People, Pets and Heat!

With summer hot days - an important reminder. NEVER leave your child or pet unattended in a parked car for any period of time - not even for a second! On hot days (like we are having now), the temperature in a car can reach 120°F in a matter of minutes - even with the windows partially open. A baby/child, the elderly or your pet can quickly suffer brain damage or die from heatstroke or suffocation when trapped in high temperatures. If you see a child, a senior or pet left unattended in a car - and exhibiting any signs of heat stress - please call 9-1-1 immediately!

Reminders: Heat exhaustion is marked by weakness, nausea, vomiting, headache and muscle aches. To treat heat exhaustion, cool the victim off quickly, and provide water or diluted sports drinks like Gatorade. Signs of heat stroke include: Lack of sweating, rapid pulse, headache, nausea, confusion, and even unconsciousness. If someone is suffering from heat stroke, call 9-1-1, loosen or remove the victim's clothing, and spray or pour cool water on his or her skin.

Carbon-monoxide detectors a must

Starting July 1, 2011 new legislation will go into effect requiring homeowners to install carbon monoxide detectors in every California home; a move fire officials say will save lives. You can't see or smell carbon monoxide, but at high levels it can kill a person in minutes.

Carbon monoxide (CO) is a colorless, odorless gas that is produced from heaters, fireplaces, furnaces and many types of appliances and cooking devices. The best way for homeowners to stay protected from CO is to have a carbon monoxide detector installed on every floor and outside each sleeping area. A recent study found that nearly nine in 10 California households did not have a CO detector.

Hundreds of people die accidentally every year from CO poisoning caused by malfunctioning or improperly used fuel-burning appliances. Even more die from CO produced by idling cars. Fetuses, infants, elderly people, and people with anemia or with a history of heart or respiratory disease can be especially susceptible.

Though previous laws only required newly-constructed home to have CO alarms, the state's new Carbon Monoxide Poisoning Prevention Act (Senate Bill 183) requires owners of all existing single-family homes with an attached garage or a fossil fuel source to install CO alarm devices within the home by July 1, 2011. Owners of multi-family leased or rental dwellings, such as apartment buildings, have until January 1, 2013 to comply with the law.

For more information on how to prevent carbon monoxide poisoning visit http://www.fire.ca.gov/communications/communications_fire-safety_carbonmonoxide.php

Moose of the Year

Moose of the year doesn't sound like a very important title, but to Dick Rogers it is. He was given this prestigious award recently by El Cajon Moose Lodge #1731 when the new officers for 2011/2012 were sworn in. Rogers served as a Trustee this past year and was responsible for various small fund raisers during that time, but the work that really set him aside from other Brother Moose was his dedication to the position of Community Service Chairman. His major project was the collection of paperback books from the Lodge and the community to give to the VA Hospital in La Jolla. By his own estimation, he and his wife Elisabeth delivered over 4000 books and magazines to the Veterans during the last year. He has been asked many times, where do you get so many books? His answer is, "Just Ask" at the swap meet, garage sales, your gym or camping club, Church Bazaars, neighbors and of course Lodge members. This year he has an additional delivery location to supply, the Wounded Warriors USO at Balboa Naval Hospital.

Now you say that's all well and good and he is performing a very patriotic duty for the Veterans and the Lodge but what's the big deal!! The big deal is, he was also named "Lion of the Year" by the El Cajon Valley Host Lions Club on June 25 at their yearly Installation Dinner. Rogers, who is a Past President of the Club also served as Convention Chairman, Publicity Chairman, Installation Chairman, Part Time Bulletin Editor, Board Member of the Lions Foundation and Co-chairman of the Christmas Party during the past year. Fortunately not all these jobs occur at the same time. He is retired from full time work but does most of his work for the Lions at home on his computer while book collection is a bit more physical. When asked which award meant the most to him, he answered, "both do". The Moose Lodge is a Fraternal organization while the Lions are a service club dedicated to sight projects, so his duties and goals are different for each organization.

He also is a Life Member of The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks #1812 in El Cajon, but does not volunteer there. As the guys in the Alpine American Legion Post say, where he is also a non volunteer member, he's just an animal.

Share your culture and host an international student

Foreign high school students are scheduled to arrive soon for academic semester and year homestay programs, and the sponsoring organization needs a few more local host families. The students are anxiously awaiting news of their new families. These young ambassadors are looking forward to fulfilling their life-long dreams.

For Health's Sake

Stay cool urges State Health Director

With the arrival of summer and hot weather upon us, Dr. Ron Chapman, director of the California Department of Public Health (CDPH), is encouraging California residents to follow these top-10 helpful tips to stay safe this summer:

1. Reduce exposure to the sun from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. when UV rays are strongest, and keep physical activities to a minimum during that time. When working outside, drink plenty of water or juice even if you are not thirsty, and take rest breaks in the shade.

2. Wear a wide-brimmed hat to cover the face and neck, and wear loose-fitting clothing to keep cool and to protect your skin from the sun and mosquitoes.

3. Wear sunglasses that provide 100 percent UVA and UVB protection. Chronic exposure to the sun can cause cataracts, which left untreated, can lead to blindness.

4. Liberally apply sunscreen (at least SPF 15) 15 minutes before venturing outdoors and re-apply at least every two hours – sunscreen prevents skin cancer, the number one cancer affecting Californians and prevents premature aging.

5. Never, EVER leave infants, children or frail elderly unattended in a parked car – it can take as little as 10 minutes for the temperature inside a car to rise to levels that can kill.

6. To prevent overheating, use cool compresses, misting, showers and baths – if you or someone experiences a rapid, strong pulse, feels delirious, becomes unconscious or has a body temperature above 102, call 911 immediately.

7. Prevent children from drowning by providing adult supervision at all times and having a safety barrier that surrounds a pool or spa. Drowning is the leading cause of injury deaths for children under five.

8. Make sure that your doors and windows have tight-fitting screens to keep out mosquitoes. Some mosquitoes carry West Nile Virus (WNV) which often mimics influenza, with fevers, body aches and eye pain. WNV can cause serious health complications, and in rare cases, death.

9. Apply insect repellent containing DEET, picaradin, oil of lemon eucalyptus or IR 3535 according to label instructions. Mosquitoes usually bite in the early morning and evening so it is important to wear repellent during those times.

10. Eliminate all sources of standing water on your property, including flower pots, old car tires, rain gutters and pet bowls – mosquitoes breed and lay eggs in standing water.

CDPH Warns Consumers Not to Eat Certain Bavan Brand Candies from India

Dr. Ron Chapman, director of the California Department of Public Health (CDPH), today warned consumers not to eat BAVAN Brand Sugar Rewari candy imported from India, after tests conducted by CDPH found unacceptable levels of lead. The candy is also packaged under the names Sugar Redoi and Sugar Reori. Consumers in possession of the candy should discard it immediately.

Recent analysis of this candy by CDPH determined that BAVAN Brand Sugar Rewari candy contained as much as 1.2 parts per million (ppm) of lead. California considers candies with lead levels in excess of 0.10 ppm to be contaminated.

BAVAN Brand Sugar Rewari candy is imported and distributed by Bavan Food Company in Sacramento, CA. Bavan Food Company has initiated a voluntary recall of the candy and CDPH is currently working with the distributor to ensure contaminated candies are removed from the market place.

BAVAN Brand Sugar Rewari candy is sold in a 10.5-ounce, clear plastic bag with an orange border. The label on the package is orange and white with the words "BAVAN Brand Sugar Rewari (Candy)" printed in black ink. Alternatively, the product may be labeled as "BAVAN Brand Sugar Reori (Candy)" or "BAVAN brand Sugar Redoi (Candy)". The light brown and oval shaped candy is visible through the package.

Pregnant women and parents of children who may have consumed this candy should consult their physician or health care provider to determine if medical testing is needed. Consumers who find BAVAN Brand Sugar Rewari candy for sale are encouraged to call the CDPH Complaint Hotline at 1-800-495-3232.

Laughter is the Best Medicine

My living will

Last night my kids and I were sitting in the living room and I said to them, "I never want to live in a vegetative state, dependent on some machine and fluids from a bottle. If that ever happens, just pull the plug"

They got up, unplugged the computer, and threw out my wine.

Inspiration

To pray or not to pray, that is the absurdity

Occasionally, I hear about somebody objecting to prayer. Usually, it is somebody who has no idea what he or she is talking about. It must be a slow news day when the media highlights this as one of their news stories. I guess nothing else is going on in the world demanding our attention. However, when someone suggests praying in public somebody always rises in open protest. After all, everybody knows how dangerous prayer really is.

Recently, a high school graduate wanted to include in her baccalaureate speech a prayer for her fellow graduates. I thought it was a rather nice gesture on her part. But certain people got wind of this and a nasty roar rose to the highest heavens. Certainly, public prayer is a violation of our constitutional rights, or so the objection went. Freedom of speech, obviously, covers everything but prayer, particularly prayer to the Christian God.

If I know anything about high school graduates, they need all the prayer they can get. After all, our government is not doing them any favors lately. If I were graduating from high school this year, I would want all the help I could get, including prayer. Most of them do not have a prayer of a chance of getting a job upon graduation.

Certain people banter this notion of separation of church and state, which had never entered the freedom loving minds of our forefathers. If anybody would take the time to read it carefully, our forefathers did not want the government to weld any influence over any church in this country. Unlike Europe from which they fled, there was to be no state church in America. Now, we have it backwards and the government is trying to influence religion in our country. They can't even balance a budget, yet they want to balance my spiritual life.

If you ask me, the biggest religion in our country is politics. If you do not think it is a religion, then carefully think again. Politics has all the accoutrements of religion right down to kissing someone's ring for some blessing. I think they call that lobbying. Every politician has a list of do's and don'ts, which, of course, changes depending on what audience he is talking to at the time. Then there is that St. Francis of Assisi smile that all politicians have perfected.

Someone recently said to me, "I don't believe in religion." I am not quite sure what he meant by that statement, and I am quite sure he did not know what he meant. All I can think of is somebody used that word in his presence and, like an infant hearing a word for the first time, goes around saying it, usually out of context. Some pontificate the idea that they are absolutely nonreligious. Of course, no such creature has ever walked on the face of God's earth.

Those who boast of being nonreligious are absolutely religious in propagating their non-religiousness. You will not find a more faithful congregation of people than those who claim to be nonreligious. If Christians were as religious as some of these nonreligious people, the church would be exploding today.

Every person born of woman worships something or someone. If we do not worship God, we are going to worship something else and some even go as far as to worship themselves. I think God Himself chuckles at this last category. Imagine, somebody actually worshipping himself.

Prayer is one of those things that come natural to a person. Even those who do not pray on a regular basis will pray when they get into trouble. They may not pray to God. They pray to somebody or something, which is the absurdity of it all.

I find it rather amusing, but sad, that most people do not know whom they are praying to. Everybody, if they have a sober and honest moment, recognizes that there is a power beyond them. If they do not recognize such a power, they assume they are that power.

Those who do not recognize God have become a god unto themselves. I have often wondered how these people pray to themselves. So, to help them out as much as possible, I have come up with a prayer for those who believe they are in fact God.

"I am my own father, hallowed be my name. My kingdom come, my will be done, on earth as it is in my dreams. I give myself this day my daily bread, and I foreclose on all my debts,
as I have eluded my debtors.
And I go right into temptation, because I really enjoy evil. For mine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for as long as I say so. Amen."

It must be nice to pray to yourself. I would not know, because I have never tried it. I

Dear Dr. Luauna

Dear Dr. Luauna,

I don't know why my boss does not recognize all of my amazing qualities. I'm the best and hardest worker at my job place. Everyone else gets a raise or recognition. I'm just as good as the others, and if I say so myself, even better. How can I deal with this? Signed, It's Just Not Fair

Dear It's Just Not Fair,

This is not an easy subject and one that is quite hard to address because I don't want to offend you. When we labor and work for someone, we must remember who truly gives promotion. Is it the boss, co-workers, or yourself? No. It's God who promotes and exalts us for the labor of our hands when we are humble. If we compare ourselves to man, then we fall short. Proverbs 27:2 says, "Let another man praise you, and not your own mouth; a stranger, and not your own lips." It also says in James 4:6, "But He gives more grace. Therefore He says: 'God resists the proud, but gives grace to the humble.'"

When you make Jesus Christ, your Lord and Savior and when you work unto Him, without fail you will be promoted. A Christian should be the best worker at their job, they should never complain, nor slack, nor make excuses, nor be late. They should walk in victory. Proverbs 3:5-7, "Trust in the LORD with all your heart, and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct your paths. Do not be wise in your own eyes; fear the Lord and depart from evil."

When Jesus is Lord, He will give us favor when we do what is right in his sight. I'm reminded of two powerful stories in the Bible about Joseph and Daniel. Both were sold to heathen nations, but they did what was right in the sight of God and God always promoted them. I say with grace and mercy, you have exalted yourself. Maybe you should consider asking the Lord for forgiveness. Ask for His help to be humble in your work. Make sure Jesus is your boss and labor for him. His eyes are not dull of seeing, His ears are not deaf, and His arm is not short. The Lord wants to promote you. He loves you and wants the best for you. Try to memorize 3 John 2, "Beloved, I pray that you may prosper in all things and be in health, just as your soul prospers." It's God's will to prosper our lives, but our soul – the emotions and feelings of man – must prosper first. Let go and let God take control. Come to church and grow in the grace of the Lord.

Award-winning Physicist chastises scientist for decrying religion

That's the opinion of physicist and researcher Scott M. Tyson, who thinks colleague Stephen Hawking was wrong to dismiss the concept of life after death. Hawking recently explained in a newspaper interview his belief that there is no God and that humans should therefore seek to live the most valuable lives they can while on Earth.

"I have lived with the prospect of an early death for the last 49 years," Hawking told The Guardian. "I'm not afraid of death, but I'm in no hurry to die. I have so much I want to do first. I regard the brain as a computer which will stop working when its components fail. There is no heaven or afterlife for broken down computers; that is a fairy story for people afraid of the dark."

But Tyson believes that Hawking's comments may serve to do more harm than good for both people of faith and people of science.

"I think that people in general believe that scientists don't believe in God, and that's just not true," said Tyson, author of The Unobservable Universe: A Paradox-Free Framework for Understanding the Universe (www.theunobservableuniverse.com). "History is filled with scientists who were also men of faith, from Copernicus, Galileo, and Newton to Einstein. Now, I do also believe that there are other scientists who would like to prove that God doesn't exist. These scientists might want to rain on everyone else's parades with respect to God really, really badly. The problem is that one of the limitations of science is that science simply cannot prove the non-existence of objects and phenomena over the full spectrum of possibilities. So, while scientists may be able to prove in a scientific framework that there is no life after death, they cannot, nor should they even attempt to, prove it in a theological framework, which is the territory of faith. To do so creates unnecessary divisiveness that can serve no beneficial purpose. And that's the line Dr. Hawking crossed

— he essentially discounted the idea in both frameworks, and nothing good could come of that."

Tyson's concern is that Hawking's comments deepen the rift between the scientific and religious communities, erecting hurdles that only diminish the prospects for potential good that science could do for humanity.

"Dr. Hawking is probably one of only a handful of scientists in the world who is a household name," he added. "In many ways, he's the captain of the team, he's the quarterback, so when he speaks, millions of people believe he is speaking for scientists everywhere. That's part of the weight of his celebrity on the scientific community as a whole. His comments are out of line and further complicate complex issues like stem cell research, in which faith effectively blocks the use of scientific discoveries that could heal people and ease their suffering—a concept not inconsistent with the tenets of most organized religions," Tyson added. "But science oftentimes becomes blocked politically and socially not because the science contradicts religion, but because the argument is framed in an 'us versus them' context. We inadvertently challenge people to either believe in science or to believe in God, at the exclusion of the other. It's an unreasonable and unnecessary position in which to place anyone."

What's worse, according to Tyson, is that people who believe in both science and faith get left out or, worse, placed into the difficult situation of needlessly choosing sides.

"Millions of people practice their faith but then also believe in the veracity of Darwin's evolution," he said. "Many in the scientific community view science through their faith, rather than in spite of it. When scientists discount theology in a wholesale fashion, they not only insult the faithful who discount science, but also the faithful who embrace it. It discourages and further polarizes the dialogue between the two disciplines and increases the challenges that science must overcome in its quest to better comprehend the nature of our world for the betterment of society, goals that I and many other scientists will continue to embrace."

Rock your world

by Sharon Denny,
Angel/Tarot Reader/Yoga
Instructor

When you were a kid, did you collect "pretty" rocks or sea shells at the beach? If you did, have you ever thought to yourself what drew you to them? Remember the "pet rock" fad from the 70s? What was that all about, for goodness sake?! Maybe right now you are smiling as you reflect on these things... either because you did collect rocks or shells as a kid and it's a fond memory or maybe you did have a "pet rock" or you knew someone who did and it all seems pretty silly in your busy and reasonable world now. And...maybe it still is silly...to some.

But what if you take into account that rocks are beautiful like the flowers, trees or the grass...or any part of nature, for that matter? And what if you ponder the healing properties of Mother Nature in all its glory? Did you ever have an experience in nature when you felt your anxieties or worries lift as you enjoyed the ocean, the forest or your own backyard? If you answered "yes" to any of these questions, then perhaps you can see how rocks or crystals, as part of nature, may have something very powerful to give to you in all its simplicity and loveliness as well.

Those who work at the Home & Soul Shop in El Cajon invite you to "visit" the stones on display. What I think you are going to find out is that you will be drawn to the crystals. You will want to touch them, hold them in your hands for a while and "feel their energy" as it is said in new age circles. In fact, if we said "do not touch", you would be quite challenged!... although, your eyes would still enjoy the beauty of them, of course. But is feeling the stones any different than smelling a fragrant rose? Or hugging a tree? Or wiggling your feet in the soft grass or the sand? In my humble opinion, I think not. And so I encourage you to be like a child in wonder again, stop by and hold a rock or two or three or more!

And then over time, I think your curiosity may rise a bit... and so we come to the point of this column. Each week we will write about a certain crystal and its properties so that you may grow in knowledge, use the stones for yourself and others and also learn how to take care of them. (Yes, they do need some care!) In other words, let Mother Nature bring her healing qualities to you in your own home, car, office, or on your person as you carry them in your pocket.

One stone that most people recognize is the amethyst. It is the birthstone for February and the zodiac stone for Pisces. In Yoga, it is associated with the Crown chakra (the energy center at the top of the head.) It comes in shades of purple and lilac and the word amethyst comes from the Greek word amethystos which means "without drunkenness" and so it is a stone to use for those with addictive patterns, behaviors or cravings. It is a stone that most healers will wear as it helps the wearer open up to spiritual wisdom and guidance and so, therefore, also good for meditation. Wearing an amethyst is used to heal headaches.

Many crystals, because of their healing properties, absorb negativity and need cleansing on a regular basis. The amethyst does not need cleansing and so it continues to work its power and protection for you. No wonder royalty, including Catholic bishops, wore this beautiful stone!

You will find a variety of amethyst stones and jewelry at Home & Soul, 229 E. Main Street Downtown El Cajon. Services offered include Massage, Reiki, Psychic Readings, Animal Communication, Chiropractic care and a unique gift shop. Call (619) 440-4504 for more info.

Video games aren't so bad after all

by Jason Alderman

Next time you're tempted to lecture your kids about wasting too much time on video games, first check out which games they're playing – it turns out they may actually be learning important life lessons.

Much research has been done on whether online games and other interactive educational tools can teach people how to make better decisions regarding personal finances, including an exciting new study called "Improving American's Financial Literacy: Educational Tools at Work," by Lisa A. Donnini, PhD, KayAnn Miller and Kitch Walker.

The authors compared the credit performance of thousands of college students who opened Wells Fargo credit card accounts in two categories: Those who completed an online financial tutorial on the wise use of credit prior to being issued their card; and those who did not. The tutorial was based on content from Practical Money Skills for Life, a free financial literacy program run by Visa Inc.

account's performance more than a year after they were opened and found that cardholders who took the tutorial demonstrated dramatically better credit behavior than those who did not. The results were eye-opening. Those who completed the tutorial:

- Had revolving monthly balances that were 20 percent lower than those who did not.
- Were 44 percent less likely to be 60 days delinquent on payments.
- Experienced FICO credit score increases that were 240 percent better.
- Were 23 percent less likely to have late fees.
- Were 51 percent less likely to file for bankruptcy.

This data provides tangible evidence of what many financial literacy practitioners have long believed: that financial education intervention given at the right teachable moment – in this case, immediately prior to opening a credit account – works.

So what has this to do with video games? According to

Dr. Donnini, "Children have always learned through play and today, digital media has resulted in increasingly more sophisticated games that can engage youth while at the same time encouraging learning."

In fact, many would suggest that the key components of good video games, including immediate feedback, rewards, motivation and goal-setting, may be a better fit for the high-technology, global world in which today's kids live than the more traditional types of learning often found in the classroom.

InVEST, the insurance industry's premier classroom to career education program, has awarded scholarships to three Grossmont College students pursuing insurance-related degrees.

Marcia Berger and Kathy Austin of Grossmont College both received $500 scholarship as part of the Classroom to Career Program. Kim Casillas, also of Grossmont, received a $500 general scholarship.

"InVEST congratulates Marcia Berger, Kathy Austin and Kim Casillas for being among the 54 students representing 20 schools from six states who earned scholarships this year," says Heather Minkler, chair of the National InVEST board of directors and CEO of Clark-Mortenson Agency, an independent insurance agency in Keene, N.H. "Each year, InVEST develops future industry professionals by educating high school and community college

Some of the better educational video games I've seen include several found at Visa's Practical Money Skills for Life (www.practicalmoneyskills.com/games):

- Financial Soccer, a free, fast-paced, multilingual video game jointly developed with the Federation Internationale de Football Association (FIFA), which incorporates soccer's structure and rules to teach children and young adults the knowledge and tools they'll need to establish and maintain sound financial habits over a lifetime.

- Financial Football, a similar game jointly developed with the National Football League.

- Money Metropolis, where kids ages 7 to 12 navigate a multi-dimensional world, making life decisions that will affect whether their virtual bank account shrinks or grows.

- Peter Pig's Money Counter, where kids ages 4 to 7 can practice sorting and counting coins with the help of wise Peter Pig.

Other good games include: Bad Credit Hotel (www.controlyourcredit.gov), Planet Orange (www.orangekids.com), You Are Here (www.ftc.gov/youarehere), and Hands on Banking (www.handsonbanking.org).

- Bottom line: Although nothing beats playing in fresh air, there are plenty of electronic games that can teach your kids the skills they'll need to manage their personal finances.

Grossmont College Students Receive InVEST Scholarships

students about insurance, risk management and financial services. Graduates from more than 200 InVEST programs across the country are armed with knowledge to help them pursue careers in an agency, company or other insurance industry organization."

The Classroom to Career scholarship is new this year and is for students who would like to enter the insurance industry immediately after graduating from InVEST. These students are eligible for $500 reimbursement for licensing or designation expenses.

Scholarship candidates submit essays describing the influence and benefits InVEST had on their educational plans. The quality of the essay, combined with the applicant's grade-point average and extracurricular activities, were factors in selecting the recipients. Scholarship checks are mailed directly to the institute of higher learning that each student is attending and will be used exclusively for educational expenses.

"Continuing growth and success of the InVEST program is critical not only to the future of the independent agency system, but to the insurance industry as a whole," says Robert Rusbuldt, Independent Insurance Agents & Brokers of America (IIABA or the Big "I") president & CEO. "With the average age of an insurance professional around 54, the InVEST program has the potential to replenish our workforce during a critical time in our industry."

Nationally, this year InVEST awarded $47,500 in scholarships to 54 students pursuing insurance-related degrees. The 2011 scholarship winners represent 20 schools and hail from California, Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Nebraska and New York. This year, 101 scholarship hopefuls from across the country submitted essays.

Along with direct contributions, scholarships are funded through proceeds generated by the InVEST Silent and Live auctions held in conjunction with the annual Big "I" Legislative Conference & Convention. This year, the Young Agents Committee (YAC), the association's young professionals organization, sponsored a successful casino night fundraiser titled "YAC Gives Back: A Benefit for InVEST Scholarships" in conjunction with the annual event. Auction items were donated by insurance carriers, agents and brokers, the Big "I" and its state affiliates and other industry organizations.

As a 501(c)(3) educational trust, InVEST benefits from the support of numerous insurance organizations, hundreds of agencies, brokers and volunteers. The program provides the insurance industry with motivated, talented and intelligent professionals through a support structure of state associations, board members, national staff, teachers and the many industry professionals who work in the field as classroom liaisons.

Founded in 1970 and based in Alexandria, Va., InVEST promotes insurance education in order to attract individuals to pursue a career in the insurance industry. Each year, the program prepares thousands of students for insurance-related careers with a hands-on curriculum taught in high schools, adult education centers and community colleges. The high school curriculum is a business-education program that utilizes a hands-on approach which simulates an insurance agency and company operations to prepare students for various business careers and create more knowledgeable insurance consumers. At the college level, InVEST is an information-intensive curriculum of risk management and financial services. These courses provide students with a working knowledge of the basics needed to pursue careers in the insurance industry. For more information, go to www.investprogram.org.

Founded in 1896, the Big "I" is the nation's oldest and largest national association of independent insurance agents and brokers, representing a network of more than 300,000 agents, brokers and their employees nationally. Its members are businesses that offer customers a choice of policies from a variety of insurance companies. Independent agents and brokers offer all lines of insurance—property, casualty, life, health, employee benefit plans and retirement products. Web address: www.independentagent.com.

East County Vons store named top fundraiser by Easter Seals Southern California

The Santee Vons store was named a top fundraising store by Easter Seals during Safeway Inc.'s charity campaign to benefit people with disabilities in April. The Santee store achieved the highest fundraising total in its district. During the month-long campaign, 268 Vons stores in Southern California raised more than $1 million to directly benefit people with disabilities at Easter Seals Southern California and their families through job training and employment, preschool and after-school services, autism services, assistance for people to move out of institutions and into their own home, and services that help adults learn basic daily living and social skills. As a company, Safeway stores raised $6.2 Million during the campaign for Easter Seals affiliates nationwide.

"The Santee Vons consistently ranks as a top fundraising store in San Diego County during the April fundraiser for people with disabilities," says Mark Whitley, chief executive officer of Easter Seals Southern California. "We are very grateful to all employees and customers who participate, especially in the current challenging economy. Support from Vons stores is essential to ensure our services continue without interruption to give people with disabilities greater independence."

"Thank you to our employees and loyal customers who made the campaign successful again this year," says Vons Store Manager John Woods. "We are a decades-long supporter of Easter Seals and are very proud of their work to help people with disabilities gain independence."

Vons is a division of Safeway, Inc., a Fortune 100 company and one of the largest food and drug retailers in North America, based on 2010 sales of $41 billion. Safeway operates 1,694 stores in the United States and western Canada, 277 of which are in southern California and southern Nevada that operate under the

Vons and Pavilions banners. Vons supports a broad range of charitable and community programs and in 2010, donated more than $14 million to cancer research, schools, programs that assist people with disabilities and other important causes. Unfair taxing of rural property owners

The following statement may be attributed directly to San Diego County Supervisor Dianne Jacob on the passage of State Assembly Bill ABX129 (Blumenfeld), which would unfairly impose an annual parcel of tax of up to $150 on rural property owners:

Once again, members of California's desperate legislature are unfairly targeting rural property owners to make up for the State's inability to balance its budget and adequately fund fire protection. The bill amounts to double taxation because these property owners are already paying for fire protection through their property taxes. Many residents are paying additional taxes to their local fire districts. Some are victims of the 2003 and 2007 fires so these folks would be getting burned twice. The bill provides zero additional services and fleeces rural property owners while allowing legislators to avoid prioritizing the state's most basic responsibilities.

'Shrek The Musical' hits the big stage in San Diego

by Diana Saenger

Shrek, the huge green ogre from the swamp, has charmed studio audiences since 2001 on the big screen. Now Shrek, along with his faithful friend donkey, will entertain on the theatrical stage in Shrek The Musical with book and lyrics by David Lindsay-Abaire and music by Jeanine Tesori. Directed by Jason Moore and Rob Ashford, the show runs July 5 - 10, 2011 at the Civic Theatre.

In Shrek The Musical Shrek faces a life-changing adventure to reclaim the deed to his land. Joined by a wise-cracking donkey, this unlikely hero fights a fearsome dragon, rescues a feisty princess and learns that real friendship and true love aren't only found in fairy tales. "We are thrilled to send Shrek The Musical to theatres across the country," said Bill Damaschke, President of DreamWorks Theatricals, "and for American families to experience their favorite ogre and fairy tale creatures live on stage."

Eric Petersen joins the cast as Shrek. He recently appeared as the socially challenged Barfee in the National tour of The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee. Haven Burton, also from the Broadway Company, will play the feisty Princess Fiona. Haven previously played Margo the Dog Whisperer on Broadway in Legally Blonde and understudied Elle Woods. Alan Mingo, Jr. is Shrek's lovably annoying best friend Donkey. He was an original company member of The Little Mermaid where he played the role of Sebastian, and prior to that played the role of Tom Collins in RENT on Broadway.

draws Vaughn to performing on stage. "I have a short attention span, so playing roles like this for the rest of my life, I'd get bored," he said. "So I love the variety of theatre."

Shrek The Musical is based on the story and characters from William Steig's book Shrek!, as well as the DreamWorks Animation film Shrek, the first chapter of the Shrek movie series. The storyline of Lord Farquaad is basically the same character in the film in trying to steal Princess Fiona away from Shrek. "What we did in this show is very unique," Vaughn said. "We've kept the same style of performance in some characters, but with Farquaad instead of him being a traditional fairy tale villain, he's more of a spoiled brat who isn't getting his way. It's a little funnier and he has more freedom like in his opening scene which is a big show number."

Vaughn is also a composer, winning "Outstanding Music and Lyrics" for his work on Extraordinary!. His other composition credits include "The Johnny," music for the web series Weiner and Weiner, The Night, and upcoming Trip The Light Fantastic. Working on a musical is an added pleasure for him. "My biggest pleasure was I got to watch Jeanine Tesori write, literally creating this music at a piano working out chords and harmony. That was a dream come true for me."

David F. M. Vaughn plays the vertically challenged villain Lord Farquaad. He too joins the tour from the Broadway Company. He has also appeared in Les Misérables and Saturday Night Fever.

In a phone interview, Vaughn expressed his elation about playing the role of Lord Farquaad. "I played the understudy on Broadway, and this has been a long time favorite role," he said. "Obviously the physical aspects take a lot out of me, but it's so well-written. And it's fun to play someone who is evil and silly at the same time, you can get away with anything, which is a dream to an actor."

Shrek is a long way from Les Misérables, but portraying different characters is part of what Shrek fans love the heart in his story but also are thoroughly entertained by the humor.

"When you play a character like Farquaad it's always the sidekick characters who are the most fun," Vaughn said. "Shrek has the job of being on stage the entire time and being the straight man in a world of craziness. The musical has the same storyline as the first movie but we've added more. There's a back story and the characters are a little more three-dimensional. The show opens with Shrek as a 7-year-old boy getting kicked out of his house, and we find out why Fiona was locked away in a tower. It's a lot of fun."

'Larry Crowne' has baby boomer appeal

Review by Diana Saenger

Tom Hanks' fans love him as well as the characters he plays, which probably explains why he currently has 19 projects in development. So imagining Hanks as Larry Crowne, the best employee in the big discount store UMart, is no stretch. Nor is it hard to believe he gets fired, for that's what's happening all over the country in real life. Throw in the lucky chips of Hanks also directing plus being the co-writer with Nia Vardalos (My Big Fat Greek Wedding), and there's much to like about Larry Crowne.

We learn little about Larry's personal background as he sits home alone, except that he had a low-key career in a U.S. Navy kitchen. When his neighbor and yard-sale addict Lamar (Cedric the Entertainer), advises him to go back to school, Larry takes his advice. He signs up for an economics class and a speech class at the local community college.

Mercedes Tianot (Julia Roberts) is nothing like what her speech class students expect. She's a sourpuss who hopes there won't be enough students to show up so the class will be cancelled. In reality, she's miserably married to a no-job loser (Bryan Cranston) who spends his time on porn and reminding Mercedes that small breasts are inadequate.

Larry already feels he's a fish out of water as an older man in school without having to spend an hour each class period with Ms. Sourpuss. But when Talia (Gugu Mbatha-Raw), a perky young student notices he rides a motor-scooter to school, she invites him to ride with her fellow riders. Mbatha-Raw owns this character. Adding a lot of charm to this movie, she's a TV star (Undercovers) ready to fill big-screen shoes quite effectively.

Eventually Ms. Tianot thaws, and a spark between her and Larry "supposedly" ignites. Some critics are labeling Larry Crowne a romantic comedy, but actually it's not. The movie does have some funny moments. Talia is a big flirt with Larry, but she's young enough to be his daughter and sees Larry as more of a broken spirit she wants to fix. And when some of her actions seem to be misunderstood by Larry, Talia's boyfriend (Wilmer Valderrama) steps in to remind Larry she's not available. Valderrama provides some great subtle humor in these scenes.

George Takei unleashes terrific comedic moments as Dr. Matsutani, the economic professor who at one moment seems to threaten his students and the next has a laugh-off with them at his own jokes. The comedy in the film is lessened, however, as Larry and Mercedes' have some tough issues to face. Many viewers might relate to the sad part of the story involving Larry's many years working in a kitchen, then giving his all and expecting to be employees of the month only to be fired.

The movie does have heart, which is understandable coming from Hanks, a chameleon-like performer. Although his coupling with Roberts in Charlie Wilson's War (2007) left some disappointed by the thick political aspects and Roberts' over-the-top performance, the two popular actors connect in this film enough for us to buy into the plot.

With its focus on mid-life crisis, Larry Crowne will probably appeal mostly to baby boomers who are desperately searching for something other than big blow-ups in movies like Transformers 4 or yet another 3D disaster.

'Transformers: Dark of the Moon' — motion sickness nightmare

Review by Michael Black

Transformers: Dark of the Moon is the third installment of the Transformer series based on the popular 1984 cartoon. Thanks to producer Steven Spielberg and director Michael Bay, I had to sit through another badly directed and horribly written two and a half hour movie that should come with a warning for moviegoers to take motions-sickness pills before watching.

To recap the basic story, the transformers are an alien race of robots that have split into two factions – the good Autobots and the evil Decepticons who came to earth as various vehicles to blend into society without being noticed. They wanted to find a technology that gives life to electronics and mechanical objects.

In the new film the Autobots have integrated into human society to keep the earth safe from threats from both humans and Decepticons. The Autobots discover the humans have not been up front about everything and that a Cybertron ship crashed on the dark side of the moon in 1961. The ship contained advanced technology that could rebuild the robots' home planet. The Decepticons, aware of the ship, plotted with the humans to obtain the Cybertron technology, defeat the Autobots and enslave the Earth.

Shia LaBeouf reprises his role as Sam Witwicky, the Autobots friend and confidant who finds himself in the middle of war once again. Sam has a new super hot girlfriend, Carly Spencer (Rosie Huntington-Whiteley) replacing Megan Fox in previous films. Josh Duhamel as U.S. Army Lt. Colonel William Lennox, John Turturro as Agent Seymour Simmons and Tyrese Gibson return. Huntington-Whiteley is no different from the little affect Fox had in her role. The only contributing factor for this character is pure sex appeal.

Dark of the Moon introduces a few new characters and robot voices. Patrick Dempsey as Dylan Gould is Carly's ultra rich boss who gives Sam a leg up on getting a job and competing for her affections. Bruce Brazos (John Malkovich) is an eccentric, obsessive compulsive boss who reluctantly hires Sam. Frances McDormand portrays Charlotte Mearing, an U.S. National Intelligence Director who appears to have little intelligence since her conclusions are wrong on nearly everything throughout the movie.

Leonard Nimoy provides the voice of Sentinel Prime, the original leader of the Autobots but was deactivated long before the Autobots left Cybertron. Primes body was found in the wreckage of the ship that crashed on the moon. There are a few Star Trek jokes but they get few chuckles. Voices of major robots (Peter Cullen, Hugo Weaving) are great but the robots are the exaggerated stereotypes as usual.

What bugs me about director Michael Bay is his constant craning or trucking shots in almost every scene. The camera is craning up or down, left or right or rotating around everything, constantly or the overuse of the slow motion shots to show off the intricate computer graphics or a female character's seductive walk during an intense battle scene. This repetition in many scenes almost appears as sexual objectification of the females in the movie.

Despite those beefs along with plot holes, continuity errors, and historical inaccuracies, the movie's exceptional visual effects are the only reason to see this movie. Fans of the first two movies will not be disappointed but will forget this movie a week later.

Cat adoption 101

Deciding to adopt a cat can be a rewarding and exciting time for families and individuals. To ensure as smooth a transition as possible, there are several things pet parents should consider upon bringing their newest feline family member home. Dr. Robyn Jaynes, DVM, veterinarian and Pet Care Expert at PetSmart®, shares her tips on how to best welcome home a newly adopted cat.

Select a Vet: Pet parents should identify a veterinarian early on, so they can begin regular checkups and vaccinations. Choose a vet in close proximity, for convenience and quick response in case of emergency. Ask neighbors or relatives who live close by and have cats for recommendations and referrals.

Go Slow: Coming into a new home can be overwhelming, so it's important to give your cat the space and time to get comfortable. Pick a room or area of the house you can section off for your new cat to make his or her own. Slowly increase exposure to the rest of the house and your two- and four-legged family members over the first few days, giving the cat time to get comfortable and slowly integrate into the rest of the household.

Make Time to Play: Cats instinctively like to climb, scratch and chase. Pet parents should purchase toys, furniture or scratching posts for around the house that let their cat practice these natural behaviors without being destructive. Toys filled with catnip can be particularly helpful in drawing cats away from other items in the house to their own toys, and cat furniture is available in all sizes to address their climbing instincts.

Watch the Water: Cats are finicky when it comes to drinking water so purchasing a water system that filters water can be an easy solution to prevent dehydration. This tip is especially important early on, when a cat may be stressed in his or her new environment and might not drink or eat normally. Specialty retailers, like PetSmart, have hydration systems available that filter water automatically, continually providing fresh-tasting water for cats. If an automatic water filter solution is not available, the pet parent should be sure to freshen the cat's water at least daily.

Find Their Preference: It's important that a cat maintain a healthy diet, and choosing a food that your cat will enjoy eating that also provides quality nutrition is important. You may need to try a variety of options, including wet and dry varieties to find the right choice for taste and nutrition.

Litter Box Success: While cats are finicky about their food and water, they are equally or in many cases, more finicky about their litter boxes. Cats need to feel comfortable using this space. Select a quiet location that your cat can easily access, and you may need to try a couple different types of boxes, as well as litter brands, to allow your cat to select his or her favorite litter, encouraging consistent use from the outset. Regardless of the box and litter type, it is important that the box be kept clean, and it's best that in multiple-cat families, there are multiple boxes.

MOTOR AND SPORTS

2011 Porsche Carrera GTS — a fabulous ride

2011 Porsche Carrera GTS.

by Dave Stall

I think a driver could be blind folded and put into any year Porsche, drive it and they would know it is a Porsche. Porsche has a mystic about it that has been with the mark since its beginning back in the 40's thanks to Dr. Ferdinand Porsche.

Even when Porsche went water cooled the Porsche community gasped but survived. Today the Porsche is found in local dealerships is a fabulous ride. I must comment on the fact they kept that air-cooled sound of their historic engines.

This Porsche was a little different than what I would have picked. My tester had a 7-speed automatic transmission called PDK (Porsche Doppel Kupplung). I am not a fan of automatics, but this system was just what an automatic transmission hater would love. There is a feature on the PDK System that allows Launch Control, not knowing what this was I broke out the owners manual and read up. Let me remind readers this is a 408 horsepower 310 pound-foot of raw torque under the drivers right foot. Here is how this system works, as per the owner manual: Engage the Porsche in Sport 2 on the dash, apply the brakes (have it in gear would help) mash the accelerator pedal to the floor until the engine reaches 6500 RPM, that is correct, 6500 RPM, slip the foot off the brake pedal and hang on!

I did not try this, as I read the owners manual and it explained the devastation that could be caused with multiple applications of "Launch Control." I assumed a few journalists had done it before me and I didn't want to take the chance of breaking it. It is for the race track, but the next time I get on as track with a PDK Porsche, watch out!

My tester was Guards Red, black interior with a touch of Alcantara, the instrumentation was painted red, with red accents throughout the 911, center console, and seat belts, yes seat belts. The driver seat was manually operated, but very supportive with height, adjustment along with lumbar support and heat. There are back seats, looked comfortable but I used that area for storage. There is a front trunk for a few small bags, which would work just fine for a weekender trip. Alloy satin painted 8X19 RS Spyder wheels with 235/35/ZR19 up front and 11X19 RS Spyder wheels with 305/30/ZR19 in the rear, no rotation here please!

Acceleration is the name of the game and thanks to 13 inch rotors this beast will stop on a dime with Brembo brakes, painted red I might add.

Of course you get all the creature comforts, Bluetooth, AM/FM/CD/MP3 235 watts with nine well positioned speakers.

Base priced at $103,100, out the door at $120,725 plus tax, license.

This is a driver's car I don't care what the competition slogan is, this car is the kind of car one gets into and want to drive and drive and drive, Porsche has done that since day one and drivers will never lose that experience driving a Porsche!

Oh I forgot, fuel mileage is good, 19 MPG city and 26 freeway.

dents are all between the ages of 15 and 18 years, are English-speaking, have their own spending money, carry accident and health insurance, and want to share their cultural experiences with their new American families. P.I.E. currently has programs to match almost every family's needs, ranging in length from one semester to a full academic year, where the students attend local public and private high schools. "At this critical time in our country's history, hosting an international teen is the best and purest form of public diplomacy the United States has," said Doty.

Families who host for P.I.E. are also eligible to claim a monthly charitable contribution deduction on their itemized tax returns for each month they host a sponsored student.

For the upcoming programs, P.I.E. has students from Germany, the Former Soviet Union, Venezuela, Argentina, Brazil, Hungary, Croatia, Korea, Mexico, Slovakia, China, and many other countries. P.I.E. is also participating in a special government-funded program to bring scholarship students from the Newly Independent States of the former Soviet Union to live in American communities.

PI.E. is a non-profit educational organization that has sponsored more than 25,000 students from 45 countries since its founding in 1975. The organization is designated by the United States Department of State and is listed by the Council on Standards for International Educational Travel (CSIET), certifying that the organization complies with the standards set forth in CSIET's Standards for International Educational Travel Programs.

Doty encourages families to contact the program immediately, as it will allow the proper time for the students and hosts to get to know one another before they actually meet for the first time.

Families interested in learning more about student exchange or arranging for a meeting with a community representative may call P.I.E., toll-free, at 1-866-546-1402. The agency also has travel/study program opportunities available for American high school students as well as possibilities for community volunteers to assist and work with area host families, students and schools.
