El Cajon Library has a wide selection of books and DVDs on yoga, available in both English and Spanish. Yoga originated in India and involves physical, mental and spiritual focus. The Gentle Yoga course is taught by Marianne West, who has 30 years of yoga experience and has worked with students of all ages and levels. The Laughter Yoga sessions are also taught by West, along with two other certified instructors:

"Yoga is a popular form of exercise that is known to help relieve stress," said library staff member Jenne Bergstrom. "Gentle Yoga is perfect for beginners of any age, and the saying that laughter is the best medicine can be experienced firsthand at Laughter Yoga."

Haute with Heart fashion show in August

The popular 34th annual Haute With Heart Fashion Show, benefiting St. Madeleine Sophie's Center in El Cajon, is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 20, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the Sheraton San Diego Hotel & Marina, 1380 Harbor Island Drive in San Diego. This year's theme is "Big Dreams, Blue Skies!" In addition to the fashion show, the Haute with Heart event will feature vendors, auctions, opportunity drawing prizes and music and dance performances from St. Madeleine Sophie's Center's students. All net proceeds from the event will make a difference in the lives of nearly 400 developmentally disabled adults within the San Diego region. For more information, call (619) 442-5129, ext. 115.

Kittens & cats available for adoption

If you are looking for a new pet, the El Cajon Animal Shelter is the perfect place to start your search! The shelter currently has a large population of cats and kittens available for adoption. In addition to adoptions, the shelter provides many services for the Cities of El Cajon and La Mesa. Be sure to check with shelter staff if you are searching for a lost pet in the event it has been recovered. Most important, consider having your dog micro-chipped with an I.D. to make it easier to find them should they ever become lost. Shelter hours are Tuesday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. for viewing the animals and closed for lunch from 1 to 2 p.m. The front office is open until 5:30 p.m. for licenses; and they are closed Sundays, Mondays and holidays. Stop by and adopt a new, loving pet for your family. Adoptions are $80 for both cats & dogs, and if you adopt a senior pet (over 8 years old) the adoption fee is $30. Dog and cat adoptions include a spayed or neutered pet, registered micro-chip, and up-to-date vaccinations. The shelter is located at 1275 N. Marshall in El Cajon, just two blocks north of Fletcher Parkway. For more information, call (619) 441-1580.

Inspiration

On pledging my allegiance

Rev. James L. Snyder

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and Yours Truly just finished supper and we were resting in the living room watching the TV news. Actually, my wife was watching the news while I was perusing a book. As far as I am concerned, nothing equals the relaxation of a good book after a good supper. My definition of a good book is the one I am reading at the time.

I had just settled into my book when I heard a groan coming from the other side of the room where my wife was setting. Thinking it was her just winding down after a busy day, I paid no attention to it.

Then I heard it again followed by, "I just cannot believe that!" Assuming she was talking to herself and not addressing me in particular, I ignored her and continued in my book.

Then she said, "Do you believe what they did?" When I looked at her, I discovered she was looking at me. The question was addressed to me. Not knowing what she was talking about I responded with my typical, "Huh?" Huh, as most people know, is short for "I have no idea what in the world you're talking about." This seems to be where I am most of the time.

Then my wife explained to me the story on the news. It seems, in some school somewhere, someone was objecting to standing and pledging allegiance to the American flag. My wife, and right she should be, was irritated at these people refusing to pledge their allegiance to the American flag.

"What in the world is wrong with these people?" she queried me. Then she went into her typical diatribe about how important it is to be a good citizen. "How can you call yourself an American," she continued, "and not want to salute the American flag?"

Well, I think she has a good point. I tried to go back to my book and she went back to watching the news but I could not get back into my book. I thought about all of these people objecting to pledging their allegiance to the American flag.

What is the big deal? What is their objection? Why are some people offended by the American flag? I think the biggest question I might ask, why do they want to live in America?

I am a firm believer in the First Amendment and the right of everybody to express his or her opinion. If people do not want to pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, that is their right. I just do not get it.

I would be the first to admit our country is not perfect. After all, we have politicians running this country. Even though there are things about this country that are not right and that I do not agree with all the time, I still pledge allegiance to the American flag, I still pray for our country and I pray for the president of the United States and all those in leadership positions.

I have thought further about these people refusing to pledge allegiance to the American flag and how inconsistent they are in their whole life.

For example, most of these people refusing to pledge allegiance to the flag will pledge allegiance to some credit card. They will sign up, gladly paid the fee, willingly accepts a high interest rate and then go on a spending spree. Every month they will salute and pledge allegiance to that credit card by sending in a check.

Others will pledge their allegiance to some mortgage company for their house. Month after month, these people pledge their allegiance to the mortgage company or the bank by writing out a hefty check, including interest and fees.

The same people will pledge allegiance to some car loan company in order to buy a new car. Month after month as regular as the sun rising in the morning, these people will pledge their allegiance to the car loan institution by sending them a check. By the time they have paid for a $20,000 automobile they will have given to the car loan institution $60,000. Of course, I could be a little wrong on my math, but not by much.

It seems a little amusing to me that the same people who object to pledging their allegiance to the American flag and who object to prayer in any public setting will pay their allegiance to the credit card company, the mortgage and loan company, and the auto loan institution with money that has printed on it in bold type, "In God we trust."

Let those who object to these things object to them but not in such a way as to hinder me from pledging my allegiance to the American flag. If you do not believe in prayer, fine, but do not force your unbelief on me. If there is no such thing as God, why are some people so upset when someone like me prays to God?

I go by the scriptural admonition, "I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; For kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty" (1 Timothy 2:1-2 KJV).

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America ...

Dear Dr. Luauna

Dear Dr. Luauna,

How do I get through this overwhelming battle in my head? One day I was walking down the street, I was attacked and raped. I went to the hospital, contacted the police and filed a report. A few years have gone but I am still so angry. Why me? Signed, Help

Dear Help,

I cannot find words to express how sorry I am for your violation. You did right by going to the hospital and reporting it. Why did this happen to you? You need to know this was not your fault. You were the victim of someone's demented, evil actions. I understand you are angry, and as hard as this may sound, your inner healing will come by forgiving. I will be praying for you as this may not seem fair, but unforgiveness will leave you in an invisible prison. There is healing and freedom for you.

Time is a healer, and our help is in Christ. He knows our hurts, betrayal, heartache and trials like no other. Jesus said in Matthew 11:28, "Come to Me, all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take My yoke upon you and learn from Me, for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls."

When the storms of life rage all around us so out of control, we must remember, Jesus is the only one who can calm the storms of our life. Jesus loves you and you are unique and special. He will give you strength, and you will mount up with wings like an eagle and you will run and not be weary, and you will walk and not faint, Isaiah 40:31.

A few years ago I went through a terrible surgery. An incision was made from one side of my tummy to the other. The pain was so unbearable and the wound so deep, I could barely stand straight. Today, it's just a scar. The pain is gone and the wound is healed. I promise if you will run to Jesus and lay all of this at the cross, God can use it for your stepping stone, not a stone of anger and regret. You can rise above this in God's strength. He will heal the deepest wound, the terrible pain, the horrific betrayal and the terrible loss. No problem is too hard for Jesus. He paid it all at the cross of Calvary. Again, I'm so sorry. Please come to church and grow in the goodness of our God.

East County gets new stylish Medical ID Bracelets

Shoppers at Albertsons stores in East San Diego County will notice something new and different at the pharmacy counter—a colorful, fun accessory that may also save your life or the life of someone you love. The stores have begun featuring a display of stylish, new medical ID bracelets and other medical ID jewelry that can be ordered online or by phone.

Medical ID bracelets and other jewelry are lifesavers—alerting caregivers immediately to medical conditions—but they only work if people are willing to wear them all the time. Until recently, lower-cost medical ID bracelets were available but were unattractive and “clunky” and particularly unappealing to children, teens and young adults.

Hope Paige Designs has introduced a series of inexpensive, bright, colorful rubber, mesh, crystal, bead, and rope designs to expand the choices available. The company also offers some more traditional styles, as well as pendant and “dog tag” jewelry options.

Each piece of Hope Paige medical ID jewelry carries the Medical Alert symbol and is customized at no additional charge with engraved information about the medical condition of the wearer. Medical ID jewelry is recommended for anyone who suffers from a range of conditions, such as diabetes, asthma, blood disorders, heart disease, and severe drug, food or insect allergies—in case he or she requires emergency medical care and is incapacitated and unable to explain his condition.

Hope Paige bracelets were featured in a recent Wall Street Journal article written by a reporter who had had a bone marrow transplant for leukemia. She found herself in a medical emergency situation requiring a transfusion and realized that, if she had been unconscious, she wouldn't have been able to tell doctors that she could only tolerate irradiated blood. She began to examine the newest options for medical ID jewelry.

Hope Paige Designs was founded in 2003 in West Conshohocken, Pennsylvania (a suburb of Philadelphia) by two women, Shelly Hope Fisher and Lisa Paige Hobyak who liked to make jewelry. One of their friends had a teenage daughter who had refused to wear the ugly, obtrusive medical alert bracelets that was the only type available at the time. Hope Paige designed a pretty, fashionable medical alert bracelet for the teen, which she is now happy to wear all the time.

Hope Paige has partnered with Ronald McDonald House Charities, the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, the Make-A-Wish Foundation, and other non-profits. Corporate customers include The Coca Cola Company and The McDonald's Corporation.

“Our company recognized the importance and lifesaving value of medical bracelets,” says Shelly Fisher. “That's why it was so important to create styles that people actually want to wear.”

The display can be seen and brochures obtained at the Albertsons stores in East San Diego County, or the jewelry can be ordered online at www.hopepaige.com/Sav-on or by calling (855) 210-8420.

Bedside manners.

Susie's husband had been slipping in and out of a coma for several months. Things looked grim, but she was by his bedside every single day. One day as he slipped back into consciousness, he motioned for her to come close to him. She pulled the chair close to the bed and leaned her ear close to be able to hear him.

“You know” he whispered, his eyes filling with tears, “you have been with me through all the bad times. When I got fired, you stuck right beside me. When my business went under, there you were. When we lost the house, you were there. When I got shot, you stuck with me. When my health started failing, you were still by my side. “And you know what?”

“What, dear?” she asked gently, smiling to herself.

“I think you're bad luck.”

Helix Charter High School SADD captures top award

SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) is proud to recognize Helix Charter High School SADD of La Mesa, California, with the 2011 SADD National Chapter of the Year Award presented by SADD President and Executive Director Penny Wells at the 2011 SADD National Conference Awards Banquet tonight in Chicago, Illinois, before more than 550 attendees. This award is given to the chapter with the most creative and comprehensive approach to realizing the SADD mission of promoting safe and healthy decision-making among youth.

"We are pleased to honor Helix Charter High for its impressive commitment to youth health and safety and a dynamic lineup of fun and engaging activities throughout the school year," remarked Wells. "Particularly impressive is the creativity and enthusiasm of their members, advisors, and supporters, and their outreach to the community and the region. We believe Helix can serve as an extraordinary example to SADD chapters across the country," added Wells.

Unique events were held each month representing a diverse range of prevention education strategies. These activities included multi-media presentations, safety belt surveys, awareness campaigns around texting and driving, and the initiation of a school-wide recycling campaign launched by grant funds the chapter received. As a first-place winner, Helix Charter High School SADD also receives a check from SADD for $500 to support its ongoing prevention efforts in the next school year.

"Helix developed a comprehensive and effective prevention program in a relatively short period of time," added Wells. "Helix is one of several chapters being supported by a unique corporate partnership program between SADD and DCH Auto Group, a leading automotive retail group with dealerships in California and metropolitan New York. DCH believes it can play a positive role in improving teen driver safety, and DCH employees have been working hand-in-hand with this chapter over the past two years. It's exciting to see the positive results when a group of talented and dedicated young people receive support and appreciation from caring adults, including committed business leaders. We hope other corporations will follow DCH's lead in investing in the youth of their communities."

The four-day SADD National Conference provided young people from across the country with innovative workshops about the latest prevention education strategies, motivational speakers addressing crucial topics, and an opportunity to share best practices and have fun. Conference sponsors included TOYOTA, DCH Auto Group, the Global Road Safety Foundation and its Decade of Action for Global Road Safety 2011-2020, and the FDA / Center for Tobacco Products.

SADD, the nation's leading peer-to-peer youth education, prevention, and activism organization, is committed to empowering young people to lead initiatives in their schools and communities. Founded in 1981, today SADD has thousands of chapters in middle schools, high schools, and colleges. SADD highlights prevention of many destructive behaviors and attitudes that are harmful to young people, including underage drinking, other drug use, risky and impaired driving, and teen violence and suicide. To become a Friend of SADD or for more information, visit sadd.org and parentteenmatters.org or follow SADD on Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, and YouTube.

Who can lead the economy to recovery? Not the GOP or the Dems, it's the CEOs

Mark Faust is tired of hearing politicians complain about President Obama, Obama complain about Congress and Congress complain about taxes when it comes to the stuttering economic recovery.

"The truth is that none of these people have that much to do with the growth of our economy," said Faust, founder of Echelon Management and author of Growth or Bust! Proven Turnaround Strategies to Grow Your Business (www.echelonmanagement.com). "Tax and monetary policy can influence growth, but the onus is on business leadership to take steps now. It's the leaders in business whose shoulders prop up the economy, and while they tend to be even more demonized than politicians these days, they are the ones who hold our economic salvation in their hands. The leaders of companies are on the front lines of an international economic war. Their chief strategy to fight this war must begin to encompass a mindset that includes a turnaround mentality to put every facet of American business into an accelerated growth mode. As in war, failure is not an option, and there is only one mission for business leadership at this time – growth."

Faust, who has consulted for many major blue-chip corporations such as Procter & Gamble, IBM, Monsanto, Apple, Syngenta, Bayer and John Deere, believes that business leaders have a far greater responsibility to Americans than any elected official, and now is the time to own up to that responsibility.

"The fate of the jobless, families and children are literally in the hands of business leadership," he added. "To not accelerate growth and innovation is to abandon those in dire need. Our C-level executives must begin to adopt the attitude that tolerating mediocrity in their leadership and growth is a sin. In a free market, the recession is a burden on the people, but a blessing to business, because it eradicates complacency, which is the opposite of innovation and true growth. It also destroys the enemy of growth and innovation: hubris and pride. It gleans the herd in business, which can sometimes have short-term ramifications for everyone, but in the long run it creates jobs, opens opportunity and strengthens the economy as a whole."

CEOs should be held responsible for their roles as leaders, more so than even politicians, according to Faust.

"CEOs and company presidents need to be held to the same type of productivity yardsticks that production and others are held to," he said. "However, rather than productivity, the yardstick boards of directors must use with top leadership is the rate of innovation being facilitated throughout a company. Cost cutting as the only means of growing profits is the tool of inept, derelict and uncreative leadership. When there is a consistent level of mediocre performance in the innovation of a company, the board has only one option with the CEO/President, to allow him to leave the position the same way he or she came into the position, fired with enthusiasm."

Since founding Echelon

Management in 1990, Mark Faust has consulted with hundreds of companies and spoken to hundreds of organizations on how to foster sales growth. He has interviewed and worked with Fortune 500 CEOs as well as many turnaround CEOs on growth and turnaround projects and many articles. Faust has worked with companies such as P&G, IBM, Monsanto, Apple, Syngenta, Bayer, John Deere, as well as smaller closely held organizations, government agencies and even non-profits. He has been an adjunct COO, VP of Sales, board member/advisor and an adjunct professor at the University of Cincinnati and Ohio University.

NFIB/CA statement about passage of Assembly Bill 135

America's leading small business association, released the following statement this week about the passage of Assembly Bill 135 (Hagman) out of the Senate Environmental Quality Committee.

"Small businesses in California are now one step closer to having a voice on the most powerful regulatory agency in The California Air Resources Board (CARB)," said John Kabateck, NFIB/CA Executive Director. "The CARB regulates goods transportation, energy costs, and manufacturing processes."

While some members of the CARB, both past and present may be small business owners, there is no statutory requirement that small business be represented on this board leaving small businesses without representation on one of the most significant regulatory entities in state government.

This bill has received broad bi-partisan support and NFIB's small business member owners have traveled to the State Capitol to testify as to the importance of the bill.

California small businesses compose approximately 98 percent of all businesses in the state. They employ over 50 percent of private sector employees and are responsible for three-quarters of all new jobs created. The impact of small business on California's economic success is nothing short of critical. AB 135 recognizes this concern and strengthens the voice of small business by designating that one of the eleven board members be a small business owner.

It's all about harmony and well-being at Home & Soul

Qigoung—the Chinese philosophy and practice of aligning breath, physical activity and awareness for mental, spiritual and corporeal health, as well as the development of human potential. Photo credit: Diana Saenger

by Diana Saenger

Walking into a business one rarely experiences a peaceful harmony and pleasant atmosphere. That's exactly the feeling that keeps customers of Home & Soul in El Cajon returning again and again. Perhaps some of this is attributed to the statue called Qigoung – which is the Chinese philosophy and practice of aligning breath, physical activity and awareness for mental, spiritual and corporeal health, as well as the development of human potential.

"It's like no other store I've found," said Christina Foster, a returning customer of 10 years. "I love the spiritual products and that there are some for all religions. I'm also hooked on the massages and psychic readings."

Theresa Favro has owned the building her store occupies for 10 years. Before Home & Soul she owned a candle shop and ladies resale shop. "Our inventory is very eclectic" she said. "We have a lot of some things like crystals, rocks, incense and teas. But we also carry other gift items and unique one-of-a-kind type things.

Lovely jewelry hangs from several spots around the large room. Crystal balls and ornate stones the size of bowling balls impress with their subtle uniqueness. Wall hangings make substantial statements perfect for home or office. There are greeting cards, tunics, and everything from stone crosses to unique metal ornaments. Occasionally there's a sidewalk special and once a month Home & Soul has an open house with different specials featured. The next open house is July 16.

"There's a reason myself and others wonder in here," said Joyce Eccher.

There's gentleness about Favro that resonates right along side her business aplomb that's evident by her long existence on Main Street in El Cajon. To offer complete physical and spiritual wellness, Favro rents out rooms for other business-related services.

Rev. Beatrice has assisted people for more than 25 years. A natural born psychic, teacher, clinical hypnotist and Theta Healer Teacher, she combines tools like the Tarot card and channeling Spirit in her personal readings of past, present and future. Beatrice works to change subconscious programs and empower one's life.

MOTOR AND SPORTS

2011 Hyundai Genesis Coupe R-Spec

by Dave Stall

Hundai has entered the motor sports arena with the 2011 Hyundai Genesis Coupe R-Spec with a 6-speed manual, 306 horsepower, 266 pound foot of torque, all it needs to finish the package is a turbo-charger or maybe a super-charger -- still a blast to drive. For $27,705 plus tax, license and freight how could anyone go wrong?

What really stands out is the styling, this car is bad to the bone. My tester was painted Bathurst Black with black interior, Brembo brakes at all four corners behind 19-inch custom allow wheels, calipers were painted red to accent the wheel package.

The interior is a basic Genesis Coupe, great leather wrapped seating, close gear ratio manual transmission, a center console that flows into the dash to give a waterfall look of the dash. All the controls are easy to reach, but I noticed there was no cruise control (I am a hyper-miler) but I was told by a buddy that R-Spec cars don't have cruise control, made sense!

Buyers get all the comforts they would want in an R-Spec vehicle plus handling, rear wheel drive, 5-link independent rear suspension, track suspension, under hood strut brace, and a Torsen limited slip differential.

Safety is a big issue with Hyundai, and the coupe comes with all the safety equipment needed to keep driver and passengers safe; electronic stability control, traction control, anti-lock brakes, electronic brake force distribution with brake assist, front air bags for the driver and passenger, side air bags, a curtain air bag, crumple zones surrounding the occupants and beams in the doors.

Even though it is a racer, it does have A/C, AM/FM/CD/MP3/Satellite Radio, keyless entry, multi information screen, power windows and door locks, trip computer, fog lights, steering wheel controls, and Blue Tooth. I have been testing my test cars to the adaptability of my smart phone. The Hyundai was flawless, it never dropped my call and drivers can turn up the smart phone by the volume knob on the Genesis radio.

This was a fun car to drive, and one can't beat the warranty: 5-year 60,000 bumper to bumper warranty, 10 year 100,000 mile powertrain warranty, 5-year unlimited mile roadside assistance warranty, not bad! Take one for a spin.

Padres on the verge

by Chuck Karaszia

Winning seven of eight games against two sizzling hot teams -- the Boston Red Sox at Fenway Park and the Atlanta Braves at Petco, the San Diego Padres are on the verge of turning their season around. The Padres have won their first series. They are pitching effectively, playing good defense (lead in double plays), and getting some timely hitting (especially from the bottom end of the lineup).

"There is no doubt the games in Boston gave us a good feeling overall of how we're playing," said Padres skipper Bud Black. "When you play franchises like the Red Sox and Yankees there's a tremendous upside. We proved we can play with the big boys. The fans can identify more with our players. There's momentum there. The players are starting to click in all facets. They're swinging better. The overall pitching is fine. And, they're playing much better defense.

When you do that the probability of winning increases."

Playing as well as he has all season since being acquired through free agency, Padres second-baseman Orlando Hudson is not only doing it with his bat at the plate, his speed on the base paths, but also with his glove on the field of play. Making spectacular defensive plays, the "Big Dog" is providing the athleticism the Padres had hoped for when they signed him and he's providing leadership in the clubhouse. Recently back from injuries Orlando is happy to be back.

"It's definitely great to be back in the great lineup that we have," Hudson said. "The last two teams that we played (Boston and Atlanta), are expected to win their division. People didn't expect us to do what we did against both of those teams. Winning two-out-of-three from both of those teams has a positive which we hope will carry over to Kansas City."

Before the Boston Series many of us felt the season was collapsing with no hope of contention. As of Tuesday of this week the Padres were ten games out of first place in the National League West, ten games under .500. Realistically, the team has to get to .500 before to be in a playoff position. They won the Red Sox series on the road and that was against the hype of playing against their former Padres teammate Adrian Gonzales who may be the best player in the league.

The Padres then came home and beat the Braves two-out-of-three. Big Mo (momentum) is starting to swing their way. If they are to turn their season around, now is the time to do it. The American League Central Kansas City Royals came to town at the beginning of the week with the Padres poised to take that series.

They finish inter-league play for the year against the Seattle Mariners at Safeco Field before traveling to the Bay area to face the defending world champion and current N. L. West first place Giants in their house at AT&T Park in San Francisco. I feel the Padres are on the verge of turning it around.

Keeping your muscles healthy as you age

Did you know you have more than 600 muscles in your body, including your tongue, heart and stomach?

When exerted, your muscles pull against your skeleton, causing your bones to become strong and durable. But a lack of exercise and nutrition can compromise your muscle strength, especially as you age.

"The average person can lose 8 percent of muscle tissue every 10 years after the age of 40," says Dr. Vonda Wright, orthopedic surgeon, medical researcher and author of "Fitness After 40." "When it comes to muscle, if you don't use it, you'll lose it."

In addition to age, a sedentary lifestyle and poor nutrition can lead to loss of muscle. Many people are surprised to learn that a sedentary person may have 40 to 50 percent body fat. On the flip side, muscle burns more calories than fat during daily activities, including sitting.

A serious, temporary illness or injury or a diet lacking proper nutrition, especially protein, can also cause a loss in muscle mass. So muscle loss is not just a concern of the middle-aged or inactive, but for anyone who wants to stay healthy and active.

To find out if your muscles are in good shape, try the push-up test. Men of any age should be able to do 11 and women should be able to complete eight. If you fall short of your goal, don't despair. You still have time to build muscle strength with these tips:

- Feed your muscle. Proteins are the building blocks of muscle. Get your protein daily from meat, poultry, fish, nuts, eggs and beans. You can also augment your diet with healthful protein and nutrition shakes, such as Ensure Muscle Health shakes, which contain Revigor (a source of HMB, an amino-acid metabolite), and 13 grams of protein to help rebuild muscle and strength naturally lost over time. They are perfect for a snack on the go.

- Get aerobic exercise. Try to get between 30 to 60 minutes of blood-pumping exercise daily to build muscle endurance. And stretch your muscles before and after to prevent injury.

- Carry a load. Resistance training is also essential to keeping your muscles strong and limber and retaining bone density. Use weights or the resistance of your own body weight to build your strength.

"We live in an amazing time when we really are able to have some control over how we age," says Dr. Wright. "In fact, there's new evidence that boomers and seniors who exercise three to five times a week are able to retain lean muscle like younger athletes. So don't let your age discourage you from living a healthier, active life today!"

For more information about maintaining healthy muscles and to read more of Dr. Wright's tips, visit www.ensure.com. Then get started rebuilding your muscle strength. After all, this is the only body you have.

Music and magic heighten 'The Tempest' at the Old Globe

Review by K Foster
and L. O'Brien

The Old Globe 2011 Shakespeare Festival presents The Tempest, Amadeus, and Much Ado About Nothing in repertory now through September 25. Festival Director Adrian Noble returns for his second season to direct The Tempest and Amadeus, with Director Ron Daniels from last year's Taming of the Shrew directing Much Ado About Nothing.

The Tempest, about castaways on a desert isle surrounded by the sea and cutoff from reality, is magical and musical. Prospero (Miles Anderson), the deposed Duke of Milan, and his daughter Miranda (Winslow Corbett) have been exiled to a desert island. There Prospero becomes a Sorcerer and enslaves Ariel (Ben Diskant), a fairy, and Caliban (Jonno Roberts). Prospero is not as much the main character as he is the Prime Mover through his magical artfulness. Conjuring up a storm to bring ashore the villains who deposed him and sending Ariel to create mischief among them, he manipulates them until at last he reprimands and forgives his malefactors. In typical Shakespearean subplots, Prospero's daughter and the shipwrecked son of the current Duke of Milan fall in love. Caliban follows two funny fools, Stephano and Trinculo, in a plot to murder Prospero. Trinculo (John Cariani) is hilarious when he proposes to "creep under Caliban's gabardine to hide from the storm."

Metaphors of water accentuate the story like in hearing the sound of the ocean upon entering the Festival Stage. Magic is created in the first moments of the play when a long swath of sea-blue fabric becomes waves on the beach, a wind-filled sail and a large breaking wave sweeping sailors overboard. Even the fairy Ariel is coiffured and costumed to look like a water droplet. A Greek Chorus dressed from head to toe in watery blue, make up the Master of Fine Art Students. They serve as stage hands manipulating the blue fabric sail, playing percussion instruments and singing. It's quite exciting when Prospero conjures a storm and the chorus creates thunder and lightning with various instruments on stage.

Several lead actors have returned, notably Miles Anderson, the 2010 San Diego Theatre Critics Circle Craig Noel Award Winner for his leading role in The Madness of George III, and Jonno Roberts, last season's Petrucchio.

Music composer Shaun Davey weaves a spell with his ethereal music and setting Shakespeare's songs of The Tempest in haunting melodies. Ben Diskant sets the mystical mood and beautifully sings Ariel's famous song in the first act: "Full fathom five thy father lies; Of his bones are coral made: Those are pearls that were his eyes: Nothing of him that doth fade, But doth suffer a sea-change into something rich and strange."

Spice up your weekends

Day-to-day schedules can get tedious. Bouncing between work, home and family obligations, it's often hard to muster the energy and enthusiasm for making time for yourself. But weekends are two-day opportunities that should be used to recharge and indulge in some much needed fun and relaxation.

By the time Friday and Saturday nights roll around, you might not feel like doing much of anything, so instead of feeling the pressure to go out, try staying in to create your own memorable festivities.

Cynthia Nims, editor and author of 12 cookbooks, including Gourmet Game Night (Ten Speed Press, 2010), focuses on the importance of unplugging and reconnecting with friends and families over entertainment at home. "Games are perfect for a night in with a group of friends. They are a fun reminder not to be too serious," says Nims. "The light-hearted atmosphere makes it possible for both guests and hosts to relax and enjoy the genuine fun of sharing laughs over a favorite game or two."

Nims recommends choosing your game night games thoughtfully to ensure that it will be fun for everyone. An updated classic like Trivial Pursuit: Bet You Know It is more about knowing your friends than knowing the answers to obscure trivia. A game like this keeps everyone engaged and doesn't put anyone on the spot. Players bet on whether or not their friends will get their questions right or wrong, and for each correct bet a player earns chips that can then be used throughout the game to buy wedge pieces for those categories they don't feel like attempting.

For a game night, Nims suggests easy nibbles that are upscale enough for a dinner party, but easily edible and mess-free enough for a game night. Some favorites are homemade pretzel sticks with a trio of mustards, pickled grapes

A fascinating man creating positive footsteps for horses and people

Interview by Diana Saenger

“Your horse is a mirror to your soul, and sometimes you may not like what you see. Sometimes, you will.” So says Buck Brannaman, a true American cowboy and sage on horseback who travels the country for nine grueling months a year helping horses with people problems. Buck was Robert Redford’s adviser and double for the 1998 film The Horse Whisperer is the subject of Cindy Meehls’ debut documentary Buck, a riveting portrait of this “horse gentler.” Buck was also the inspiration for the Nicholas Evans novel on which the film is based.

Jean Lowerson explained in her film review of Buck; Brannaman does not whisper much, but in the four-day workshops he teaches around the country nine months a year, he teaches horse owners how to treat the animal as a partner rather than an adversary to be “broken” or tamed. He’s talking about respect – something he and his brother Smokie never got as kids from their dad, a vicious and abusive bully who beat them regularly. The boys learned trick roping from their father at very young ages – Buck was four, his brother a bit older. But roping wasn’t Buck’s real interest. “I only ever wanted to be a cowboy,” says Buck. “I was just looking for a place to be where I wasn’t threatened.” This is what he teaches, and it is wondrously fascinating to watch him at work. One particularly affecting piece comes when a woman brings him her nearly wild horse – one that at one point flattened her and broke her back in two places. The East County Gazette was fortunate to be able to meet Buck Brannaman and learn more about his philosophy.

Q. People who are abused react in different ways. The way you talk to the horses and also to the people is so gentle. Where did that gentleness come from?

BB: When I first started working with the young horses I didn’t know how to approach them but I understood where they were coming from. To some people who may own a horse that is difficult, they take it personal, and it becomes about them rather than them having empathy and concern for the horse. I always wanted to be able to get something accomplished with the horse without him being troubled or in a place where he feels he needs to protect himself. So because of the things I went through as a kid, I could feel how the horse felt.

Q. Did that sense come to you over time or was there an awe moment when you said, “This is what the horse is telling me.”

BB: I was fortunate to study with Ray Hunt who was my mentor. He studied with Tom Dorrance, a man who started this approach in working with young horses. Tom lived to be 94 and devoted his life to working with the horse as if the horse got to make up the rules in how you understand it.

Q. What was your goal with the documentary?

BB: Our goal was to touch the hearts and minds of people who weren’t horse owners that were from a different world than me, but yet could enjoy the same things horse owners enjoy in my clinics. We knew if we told the story right there would be a connection among people that transcends horses, sort of an approach to life. And so many people came to me after the film Q. & A. and said I don’t know anything about horses, but it really touched me.

Q. What was it about your foster parents (Forrest and Betsy Shirley) that changed your life?

BB: My foster dad understood so much about kids. His contribution to me was giving me something to do, a direction and no time to wallow in the situation of where I came from. I didn’t have time to feel sorry for myself. That’s what started me with horses. If there’s an image of a true Christian ranch woman, that’s my foster mom. She’s the greatest person to me, and without her influence I might have been bitter about my early life.

Q. When did you decide to write your first book?

BB: I’d been sharing some of those stories about myself in the clinics for years. But sometimes I found people intimidated to approach me. I wanted them to realize I’m certainly an imperfect person and came from an imperfect life as well. That seemed to set the stage for them to share things with me. So the book was kind of disarming and made it more effective when I was trying to teach them. Also I thought it might help someone who was in the midst of a very dark life to realize there are choices on life. My childhood was taken and I can’t get that back. But no matter how bad someone is treating you, the one thing they can’t take from you is your will. And you have to get to the point where you no longer blame someone else, you have to take responsibility. And if you make the right choices, you can have a happy ending.

Q. Those who work with abused people always point out that you have to forgive.

BB: You do, and I eventually did forgive my dad. I was 16, but it was a hard place to get to.

Even after we went to live with our foster parents he would send my brother and I birthday cards telling us that when we turned 18 our present was he was going to kill us. He’d send letters telling us he was watching us through the scope of his rifle while we worked around the ranch. That’s a hell-of-a-thing for a 12-year-old boy to have to read. But because of Betsy’s influence I learned forgiveness.

Q. How big is the problem for owners to communicate with their horses?

BB: It’s big. People don’t understand what’s going on with the horse, how he thinks, and what it takes to get him to make the right decisions. It’s almost like the more modern and technical we get the more instincts and connection to nature we lose. That’s why people are so interested in what I’m doing because it’s such a great feeling to connect with the horse and feel like that horse depends on them. I want a horse to perform at a high level, but like being there with me. It’s not always going to be fuzzy and warm, just like being a parent. On bad days it’s like a dictatorship, but on a good day it’s an enlightened monarchy.

Q. Who have you learned the most from in your life?

BB: The horse. It’s there for everybody for the taking and there’s a never-ending supply.

'Car 2' is a total wreck

Lightning McQueen, Tow Mater and Finn McMissile try to steer clear of spies and explosions in Cars 2. Photo Credit: Disney/Pixar

Review by Diana Saenger

It took real willpower for me not to leave after the first 20 minutes of watching Pixar's new movie Cars 2. The only reason I shifted nervously through the rest of the film was because I brought my 10-year-old granddaughter along. I could have saved myself some unease, for when we walked out of the screening, she said, "That was a terrible movie, Grandma. I didn't like it."

The first problem with this film involves a loss of identity. The funny and innovative town of Radiator Springs and its eclectic vehicle inhabitants featured in Cars (2006) was a center point of what happened in the original movie. We loved the hotshot swagger of racecar Lightning McQueen (voiced by Owen Wilson). McQueen's courtship with the saucy Porsche Sally (voiced by Bonnie Hunt) came across as warm and fun. The rusty tow truck Tow Mater (voiced by Larry the Cable Guy), had a heart of gold and a great sense of humor. Luigi (Tony Shalhoub), Fillmore (George Carlin) Sarge (Paul Dooley), Ramone (Cheech Marin), Flo (Jennifer Lewis), and of course Doc Hudson (Paul Newman) were adorable characters who contributed to a delightful story that flowed well and entertained both kids and adults.

Cars 2 starts with a confusing scene right out of James Bond — only with cars, a ship, and actions even I couldn't figure out what was going on. At first I wondered if this was some kind of commercial tie-in. But soon we're into a little mishap between Lightning McQueen and his best friend Tow Mater. When McQueen decides to up his game and enter the worldwide Grand Prix, he's off to race around the world. He has a few crew members along, and naturally Tow Mater knows he must be there too.

The movie becomes a jumbled mess from this point on. There's the confusing James Bondish-theme with agents Finn McMissile (voiced by Michael Caine) and Holley Shiftwell (voiced by Emily Mortimer) running around trying to save McQueen from someone who wants to blow him up but often having to save their own butts — er-fenders — instead. There's a subplot about McQueen being so embarrassed by Tow Mater's inappropriate behavior in Tokyo, which raises the question of whether or not they can maintain their friendship, but it's lost in this disaster of a story. Even the music during the races seems irritating: instead of hearing what one would image at a NASCAR race, the score sounds more fitting for the Olympics.

Scenes centered on adult behavior such as drinking martinis, engaging in bathroom brawls and mafia type actions are painfully dull and pointless. Don't we have enough problems with teens driving under the influence? Now we have animated suggestive scenes with 10W-40 martinis? Shame on Pixar.

Digging themselves into a deeper —non-kid hole, there's some kind of link about "oil" running through the movie. Not particularly vehicle oil, but Big Oil and evil people who want to control it. Gee, I wonder where that idea came from?

I'm so disappointed in this story by John Lasseter, Brad Lewis, Dan Fogelman and screenplay by Ben Queen. I can't imagine what they were thinking. Car 2 does not have an audience. It's definitely not for children. Throughout the 113 minute film I noticed only about 10 minutes of laughs from kids, and not much more from the adults.

Pixar says in the film's synopsis that McQueen wants to be the world's fastest car. But the road to the finish line is filled with plenty of potholes, detours and bombshells. Unfortunately, it's Cars 2 that's filled with potholes, detours and bombshells. My advice? Don't waste your money on this disappointing movie, even though the animation is terrific.

'Bad Teacher' is a bad movie

Review by Michael Black

Bad Teacher is another example of a bait and switch advertising campaign where the commercials were actually more amusing than anything in the entire movie. Main character Elizabeth Halsey (Cameron Diaz) is nothing more than a shallow, gold digging, drug using, potty mouth criminal who miraculously somehow made it past the school system screening process to become a middle school teacher.

Elizabeth is only after one thing, money. It's not clear why she is a teacher but apparently her only goal in life is to marry money. When her fiancée calls off the wedding due to her excessive spending, Elizabeth is forced to spend another dreadful year as a teacher. She hates the staff and the students. The only person she pretends to like is new teacher, Scott Delacorte (Justin Timberlake) because he's wealthy. But Scott is only interested in Elizabeth's competition, Amy Squirrel (Lucy Punch) — the over-caring, spunky teacher who scares her students more than she helps them.

Desperate to find a mate, Elizabeth believes that a breast augmentation will get Scott to notice her. Only problem; she's short the $10,000 price tag. So she commits a variety of crimes at school to raise the funds to get her surgery. However, Amy is on to her and tries to get Elizabeth fired by school principle, Wally Snur (John Michael Higgins).

The entire cast seems forced to be extremely stupid and mean in a sad attempt to fill-in the gaps between the sparse unfunny jokes. Even the students are more mature than the teachers. It's sad to see Cameron Diaz sink so low for such an immoral character. Punch as Teacher Squirrel gets the Most Annoying Movie Character Of The Year award. Justin Timberlake was not a believable character. He spoke like a squeaking mouse and had a sex scene that was more confusing than entertaining. I had no sympathy or remorse for any of the characters. The only sympathy I had connected to Bad Teacher is for the poor kids who parents let them see such a raunchy, unfunny film.

The rest of the supporting cast is mainly filler and just as unfunny. Phyllis Smith as Lynn is a soft spoken shy teacher, somewhat like her character from the television series The Office. Jason Segal as Gym teacher Russell Gettis is just as pointless as the others. The only thing he's interested in is getting Elizabeth in bed and smoking weed.

Bad Teacher is an unfunny rip off of the 2003 Bad Santa. This is director Jake Kasdan's fifth movie since 1998. The screenplay is by Lee Eisenberg and Gene Stupnitsky, who also write for The Office. They should stick to television; crude humor is not their forte.

Bad Teacher is definitely bad, and not the least bit entertaining.

Grand Funk Railroad to perform

Grand Funk Railroad To Perform at the San Diego County Fair, 2260 Jimmy Durante Blvd., in Del Mar, CA, on July 2, at 9 p.m. Admission is $13 for adults, $7 for seniors (62 plus) and children (ages 6-12). Children 5 and under are admitted for free. The venue phone is 858-755-1161. The web site is <http://www.sdfair.com>.

The band is available for interviews with the media in advance of the show--please call Anne Leighton at 718-881-8183.

Formed in 1969, Grand Funk was born out of the ashes of Terry Knight & The Pack, another band from Flint, Michigan. Currently the group includes original founding members Don Brewer (vocals and drums, writer and singer of the hit, "We're An American Band") and bassist Mel Schacher. Joining Don and Mel are true "ALL-STARS"-- Max Carl (38 Special, Jack Mack and the Heart Attack, Max Carl and Big Dance), lead guitarist Bruce Kulick (12 years with KISS and credits with Michael Bolton, Meatloaf and Billy Squier), and keyboardist Tim Cashion (Bob Seger and Robert Palmer).

Together, Brewer and Schacher have created a dynamic and multi-talented five piece band that will not only carry on the tradition of Grand Funk hits, but also has the potential to create a new chapter in the legacy of Grand Funk Railroad. With Grand Funk reforming in 2000, this new chapter in the band's biography is being written daily. Both seasoned Grand Funk lovers and contemporary rock fans-- discovering the group for the first time on CDs and VH-1-- will be able to see and hear firsthand that Grand Funk Railroad's train is back on track.

ORDINANCE NO. _____

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF EL CAJON AMENDING TITLE 17 OF THE EL CAJON MUNICIPAL CODE (ZONING) TO CORRECT ERRORS AND OMISSIONS IN CHAPTERS 17.15, 17.45, 17.60, 17.105, 17.110, 17.115, 17.130, 17.140, 17.145, 17.150, 17.185, 17.190, 17.195, 17.210, 17.215, 17.225, 17.240, AND 17.245 OF TITLE 17; MODIFYING CHAPTER 17.120 RELATED TO NON-CONFORMING USES AND STRUCTURES; AND ADDING A NEW SECTION 17.130.255 REGULATING STORAGE SPACES, ADDING A NEW SUBSECTION (E) TO SECTION 17.190.210 OF CHAPTER 17.190 REGULATING FREE-STANDING SIGNS, ADDING A NEW SECTION 17.190.280 OF CHAPTER 17.190 PROVIDING FOR THE ABATEMENT OF NON-CONFORMING SIGNS, AND ADDING A NEW SECTION 17.225.190 TO CHAPTER 17.225 REGULATING OFFSITE AUTOMOBILE SALES.

This ordinance revises various sections in Title 17 of the City of El Cajon Municipal Code, commonly referred to the El Cajon Zoning Ordinance. The revisions are primarily corrections of typographical, or clerical, errors, and to make proper reference to newly-defined terms following the reorganization and restatement of Title 17, which occurred through the adoption of Ordinance No. 4950 in June of 2010. The ordinance also (1) includes revising the non-conforming uses and structures ordinance (Chapter 17.120), requiring the elimination of nonconforming uses and structures following specified amortization periods (but allowing the rebuilding or restoration of nonconforming uses and structures under certain circumstances and with a conditional use permit), and (2) adding language to the Zoning Ordinance (a) regulating storage spaces (Section 17.130.255), (b) regulating free-standing signs (section 17.190.210 (E) of Chapter 17.190), (c) establishing procedures for the abatement of non-conforming signs (section 17.190.280 of Chapter 17.190), and (d) regulating the sales of automobile on properties not owned by the vendor (section 17.225.190 of Chapter 17.225).

For the host who doesn't want to spend time in the kitchen, order some no-fuss takeout and suggest each guest bring a dessert. Guests will have the pleasure of trying small bites of several different desserts, while also showing off their own favorite specialty. A raucous game of Taboo will do just the trick for those who've had too much sugar. Players race to describe their clue without using any of the taboo words before the timer runs out.

For more creative types, try a round of Pictionary where players must draw the word or phrase on their card in order to get their teammates to guess the clue. This quick-draw game will have everyone out of their seat.

Whether you're looking for a laugh-out-loud night of fun around the coffee table, or a rambunctious, out-of-your-seat game, gathering together good friends and food is the perfect recipe for spicing up your weekend with a stress-free game night in.
