Second Annual Alpine Education Fall Festival at Summer's Past Farms — Nik Software gives AEF $10,000

by Kathy Foster

The Alpine Education Foundation's (AEF) 2nd Annual Fall Festival last week drew big crowds and raised more funds than last year that benefit schools. Mike Slater (President and CEO) and Ed Sanchez (Executive VP) of Nik Software gave a $10,000 donation at the event.

Festival organizer Danica James and her helpers created a happy place at Summer's Past Farms where children enjoyed hayrides, laser tag, face painting and various other games through the afternoon.

The AEF is committed to preserving the quality of the current educational programs and facilitating enrichment education. It seeks to provide an alternative method of support for our schools through its commitment to raise funds and using tax-deductible donations to directly benefit and support the schools and our children. To date AEF has raised $70,000 for their programs. To receive their newsletter or for more info visit: www.aef4kids.org/

Change your clocks back one hour on Sunday Nov. 6

When it's time to "fall back" and change our clocks back one hour on Sunday, Nov. 6, make sure to change the batteries in all of your smoke alarms as well...it could save your life! Having a "working" smoke alarm reduces a person's chance of dying in a fire by half. For the very best protection, install smoke alarms on every level of your home, outside every sleeping area, and in every bedroom. Smoke alarms should be mounted high on walls or ceilings, and tested monthly. It's important to replace smoke alarm batteries at least twice a year, unless they're 10-year lithium batteries. Even if your smoke alarms are hardwired, replace the batteries in case of a power outage. Have a home escape plan and practice your plan with your family, this includes having a designated meeting place outside. Stay safe!

Partners Program

The Partners Therapeutic Horse Show and BBQ was held Saturday, Oct. 15 at the Lone Oak Ranch in Lakeside. The fourth annual horseshow and barbecue featured talented students displaying their horsemanship skills. One of the riders, now 23-years-old, has been with the program for 10 years progressing from simple commands on horseback to having his own driver's license, attending community college and helping Partners with the horses.

The barbecue, provided by the Lakeside Optimists, was served to more than 200 people. Attendants were treated to games, carnival booths for the children, and auction items to benefit the Partners Program. For information call (619) 561-6375.

Starbucks Grand Opening

Starbucks Grand Opening will be held Saturday, Oct. 29 from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the new Lakeside shopping center at 15511 Winter Garden Blvd. The theme for the event is "Coffee's from around the World." A coffee seminar with pastry pairing, sampling and other events are scheduled.

New Fire Station

Saturday, Dec. 17 is the scheduled date for the grand opening for the new fire station 2 on 12216 Lakeside Ave. in Lakeside. The Eucalyptus Hills Station number 2 will be closing. The nearly 50-year-old station opened in early 1960s. When the station first opened it was run by one firefighter. Now there are three firefighters with two apparatus, one engine and one bush engine. The engine has advance life support with an on board paramedic. The firefighters stationed at the Eucalyptus Hills station expressed they have enjoyed the community atmosphere of the Hills, but are looking forward to the new station with state of the art equipment.

Sixty people attended the last open house at the Eucalyptus Hills Station where they were given a tour with firefighters explaining the inner workings of the two apparatus and how the station itself works. Fire paramedic Brian Moore showed the advance life support equipment to parents and children and explained how quickly help can be administered during an emergency.

We CARE Packages for the military

The City of El Cajon's Special Events Committee is currently coordinating a drive to collect items for Care packages that will be distributed to military members before the holidays. The theme is "They serve our country - let's serve them!" City employees have expanded their collection efforts to the community. Items to donate include: new pairs of heavy duty socks, foot powder, baby/body wipes, deodorant, books and DVDs, toothpaste, toothbrush, toiletries, assorted snacks (sorry - no chocolates due to melting) hard candy, gum, sunflower seeds, corn nuts, etc. Monetary donations are also being sought to mail these care packages to military members serving overseas. Please call (619) 875-9011 if you would like to donate. Collection boxes can be found at El Cajon Fire Station 6, 100 E. Lexington Avenue, in El Cajon; and at the El Cajon Federal Credit Union at 266 S Magnolia Ave, Suite # 101 in El Cajon. If you would like to nominate an overseas military family member to receive a Care package, send their name to: kdodson@cityofelcajon.us.

Be a sponsor of El Cajon's Centennial Celebration in 2012

You can be a part of the party and of history! Excitement is growing as plans continue for the City of El Cajon's Centennial Celebration in 2012. The exact date of the City's 100th Birthday is Monday, Nov. 12, 2012; but fun events are in the planning stages leading up to that date - and after! The Centennial Celebration Committee, led by Councilmember Jillian Hanson-Cox, is now accepting volunteers. Go to www.elcajon100.com and look for the volunteer information and registration, and "sponsorship" opportunities.

If you have an event in the City of El Cajon that you would like to share, please contact Monica Zech, Public Information Officer for the City of El Cajon, at (619) 441-1737 or via e-mail at mzech@cityofelcajon.us, or mail to: Monica Zech, Public Information Officer, City of El Cajon, 200 Civic Center Way, El Cajon, CA 92020.

Two of our members, Barbara and Ken, are again helping Mama's Kitchen raise money to provide nutritious meals for San Diego men, women and children affected by HIV/AIDS and cancer. Mama's Kitchen hopes to sell more than 6,000 pies during the six-week sales period, which will raise $125,000 and fund nearly 40,000 meals. Each pie sold provides more than six home-delivered meals to a neighbor struggling with critical illness. Oct. 28-29: Halloween weekend at Imperial Sand Dunes. Ghosts and goblins along with plenty of trick-or-treats will be evident during the upcoming Halloween weekend as the BLM launches another recreation season at the Imperial Sand Dunes Recreation Area (ISDRA). As visitors return from a summer off from dunes recreating, BLM officials are quick to emphasize key messages that ensure a safe visitor experience. "We look forward to the thousands of visitors having a fun safe season," says BLM El Centro Field Manager Margaret Goodro. "The start of the season is a perfect time to remind folks to stay safe and have a great ride." As part of the key messages and safety effort, the El Centro Field Office will add a new twist to its continuing education and outreach program by distributing thousands of brightly colored Frisbees sporting safety messages. These messages remind visitors of the danger of carbon monoxide poisoning, encourage visitors to wear seat belts/harnesses both on and off road, and to slow down to 15 mph within 50 feet of camps or people. Neil Hamada, Imperial Sand Dunes Recreation Area Manager, also encourages visitors to be especially cautious, of both the crowds and the constantly changing terrain. "Visitors should take care to scout areas for drop-offs that may not have been there last season." Halloween safety

Submitted by Monica Zech,
Public Information Officer

For many people, Halloween and Harvest Day are fun times to dress up in costumes, go trick-or-treating, attend parties, and eat yummy treats. These events are also opportunities to provide nutritious snacks, get physical activity, and focus on safety. Below are tips to help make the festivities fun and safe for trick-or-treaters and party guests.

Going trick-or-treating?

- Avoid trick-or-treating alone. Walk in groups or with a trusted adult.
- Fasten reflective tape to costumes and bags to help drivers see you.
- Examine all treats for choking hazards and tampering before eating them. Limit the amount of treats you eat.

• Hold a flashlight while trick-or-treating to help you see and others see you.

• Always test make-up in a small area first. Remove it before bedtime to prevent skin and eye irritation.

• Look both ways before crossing the street. Use established crosswalks wherever possible.

• Lower your risk for serious eye injury by not wearing decorative contact lenses.

• Only walk on sidewalks or on the far edge of the road facing traffic to stay safe.

• Wear well-fitting masks, costumes, and shoes to avoid blocked vision, trips, and falls.

• Eat only factory-wrapped treats. Avoid eating homemade treats unless you know the cook well.

• Enter homes only if you're with a trusted adult. Otherwise, stay outside.

• Never walk near lit candles or luminaries. Be sure to wear flame-resistant costumes.

Expecting trick-or-treaters or party guests?

Provide healthier treats for trick-or-treaters, such as individual packs of raisins, trail mix, or pretzels. For party guests, offer a variety of fruits, vegetables, and cheeses. Be sure children are walking in safe well-lit areas, free of obstacles that could result in falls. Keep candle-lit jack-o'-lanterns and luminaries away from doorsteps, walkways, landings, and curtains. Place them on sturdy tables, keep them out of the reach of pets and small children, and never leave them unattended.

• Remind drivers to watch out for trick-or-treaters and to drive safely.

• Please designate before you celebrate – do not drink and drive - Halloween is scary enough!

The past is the past

by Judy
Callihan Warfield

Take a moment and reflect how the past may be holding you back from enjoying today and being able to set goals for the future. In my practice I'm often asked about past life regression. This is a method that is done at the client's request only. Let me explain why.

Continuing to look back for reasons of current behavior only tends to keep a person stuck. Sometimes focusing on past experiences gives the person an excuse to stop moving forward. People often continue to blame their parents for bad parenting skills well into their adult life. Is it a fact that perhaps the parents could have done better? Of course, but by continuing to look to the past keeps a person from addressing his/her issue now and being able to take control back of goals and dreams for the future.

Perhaps there was a terrible or traumatic experience in the past. It's not about forgetting the experience, but rather about recognizing how it affects one life now and taking steps to move beyond it and move forward. The past is the past and it's unable to be altered. However, here and now is within our ability to modify and change. The world can sometimes have difficult challenges for all, it's about how a person moves on when facing those challenges.

The ability to set goals and dreams is a unique human experience and one that keeps enthusiasm for life ongoing. Don't let anyone or anything keep those dreams and goals unreachable. It's important to move forward with head held high, and without the past controlling today. Clinical hypnotherapy can help keep that momentum going and address today's issues as well.

Inspiration

The illusive art of catching up

Is it just me, or do others have trouble catching up? Just when it looks like I am almost caught up with some project or my to-do-list, something happens setting me back a few paces. One step forward, as they say and for me 17 steps backward. Or, so it seems.

I don't have any problem whatsoever catching a cold. I once even caught a fly in my mouth while preaching, and it is as easy as New York style cheesecake to catch the dickens from the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. Catching up is another matter all together.

Two things happened last week that brought this to my attention.

First, I took someone out to lunch. That in itself is not outstanding. My wife tells me I am out to lunch all the time.

Have you ever tried to impress someone by taking them out to lunch and insist on paying for lunch? That is exactly what I did this past week. Why I ever try to impress anyone is beyond my wife's wildest imagination, but I try, much to her chagrin.

With a couple of hours to

Dr. Luauna Stines
Sundays
7:00 a.m.

spare, my friend called me. Immediately I set into action a plan to meet him at the restaurant for lunch – on me.

We had a grand time catching up on each other's life. Personally, I was thrilled to Catch Up on something. Unfortunately, I thought I was on a roll with ham and cheese. It was delicious to enjoy this brief time if only for a moment, but all good things do end.

Things were about to turn ugly. No, someone did not bring me a mirror. Instead, the affable waitress brought me the check.

Normally, this would not be a problem. I would accept the check after some friendly banter with the waitress complaining about the amount and threatening not to tip her and she threatening to tell my wife. We all smiled and then it happened.

I casually reached around to my back pocket to extract my wallet containing my credit card with which I would pay the check. My back pocket was as empty as a politician's promises.

At first, a slight streak of panic raced through my person causing me to freeze in petrifying fear. My first thought, I had someone else's trousers on. But whose? More important, where was the man wearing my trousers?

I smiled one of those smiles that says, "Oops, I'm in trouble but I don't want anyone to know."

My friend sensed something was wrong; friends are like that. Looking at me he said, "Is anything wrong?"

Being the truthful person I am, I said, "Wrong? What could be wrong? We've just enjoyed a great time together. No, nothing's wrong. Absolutely nothing is wrong." One problem with friends is they always know when you are lying. My friend was no different. He just looked at me and said, "OK, what's wrong?"

I may have trouble catching up but I have no trouble whatsoever being caught with my pants down. Well, maybe not quite down but certainly empty. Nothing is sadder than a man wearing empty trousers.

"Did you forget your wallet?" my friend asked with delight dancing in his eyes.

He happily paid the tab but I will never live it down.

The second incident also had to do with my wallet. Although this time, I did not forget my wallet.

I had an early morning meeting across town. I knew my car was running on fumes but no need to worry. I left the house early enough to stop and gas up.

Pulling out of my driveway, I noticed the gas gauge was lower than I remembered it being the night before. A tinge of terror gripped my mind and I earnestly prayed I would get to the gas station on time.

I sighed with relief as I approached a gas station. The station had just opened and the sign on the pump informed me I needed to pay for the gas before pumping it.

No problem. I ambled in, presented my credit card and purchased $20 worth of gas.

There is a good feeling associated with a schedule well in hand. I glanced at my watch and noticed I was two minutes ahead of schedule.

With a whistle on my lips and air between my ears, I got into my car and drove away. Two miles later, I glance at the gas gauge and noticed it had not moved. I tapped the gauge and nothing happened. At that time, the car sputtered and coughed ominously.

Then, like a bolt of lightening, it struck me. I had paid for the gas and drove away without pumping it into my car. By this time, the car engine stopped and I had just enough momentum to pull to the side of the road.

I sat there a few minutes pondering my dilemma. I knew what I had to do but I did not want to do it. Slowly, I picked up my cell phone and dialed the dreaded number. The phone rang and in a moment, I heard myself speaking into the phone, "Honey, can you..."

Waiting for my wife to bring a can of gas I thought of a verse of scripture. "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin" (James 4:17 KJV).

Good intentions must be accompanied with appropriate action.

Volunteers working to collect 8,100 gifts for needy kids this Christmas

While many El Cajon families are busy with holiday activities, a group of local volunteers is focused on filling empty shoe boxes with school supplies, toys, hygiene items and notes of encouragement for needy kids overseas. El Cajon families are participating in the world's largest Christmas project of its kind—Operation Christmas Child—an effort that has hand-delivered 86 million gifts to kids worldwide since 1993.

This year-round project of Samaritan's Purse is coming to its peak, as local businesses, churches and schools prepare to collect gift-filled shoe boxes during National Collection Week, Nov. 14-21. Volunteers can drop off their shoe box gifts at one of three bustling locations in the area to help kids in 100 countries know they are loved and not forgotten.

Operation Christmas Child, a project of international Christian relief and evangelism organization Samaritan's Purse, uses whatever means necessary to reach suffering children around the world with these gifts of hope, including sea containers, trucks, trains, airplanes, boats, camels and dog sleds. Tracking technology also allows donors to "follow" their box to the destination country where it will be hand-delivered to a child in need. To register shoe box gifts and find out the destination country, use the Follow Your Box donation form found at www.samaritanaspurse.org/occ.

What you can do to get involved:

PREPARE—Enlist families, churches, scout troops, community groups and businesses to take part in creating shoe box gifts for needy children worldwide.

PACK—Fill shoe boxes with school supplies, toys, necessity items and a letter of encouragement. Step-by-step shoe box packing instructions are available at www.samaritanaspurse.org/occ.

VOLUNTEER—Sign up to join Operation Christmas Child volunteers in El Cajon as part of the effort to prepare millions of shoe box gifts for delivery to underprivileged kids on six continents.

For more information on how to participate in Operation Christmas Child, call (714) 432-7030 or visit www.samaritanaspurse.org/occ. National Collection Week for gift-filled shoe boxes is Nov. 14-21; however, shoe box gifts are collected all year at the Samaritan's Purse headquarters in Boone, N.C.

The excellent 'In Time' is filled with action, intrigue and tension

Review by Diana Saenger

Writer/director Andrew Niccol's films evoke pause and require some smart thinking. The Academy Award-nominated Gattaca (1997), which he wrote, was also his first directing debut and a favorite of sci-fi fans. The offbeat The Truman Show (1998), starring Jim Carrey and written and produced by Niccol, received three Academy Award nominations, including Best Screenplay. With In Time, Niccol taps into one of the world's biggest obsessions – remaining young.

Full of action, adventure and the ever popular ticking clock, Niccol provokes an even more intriguing world in the future where no one ages past 25. That would be great if it wasn't also a world where everything is run by hours and minutes, including how long someone might live. The rich can buy time from the bank, but the poor are left to barter or steal.

Will Salas (Justin Timberlake) lives with his mother (Olivia Wilde) in the time zone of Dayton. He works hard every day at an unfriendly factory hoping to add a few hours to the green illuminated clock ticking away on this forearm. He's always on the short end of hours – usually less than 24 hours left to live – but manages to squeak by. He even downloads some hours to his mother from time to time or uploads some from her.

One day Will does not meet his quota at work, so he receives no time. He realizes he must find his mother quickly since she gave him her time when he left for work and was supposed to give it back. While frantically looking for time, Will aids Henry (Matt Bomer), a rich man, from a gang who's looking to steal time. Henry – now 105 – has tired of this world, so as he and Will hide out and sleep, he downloads a century of time to Will. With only minutes left, Henry falls off a bridge and dies.

Will is then accused of murder and chased by the Timekeeper Leon (Cillian Murphy). Not finding an accessible place to hide in Dayton, he makes his way to the rich area of New Greenwich. Now on the other side of the hours dilemma, he must keep his arm constantly out of site. At this point, the plot becomes more intense as Will gets involved with Sylvia (Amanda Seyfried), daughter of the banker (Vincent Kartheiser) who controls time.

Anyone who questions if Timberlake could take on a role that at one time would have gone to Bruce Willis need not worry. Every minute he's on screen here, Timberlake appears exciting and believable as Will.

Director Niccol thought Timberlake was just right for the role. "I love Justin's work ethic, which is one of the important traits he shares with his character, Will Salas," Niccol said. "I don't think Justin himself has taken a day off since he was 12 years old. There is no reason he won't be a successful action hero [as Will] because he seems to be great at anything he turns his hand to."

A fine cast keeps the far-fetched In Time believable, and great cinematography by Roger Deakins (True Grit, No Country for Old Men, The Shawshank Redemption) helps create the film's bizarre world. Niccol manages to generate a world full of danger, split-second choices and even a romance – all of which may mesmerize viewers. Barely a sound was heard during the screening I attended. In Time definitely entertains and should sustain a lot of buzz weeks after its release.

'Anonymous' interesting concept, great production value

Review by Diana Saenger

The mere idea that the work of William Shakespeare is not really his own writing is almost scandalous. Not to mention attacking someone's validity 395 years after his death. But maybe there is right to question this as he was the son of an illiterate tradesman who had only a village school education. Even his death in 1616 was met with silence, and his illiterate wife and children were bequeathed only his "second best bed" – no money – and even more shockingly, his will mentions no books or manuscripts of any kind. Could he have authored literary masterpieces such as The Merchant of Venice, King Lear, and Henry V? That's the premise behind Director Roland Emmerich's Anonymous.

The film begins as a man (Derek Jacobi) lumbers into a theatre in modern time in New York to deliver the prologue and epilogue of a play titled Anonymous. He announces that Shakespeare did not leave a single manuscript when he passed and that the real writer of those works was Edward de Vere, seventeenth Earl of Oxford.

Transition to early England where The Earl of Oxford (Rhys Ifans) has penned marvelous plays and poems written in brilliant dialogue, but who does not want anyone to know he is the author. So he sends them to the theatre by Ben Jonson (Sebastian Armesto), another playwright. The narrator of the plays, a Globe actor by the name of Will Shakespeare (Rafe Spall), reads the plays and since no other name is attached, and they draw great favor from the queen, professes that he wrote them.

Eventually politics raises its head and someone wants those plays. Will is questioned, even beat and tortured by the Queen's royal guard to confess where they are hidden. He maintains they were burned in the fire. But were they?

From here on screenwriter John Orloff (A Mighty Heart) delivers a beautiful visual of a story, however it often had me lost with the back flashes away from the Elizabethan time period to the past and trying to keep up with who is king and who is bedding the queen. From one castle to another, from loving someone then condemning them to die, Anonymous is filled with intrigue, danger, double crossings and death – to some by a mere command.

The cast, which often must have two performers for the old and younger characters, is fabulous. Seasoned film veteran Vanessa Redgrave and her daughter Joely Richardson play the younger and older Queen Elizabeth. While Ifans is polished and distinguished as the elder Earl, Jamie Campbell Bower possesses the sexual charm as the younger Earl to entice his way into the queen's bed. Spall is excellent as the rascally actor who takes on the identity of the Duke's work.

Although the film never answers the question it presents, my interest was always kept alive by Anna J. Foerster's wonderful direction of photography and Lisy Christl's majestic costumes. These elements along with fine performances made the movie enjoyable, but I was still confused about the characters and their stories.

2011 Toyota Camry XLE — a workhorse with class

by Dave Stall

When I think of a car as a work horse I think of Camry and Ford Taurus for the domestic side. Don't take this negatively; in fact it's just the opposite. Drivers are hard on their cars and these two models have been stellar for the last 20 years of burning up the road.

Fast forward to today. Any one who needs a five-passenger 4-door sedan should add the new Camry to the list. It's been awhile since I tested a Camry. Although it's an excellent car, I never had much new to talk about even with the car's reliability. Toyota has spruced up its workhorse, and the XLE is the perfect choice.

My tester came with the 3.5-Liter V6 DOHC 24-Valve Dual VVT-I producing 268 hp @ 6200 rpm and torque of 248 lb.-ft. @ 4700 rpm. Or another choice is the more efficient engine package that's a 2.5-Liter 4-cylinder DOHC 16-Valve Dual VVT-i producing 178 hp @ 6000 rpm and torque of 170 lb.-ft. @ 4100 rpm. The V6 averages fuel mileage of 21 MPG city, 30 freeway and a combined mileage of 25. However, opt for the 4-cylinder and expect 25 city, 35 freeway and combined mileage of 28. I did my own mileage run and I averaged a combined 29.8 MPG burning Chevron regular gas. So it's a matter of choice.

Another improvement in the Camry lineup is attention to detail. The stitched leather, wood grain treatment, comfortable seating also includes great features for a family car such as navigation, back up camera and 10 air bags. Yes 10!

Driving the 2012 Camry is a pure joy. It handles the mountain roads with ease or just going to the grocery store it's a fine ride. Need storage?

No problem. The Camry has 15.4 cubic feet of trunk storage space along with features such as Projector-beam halogen headlamps with auto on/off feature, integrated fog lamps, a sport front mesh grille, integrated front and rear underbody spoilers and sport side rocker panels. There's more — powered color-keyed heated outside mirrors, a power tilt/slide moon roof with one-touch open/close with jam protection, driver and front passenger illuminated vanity mirrors, and rear-seat reading lamps. The washer-linked intermittent windshield wipers and rear window defogger with timer High Solar Energy-Absorbing (HSEA) glass are a few features worth looking at.

The 4-cylinder Camry bases as little as $21,995, plus tax, license and freight. My tester came in around $30,000, but owners can pick from the L, LE, XLE, Hybrid LE and Hybrid XLE. Check them out at www.toyota.com or visit a local Toyota dealer.

Jets win and Bolts lag

by Chuck Karazsia

Last Sunday at Met Life Stadium, formerly known as the Meadowlands in East Rutherford, N.J., the New York Jets rallied from an 11 point halftime deficit to defeat the Chargers 27-21. With the win the Jets improved their record to (4-3), while the Bolts dropped to (4-2).

"We are extremely disappointed," said Chargers head coach Norv Turner. "We came in here and thought we were well prepared. We had a lot of energy early. We made plays in the first half that gave us a chance to win. And obviously, we made some plays in the second half that kept us from winning."

This was a game of two halves. On the road the Bolts quieted the crowd in the first half by overpowering the Jets dominating the line of scrimmage. This caused two turnovers created by the defense. Getting off to a fast start, the Chargers got out to an early 7-0 first quarter lead, thanks to linebacker Donald Butler's strip and 37-yard fumble recovery returned for a touchdown. Bolts free safety Eric Weddle promptly intercepted Mark Sanchez pass in the end zone halting a New York touchdown-scoring drive in the first quarter. Score after quarter one, San Diego Chargers 7 - New York Jets 3.

Second quarter action saw Chargers All Pro tight end Antonio Gates catch his first touchdown pass of the season. A favorite target of quarterback Philip Rivers, Gates - although not 100 percent - reminded us how valuable he is to the Chargers offense, especially in red zone scoring situations.

After a Mike Tolbert one-yard touchdown run near the end of the second quarter with the Chargers winning 21-10, it was all New York with help from San Diego. The Chargers committed 13 penalties totaling 95-yards.

Although the Jets scored two touchdowns and a field goal in the second half of play the Chargers were still in a position to win it with a minute to play. That hope ended when Philip Rivers threw the ball erratically and the Chargers offense managed the clock poorly.

Number 17, Plexico Burrese receiver for the Jets, had a stellar performance tying a career-high three touchdown reception. Chargers quarterback Philip Rivers had one of his worst performances as a pro. He completed 50 percent of his passes 16-of-32, 179 yards, one touchdown to Gates and had two horrible interceptions.

Jets starting quarterback Mark Sanchez had similar numbers completing 18-of-33, 173 yards, three touchdowns and one interception. For the second consecutive week the Chargers defense gave up a 100-yard rusher. This time it was to New York Jets runner Shonn Greene who rampantly ran for 112-yards, on 20 carries.

This was a painful loss for the Chargers leaving their fans pessimistic. Closing comments from an optimistic Chargers head coach Turner were, "We are going to be a very good team. It hurts to lose this football game, but we're going to grow and get better from it."
