Each October the East County Chamber of Commerce honors the professional accomplishments of deserving and outstanding San Diego women. This event honors dynamic women nominated from the fields of art, media, culture, business, education, government, healthcare and nonprofits. Honorees should have demonstrated exemplary character and integrity along with outstanding leadership ability. The event was held at the Double Tree Hotel in Mission Valley on October 28.

More than 450 guests attended the event to honor San Diego women. Mistress of Ceremonies was retired news anchor and Women's Health Advocate, Carol LeBeau. Guest speaker Dr. Mary Lyons, President of the University of San Diego, shared her personal narrative about what skills and attributes she believes are crucial for the modern woman in the workforce. She hoped to inspire those in attendance to become involved and engaged in their respective communities.

Five of the women who were recognized are pictured here. Thella Bowens (not pictured) was recognized for Government. She works for the San Diego County Regional Airport Authority.

Change your clocks and don't forget to change smoke alarm batteries!

It's time to "fall back" and change our clocks back one hour on Sunday, Nov. 6, and please make sure to change the batteries in all of your smoke alarms as well – it's a proven lifesaver! Having a "working" smoke alarm reduces a person's chance of dying in a fire by half. For the very best protection, install smoke alarms on every level of your home, outside every sleeping area, and in every bedroom. Smoke alarms should be mounted high on walls or ceilings, and tested monthly. It's important to replace smoke alarm batteries at least twice a year, unless they're 10-year lithium batteries. Even if your smoke alarms are hardwired, replace the batteries in case of a power outage. Have a home escape plan and practice your plan with your family, this includes having a designated meeting place outside. Stay safe!

For Health's Sake

Seven ways to stop dieting

by Ellen Frankel

A tell-tale sign that the holidays are just around the corner is the number of weight loss television commercials telling viewers how they can lose pounds and have the ideal body in time for the holiday festivities if they purchase their products. If you have your magnifier reading glasses on, you can read the disclaimer that the results shown on the advertisement are atypical. Of course they are. Despite the weight loss industry taking in 60 billion dollars a year, statistics reveal that 95 to 98 percent of dieters regain the weight in the long run, often with added pounds.

This holiday season, while we enjoy the lights that shine from the city streets to the country lanes, we can also turn into our own inner light and, in the process, let go of the dieting culture and move into an internal and intuitive/attuned basis for eating allowing us to make peace with food, our bodies and ourselves.

The teachings of the East can instruct us in the West on how to move from the stress of the diet mentality to the calmness of the natural stream within us all. Here are seven tips for cultivating this priceless gift:

- Trust yourself and your inner wisdom. That means trusting your own internal cues to guide you when you're hungry, what you're hungry for and when you've had enough instead of turning to external dictates telling you when and what to eat.

- Everything is cyclical. All that arises passes away and will arise again. In the realm of eating, this means that getting hungry and satisfying that hunger is a natural process. Denying what arises (hunger) encourages disconnection, rather than connection, and discourages being with what is - being fully in just this moment.

- Everything changes. How many of us have said that we want to look like we did in high school, or at our wedding or after a 2-month bout of Mono? Things change, and that means our bodies change, too. Rather than fighting that, we can move toward acceptance by take good care of ourselves physically, emotionally and spiritually. We are a culture obsessed with denying aging and death, and forever searching for the fountain of youth. A better approach is to embrace the wisdom and gifts of each age.

- The middle way: Seek balance in life. In the realm of food, this means neither living a life of deprivation nor one of overindulgence.

- Compassion: for others and for oneself. In the realm of food and body, this means acting in a loving, compassionate and non-judgmental way in how we feed ourselves and talk about our bodies. It means celebrating body diversity, and letting go of a culturally mandated notion of perfection and, instead, sharing the beauty of imperfection.

- Gratitude: for being in this world. Here, we can move from anger and shame (what we feel after breaking a diet, or when we feel badly about our bodies) to a place of gratitude and peace for being a part of the great whole and for having a human body in this lifetime.

- Mindfulness. Practice moving through the world with awareness. This includes eating with awareness, without guilt, without counting calories or fat grams. Instead, we can live with an appreciation for the food that gives the body energy, nourishment and enjoyment.

As the holiday season draws near, the biggest gift we can offer ourselves and our loved ones is our full presence. And we can do that by moving into a place of self-love and attunement, counting our blessings rather than our calories.

Laughter is the Best Medicine

Washington, Lincoln, Columbus

A teacher was helping one of her kindergarten students put his boots on? She began pulling and him pushing but the boots just didn't want to go on. When the second boot was on, she had worked up a sweat. She almost whimpered when the little boy said, 'Teacher, they're on the wrong feet.' She looked, and sure enough, they were. It wasn't any easier pulling the boots off than it was putting them on. She managed to keep her cool as together they worked to get the boots back on - this time on the right feet. He then announced, 'These aren't my boots.' She bit her tongue rather than get right in his face and scream, 'Why didn't you say so?'

Once again she struggled to help him pull the ill-fitting boots off. He then said, 'They're my brother's boots. My Mom made me wear them.'

The teacher didn't know if she should laugh or cry. She then mustered up the grace to wrestle the boots onto his feet again. She said, 'Now, where are your mittens?'

He said, 'I stuffed them in the toes of my boots.'

Dr. Aaron to speak at Alpine Kiwanis on his career and treating President Reagan after assassination attempt

by Diana Saenger

These days Dr. Benjamin L. Aaron enjoys, golf, family and the lovely view from his home on a hill overlooking the East San Diego County valley. With a long career as a Naval heart surgeon and at one time head of George Washington University Hospital in Washington, D.C. retirement was inevitable. For the doctor who has many recollections of a memorable career, one is specifically significant. Dr. Aaron was the surgeon that operated on and removed the assassin's bullet from President Ronald Reagan in 1981.

Born in Jefferson City, Missouri, Aaron attended high school in Kansas City, Mo. It was an arm injury as a youth in a roller skating accident that placed him in treatment at a hospital many times. "I was just a young kid watching what was going on and it was all simpatico with me. I also had an aunt who was a doctor, and she was a big influence on me. I could see myself in that arena."

Aaron spent four years in medical school in Texas. Married in 1952, he joined the Navy in 1957, and came to California where he did an internship at the Naval Hospital in Oakland and also did a residency there in general surgery. From there he went to the Naval Hospital in New York where he trained in thoracic surgery. Following was a year's fellowship in Richmond, Virginia and a three month fellowship in cardiovascular surgery at the University of Alabama in Birmingham. At the fellowships he worked with prominent surgeons in their programs.

"I began thinking about being a thoracic cardiovascular surgeon when I was in surgical training," Aaron said. "That was an area that wasn't nearly as prominent as it is now. The heart-lung machine was just invented when I was in my surgical training."

Aaron spent 22 years in the Navy, most of it in Naval Teaching Hospitals. Before retiring he became the Chief of Thoracic Surgery at the San Diego Naval Hospital and moved his family to Alpine.

After his retirement in 1979 Aaron went to George Washington University Hospital running their training program in thoracic and cardiovascular surgery.

On March 31, 1981, Aaron was sitting at his desk doing paper work when his radio station broke in with news that there was an assassination attempt on President Regan as he was leaving a speaking event. Wounded in the attack by John Hinckley, Jr. was the President, White House Press Secretary James Brady, and Secret Service agent Timothy McCarthy. As Aaron heard sirens getting louder, he knew the wounded were heading to their emergency room.

"Every hospital in D.C. has a special telephone," Aaron said. "Any time the President moves, his medical guard knows what hospital is closest, and we were the closest one so his limousine headed right to us. At first they didn't think the President was shot, but then he coughed up a little blood and confessed to secret service agent Jerry Parr that he

East Count Gazette editor wins San Diego Press Club awards

Diana Saenger

by Debbie Norman

Diana Saenger, entertainment editor for the East County Gazette for nine years, took home two awards from the 38th annual San Diego Press Club awards on October 25, at the San Diego Hall of Champions.

With the theme of The Story Prevails, competition included 159 categories and 100s of member and nonmember entries. Saenger took third place in the Non-Daily Newspaper - Profile category; "A Fascinating Man Creating Positive Footprints For Horses and People." The profile in the East County Gazette reflected on with her interview with horse trainer Buck Brannaman, the inspiration for the Nicholas Evans novel on which the film The Horse Whisper was based. Brannaman does not whisper much, but in the four-day workshops he teaches around the country nine months a year, he teaches horse owners how to treat the animal as a partner rather than an adversary to be "broken" or tamed.

Saenger took second place in the Website: Blog by Journalists category; "9/11 Book Publishers Get Reaction To Bin Laden's Death." The blogcritics.org article focused on reactions of the death by writers of Saenger's SP Press publishing company's 2001 book Glory: A Nation's Spirit Defeats The Attack On America.

Since pursuing her journalism career full time since 1992 Saenger has won more than 70 Press awards from local, state and national organizations. She has sold more than 1,000 short stories - everything from sci-fi to romance, articles or features to major newspapers and national magazines. She was the host of a weekly radio show, script reader for King Productions, and a guest panelist at the Robert Osborne Classic Film Festival in Athens GA for four years. She's the author of four books and co-owner with Sandy Scoville of SP Press. As a prominent entertainment journalist she has interviewed more than 400 A-list actors and filmmakers during her career.

About her awards Saenger said, "Journalism is not a big paying career, but award recognition from prestigious organizations is encouraging and rewarding. I love what I do. I meet interesting people on all ends of the human spectrum, relish their stories and always hope to make their day better by sharing their story with the world. I'm very blessed."

I don't mind flying, it's airports I can't stand

Recently, I needed to make a trip to visit some relatives. These days, the way the economy and gas prices are it turns out to be cheaper to fly. Even though, airlines no longer serve the delicious food of which they became famous.

Several aspects about airplanes that give me cause for alarm. The person who designed the modern-day airplane must have used one of the dwarfs for a model. I'm thinking, Grumpy. The seats, for example, are not built for the average posterior. I know I need to go on a diet but my airplane seat does not have to remind me of that auspicious fact.

The restrooms do not have any room whatsoever to rest in them. The last one I was in I had to step outside in order to change my mind. What were they thinking when they designed and built these restrooms?

Personally, I think it is a conspiracy on the part of the entire airline industry to harass those of us who are diminutive challenged.

However, I can live with some of these inconveniences. I do not really mind flying it is the airports that I cannot stand.

If there were some way to fly the friendly skies and eliminate airports I would be a happy flyer.

It has been a while since I flew the friendly skies and so I had forgotten some of the airport rigmarole that paying customers must go through. I am surprised with all of the fees associated with flying these days someone has not come up with the bright idea of charging a fee for everyone to be patted down.

In order to get to the airplane you have to go through a very sophisticated technological gateway. I had forgotten how thoroughly they check out their passengers.

Everything needs placed into a tray, which then goes through a scanner to make sure nobody is transporting a bomb in his or her baggage.

Then comes the dangerous part. Everybody has to take off his or her shoes, which makes the whole airport smell as if some bomb did go off. Not only shoes, but also everybody has to empty their pockets and take off all jewelry.

Then, after putting all of my stuff in these trays, I was to walk through an archway to make sure I was not transporting a bomb in my underwear.

As I walked through the buzzer went off.

"Sir, do you have anything in your pockets?"

I looked and found a pen, so I had to take that out and put in a tray.

Again, I walked through and the buzzer went off again.

"Sir, is there anything else in your pockets?"

My wallet with credit cards and such things, which I did not realize was setting the buzzer off. I placed my wallet into the tray and then walked to the archway again.

The buzzer went off again.

At this point I was a little confused because I did not know what else I could take off. Therefore, I took off my sweater. Maybe something in the buttons that the archway did not like.

Then the man on the other side of the archway spied what he thought was the trouble and said, "Sir, you have to take off your suspenders."

"Say what?" I said in alarm.

"You have to remove your suspenders."

I looked at the man and then said, "You do know the purpose of suspenders, don't you?"

With a distant disdain in his voice he simply said, "Sir, you will have to remove your suspenders."

By the tone of his voice, I ascertained that he did not have the foggiest idea of the purpose of a gentleman's suspenders. I wear suspenders because they are fashionable, comfortable and serve a vital purpose for me.

I looked at him and said, "Have you ever heard of wardrobe malfunction?"

"Sir," he said in a practiced monotone, "you will have to remove your suspenders."

I saw no way around this obstacle and if I wanted to get onto the airplane, I would need to go through this archway. Slowly I took off my suspenders and put them in a tray to send through the scanner.

The archway buzzer did not go off this time, which was a relief to me, but once I was through the archway things happened. As I reached for the tray on the conveyor, I suddenly felt a gentle breeze, heard several shrieks behind me and felt something grab my ankles.

Wardrobe malfunction!

Sure, you can grab your trousers and pulled them up but you still have to live with the fact that you actually mooned potential fellow passengers on the airplane.

I am not sure which is worse. A bomb in your underwear, or your underwear on display.

After adjusting everything and picking up my briefcase, I noticed several people pointing in my direction and laughing. Believe me, a wardrobe malfunction is not anything to laugh at unless of course it happens to someone else.

Sitting in the airplane waiting to take off a verse of Scripture dominated my thinking.

"These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world," (John 16:33 KJV).

Whatever our tribulations might be, we can rest unabashed in the finished work of Jesus Christ.

Dear Dr. Luauna

Dear Readers,

I want to encourage you to stand strong for the Lord, your faithfulness to God is making a difference for the next generation. As God made a promise to Abram that he would be the father of many nations. Genesis 15:1-5, He told Abram to try and count the number of the stars in the sky, which is impossible. Then He said Abram's descendants would be the same number, this promise seemed unattainable because Abram and his wife Sarai were barren and had no children. Abram would be tested and finally, through his eventual obedience to the Lord, the promise was fulfilled. Beginning with his son Isaac to the next generation with Jacob and down to today's generation. God also has a specific plan for your life, a specific promise which will be fulfilled, only hang on and do not give up.

I was reading the story of young missionaries to China, John & Betty Stam, who in their twenties and shared the gospel with the Chinese in the 1930s. They, along with their baby daughter, were kidnapped and held for ransom. Betty hid her daughter in a blanket before she and her husband were taken away and beheaded. These words appeared on their gravestones:

John Cornelius Stam, January 18, 1907,
"That Christ may be glorified whether by life or by death."
Philippians 1:20.

Elisabeth Scott Stam, February 22, 1906,
"For me to live is Christ and to die is gain." Philippians 1:21

December 8, 1934, date killed in Miaosheo, Anhui,
"Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life." Revelation 2:10

Why did they give their lives in China? Betty was raised in China by missionary parents who followed in the footsteps of a famous missionary and the founder of the China Inland Mission, Hudson Taylor. These people may not be household names, they did not have fortune or fame in this life, but they made a difference for the future and for God's kingdom.

You may not be called to be a missionary, yet you are making impact on those in your life. Just as Abram's decisions made a difference for generations to come, so our decisions and obedience make a difference for the future generations. Don't give up and don't give in. Someone needs you to keep standing strong for the Lord. Hebrews 12:1 "Therefore we also, since we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which so easily ensnares us, and let us run with endurance the race that is set before us." When you are hardest hit, don't ever quit. You are making impact. Hold tight to eternal life for there is a crown which does await all those who finish the race set before us by our beautiful Savior, Jesus Christ.

Good performances highlight rogue writer's work in 'Rum Diary'

Review by James Colt Harrison

Johnny Depp has never made a routine movie, and his new Rum Diary from Director Bruce Robinson and GK Films, certainly continues the actor's extraordinary efforts to entertain an audience.

Hunter S. Thompson was sort of a rogue writer, and this film is adapted from one of his unfinished novels. Barely 20 during his rousing times in the Caribbean where the story takes place, Thompson made a failed effort to become a newspaper man in Puerto Rico. He wrote about all of his escapades in the beautiful and tropical island as a second attempted novel. It was highly autobiographical and took place in the 1960s.

Years went by and the novel languished until Depp urged Thompson to finish it and get it published in the 1990s. The young actor thought at that time it would make a good movie. He was right.

Set in the seedy and unglamorous world of newspaper publishing, Rum Diary gives Depp a chance to play the youthful aspiring writer who has a tendency to drink a little more than merely socially. Wanton drinking, partying and carousing shapes Depp's character of Paul Kemp, a disguised version of Thompson himself.

Michael Rispoli plays Sala, a bedraggled and rum-soaked photographer on the newspaper who befriends Kemp. In the most hilarious scene in the movie, Sala and Kemp must drive a wrecked car through the streets of San Juan. With Kemp forced to sit on Sala's lap. It's a very funny episode indeed, and lightens the film by providing the funniest moment between the two cut-up guys. Rispoli plays a winning, loveable rascal and mangy sort whom you can't help but like.

The structure of the film is rather loose and free-form, much like Thompson's rum-addled mind must have been when he jotted down his ideas. Kemp's life seems to merely float through events that he seemingly stumbles upon with innocence and humor. He falls in with Sanderson (Aaron Eckhart) an unscrupulous land developer who hires him to write favorably about the hotels and condos that will eventually destroy the environment. Struggling between poverty and the right thing to do, Kemp fights off the desire to live the high-life or to expose the scalawags for who they are. He also battles with having to fight off Sanderson's sexy wife Chennault (Amber Heard). Heard makes a great impression in the film as a seductress who can elicit sympathy when things don't go exactly the way she planned. She is free and doomed at the same time, and Heard's acting ability fleshes out this beautiful, but sad girl's dilemma.

Richard Jenkins makes a fine impression as the frazzled editor of the dying paper, and injects some comedy into his dour figure with the use of a comical wig. Jenkins, of course, is capable of much more, but he infuses the part with the feeling of the frustration of being the captain of a sinking ship.

Note must be made of Giovanni Ribisi, in the pivotal, but small, part of Moberg, a former staff member. He is now so alcohol-embalmed and drug-soaked that he can barely function, but he's perceptive and may hold the key to truth. It's an amazing characterization and probably one of Ribisi's best parts.

The scenes of Puerto Rico are naturally beautiful. Not often photographed in films (excellent work by Director of Photography Dariusz Wolski) Old San Juan is an architect's dream and appears as a baker's confection as the building's colors dance off the screen as whipped fantasies. So does Depp entertain here? Hey; it's Johnny Depp.

Pub League to World Cup story unfolds in 'Rise And Shine: The Jay Demerit Story'

Review by Diana Saenger

Many kids have dreams but what makes an extraordinary person is one who pursues those dreams beyond reality. That's the case of Jay DeMerit who played three different sports in his home town of Green Bay, Wisconsin. His favorite sport was soccer, but coming from a state known for football, chances of making that his ultimate career were slim. Rise And Shine: The Jay Demerit Story is an inspirational film about how far DeMerit went, the sacrifices he made and the odds that he sheered like a lawn mower to reach the status of U. S. Soccer Player and International Soccer Star.

After playing soccer at University of Illinois at Chicago and for a few U. S. teams, he wasn't drafted. He then went to England and buddied up with friend Kieran Keane. Both boys, still in their teens, wanted to be pros. They worked odd jobs and dedicated every moment to play soccer with guys in parks perfecting their skills. At one time broke and hungry, they moved into Keane's family home, where there was already lot of siblings. Everyone, explained Keane, "Would hide food when it came into the house so the few days when it was all gone we'd have something to eat." Demerit recalls living on a can of beans and toast for years.

Eventually the guys joined a soccer club that was at the bottom of the pyramid in order of skills and status. Their skills improved and they worked their way up the ladder, but DeMerit still wasn't offered a contract. Luck changed in 2004 when he was called in for pre-season games with Northwood, a team in seventh place in the pyramid. In that game DeMerit's skills were noticed by the opponent's team manager, Ray Lewington. He offered DeMerit a one year contract to play for Watford.

The documentary is a tad long but the more I watched, the more intrigued I became. DeMerit is as self-effacing about his arduous journey as he is his passion to play soccer. And when he scored the so-called "£40 million goal" that helped promote Watford into the lucrative Premier League, I couldn't help but get excited. For the 2010 FIFA World Cup in South Africa, DeMerit played on Bob Bradley's 23-man squad for all four of the U. S. matches against England, Slovenia and Algeria. He played in the second round match against Ghana, in which the USA was eliminated.

Interviews in the film include DeMerit's teammates and coaches (Bob Bradley and U.S. National Team players such as Tim Howard, Stu Holden, and Carlos Bocanegra) friends, family, teachers, mentors, and influences along the way. Also included is behind the scene footage from him and his team at the 2010 World Cup straight from DeMerit's camera.

Directed and written by Nick Lewis (local San Diegan) and Ranko Tutulugdzija, the movie is about much more than soccer. They state on their website, "This is a film with a universal message of hope and self-belief, taking place in the world of soccer but carrying over into all facets of life. We think it is a story that will inspire those who see it."

Rise And Shine: The Jay Demerit Story is a great family film and I love a quote he used in the film that describes where he's been. "The poorest person isn't a person without a dollar; it's the person who has given up, the person without hope, the person without a dream." For more about the Jay Demerit story and the filmmakers unique fundraising ideas visit <http://jaydemeritstory.com/about/>. The film opens Nov. 3 at the Ultra Star and Krikorian theatres.

Twyla Tharp's 'Come Fly Away' hits the Civic Theatre stage

Preview by Diana Saenger

The new Broadway musical, Come Fly Away, conceived, choreographed, and directed by Tony Award-winner Twyla Tharp and by special arrangement with the Frank Sinatra Family and Frank Sinatra Enterprises, will run at the San Diego Civic Theatre November 8 - 13. Tickets are now available only as part of a Broadway/San Diego 2011-2012 35th Anniversary Season Package.

Come Fly Away follows four couples as they fall in and out of love during one song and dance filled evening at a crowded nightclub. Blending the legendary vocals of Frank Sinatra with a live on-stage big band and 14 of the world's finest dancers, Come Fly Away weaves an unparalleled hit parade of classics, including "Fly Me To The Moon," "My Way," and "That's Life," into a soaring musical fantasy of romance and seduction.

The ensemble includes Anthony Burrell, Mallauri Esquibel, Marina Lazzaretto, Meredith Miles, Candy Olsen, Julius Anthony Rubio, Amy Ruggiero, Justin Urso, Tanairi Sade Vazquez, Chehon Wespitschopp, Michael Williams and San Diego native Marceea Moreno.

The show's score combines classic and newly discovered vocal performances from the Sinatra archives, along with Sinatra's signature arrangements by Nelson Riddle, Billy

May and Quincy Jones, among others, and brand new charts, for this fresh innovative musical.

Come Fly Away features scenic design by James Youmans, costume design by Katherine Roth, lighting design by Donald Holder, and sound design by Peter McBoyle. Additional arrangements and orchestrations are by Dave Pierce. Music supervision is by Dave Pierce.

Come Fly Away premiered at the Alliance Theatre in Atlanta, GA September 2009, and opened on Broadway in March 2010. This is the next and most elaborate chapter in one of the most fruitful collaborations in contemporary dance. Twyla Tharp's creative relationship with the music of Frank Sinatra began in 1976 with the premiere of Once More Frank, a duet created for the American Ballet Theatre, performed by Ms. Tharp and Mikhail Baryshnikov. The collaboration continued with nine Sinatra songs and Ms. Tharp's acclaimed piece for fourteen dancers. Sinatra requested that Sinatra Suite be performed when he received his Kennedy Center Honors Award, citing it as one of the purest expressions of his body of work.

Horrible Imaginings Film Festival returns to delight and scare San Diego audiences

Once again, the Horrible Imaginings Film Festival will extend the Halloween season with two days of short films, features, door prizes and a haunted art gallery. This year will be bigger and better than last--and scarier, too! New films and revivals! The festival takes place at the 10th Avenue Theatre and Arts Centre, 930 10th Avenue, San Diego, Friday Nov. 4, Saturday, Nov. 5.

Last year saw the inception of San Diego's first film festival dedicated to macabre cinema and art. The response from the audience and the neighborhood was so overwhelmingly positive that a second year became a certainty. Horrible Imaginings Film Festival has grown to two days of film and art, including 25 short films, two animated shorts, two music videos and four feature films, as well as a haunted gallery of dark or macabre art. Horrible Imaginings is the brainchild of Monster Island Resort Podcast host Miguel Rodriguez. "It has become clear that the horror genre is something that can be embraced and understood by San Diego audiences," Rodriguez said.

Horrible Imaginings Film Festival will continue the dual mission of bringing exposure to promising new filmmakers, while reviving classic films that many people may not have seen. This mission ensures a comprehensive exploration of what the genre has to offer. Rodriguez is very proud to offer Georges Franju's 1960 dark French masterpiece Les yeux sans visage (Eyes Without a Face) as one of his headlining revival features.

Horrible Imaginings also celebrates diversity in both content and creators. The films offer an eclectic array of ways that fear can be expressed--from horror comedy, to drama, to more extreme examples. Likewise, the creators of the films are equally as diverse. The filmmakers are from Mexico, Spain, Portugal, Australia, the Netherlands, and Canada and include nine women filmmakers.

The Haunted Art Gallery, featuring the work of local and national artists who choose to express dark themes, was a staple of the first Horrible Imaginings and will be making an encore appearance. There will be long breaks dedicated to the gallery and for dinner. Local burger aficionados Hodad's (next door) will provide big discounts for people with a Horrible Imaginings ticket. This year's Horrible Imaginings Film Fest is shaping up to be a memorable and terrifying way to keep Halloween alive in San Diego this year! For more details, visit <http://www.hifilmfest.com>

Ten wild horses and six burros to be available for adoption

Ten mustangs and six burros from America's rangelands will be available for adoption at Sundance Ranch in Redlands, Calif. on Saturday, Nov. 12 through the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) Adopt-A-Horse or Burro Program. Sundance Ranch is located at 27273 Pilgrim Road (off San Timoteo Canyon Road).

The animals were gathered from public lands in California and Nevada, have been wormed and vaccinated, and are in excellent health. (None of the animals have been exposed to the EHV-1 virus.)

A Friday preview runs from 1 to 5 p.m. On Saturday, BLM staff will approve adoption applications from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Approved adopters may then adopt animals on a first come, first served basis. The adoption fee of $125.00 per animal may be paid by cash, check, or credit card.

Qualified adopters must be 18 years old and have adequate facilities, including a minimum 400 square feet per animal, 4½-foot-high fence for burros, 5 feet for young horses, 6 feet high for those older than 1½. Qualified adopters must also have the financial means to care for the animal(s), and have some experience training or raising a horse or burro. Adopters also must be a resident of the United States and have no convictions for inhumane treatment of animals. Qualified individuals with the proper facilities may adopt up to four animals.

The process is called an "adoption" because BLM retains title to the animal for one year after the adoption.

During the year, a BLM compliance officer or designated representative will visit each adopter to ensure the animal is being cared for and has a good home. During this time adopters cannot sell their adopted animal. Adopters must notify BLM if the animal is moved.

After the first year, adopters may apply for title. BLM will pass title of the animal if all the stipulations of the adoption agreement have been met. The animal becomes the private property of the adopter only after BLM transfers title, which completes the adoption process.

For more information about the Redlands adoption or the Bureau's Adopt-A-Horse or Burro Program, contact BLM toll free at (800) 951-8720, or visit www.wildhorseandburro.blm.gov.

Dr. Aaron ...
thought he might have cracked a rib when Parr pushed him into the limo. A few minutes after the sirens stopped I got the page that read “stat to emergency room.”

In the emergency room all three wounded victims were being attended amid a room full of secret service and other people. Staff had done initial triage and determined a bullet, which ricocheted off the armored side of the limousine, had hit the President in his left underarm, grazed a rib and was lodged in his lung nearly an inch from his heart.

“They had put in a chest tube to drain the blood from his chest to get his lung inflated,” Aaron said. “He responded pretty quickly, and we could see a bullet fragment on the x-ray. They asked me what I wanted to do. So after 20 minutes when his chest would not stop bleeding, which could cause more serious problems, I made the decision to take him to surgery.”

The surgery went well, and the bullet, found right behind the heart in the lungs, was removed. It was only later that the FBI discovered the bullet was an explosive bullet called a Devastator. It was intended to explode, however the bullets Hinckley purchased were meant to be used in a standard .22-caliber long rifle. Because he fired them from a .22-caliber pistol, the lack of velocity didn’t make the bullets explode. The Secret Service cleared and took over an entire wing of the hospital. Reagan had his own room but secret service agents were always near. Nancy Reagan had a room right next to his.

“I had explained everything to Nancy and would spend about 25 minutes with her every morning on my rounds,” Aaron said. “She was very gracious and always had a lot of questions. She was very perceptive and just wanted to know what was going on.”

Aaron said he had no qualms when scrubbing in to work on the President. “If we do our job right I knew everything would be okay,” he said. “That’s what we’re trained for, and I was ready to do my job.”

Aaron retired and left George Washington University in 1996. Unable to get used to not going to work, he took a position doing surgery for a private group in Texas. Then he spent three years traveling to Mexico with a group to do general surgery on patients without medical care. In 1998 the couple bought their hill top home, and Aaron spent a few years flying airplanes. Now officially retired, “I spend my time giving advice to my golf buddies,” Aaron said.

The Aarons have four grown daughters, eight grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. Dr. Aaron will speak at the Alpine Kiwanis meeting Saturday morning which starts at 7 a.m. at the Alpine Elementary School.

CITY OF EL CAJON
PUBLIC NOTICE
FY 2012-13 COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT PROGRAM AND HOME INVESTMENT PARTNERSHIPS PROGRAM
NOTICE OF FUNDING AVAILABILITY AND REQUEST FOR COMMENTS

Under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, cities such as El Cajon are provided with an opportunity to implement community improvement programs and/or projects not otherwise possible under the constraints of the regular City budget. In order to receive the funding, the City must submit an annual Action Plan including proposed projects to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for FY 2012-13 (July 1, 2012 – June 30, 2013) by May 14, 2012.

The City of El Cajon invites public comments from residents, non-profit organizations and others serving the El Cajon community on how the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) and the HOME Investment Partnership (HOME) funds should be spent. The City welcomes and encourages citizen participation in the establishment and implementation of our 38th year of the CDBG Program.

The City of El Cajon estimates it will receive between $902,000 and $1,128,000 in federal CDBG funds for Program Year 2012-13. Of those amounts, a maximum of 15% of the total allocation (approximately $135,000 to $169,200) may be made available for public service programs and projects. In order to receive the funding, the City must submit its Annual Action Plan with proposed CDBG projects and programs which are designed to meet one or more of the following national objectives:

- 1) Benefit a majority of low/moderate income residents; and/or

2) Alleviate an immediate and serious threat to the health and/or welfare of the community when no other source of funding is available; and/or

3) Serve to prevent or eliminate conditions of slum and blight.

All activities funded through the City's CDBG program must be for activities that will improve the living conditions/environment for low and moderate income individuals and families in El Cajon. In addition, all CDBG projects must meet one or more of the local Priorities to qualify for funding. The Priorities are fully described in the FY 2009-2014 Consolidated Plan which is available for review at the Redevelopment and Housing Division public counter, located at 200 Civic Center Way, Third Floor, El Cajon, CA 92020 during normal business hours. The Consolidated Plan is also accessible on the City's website at <http://www.cityofelcajon.us/dept/redev/housing/funding.aspx>.

Non-profit organizations, City departments, neighborhood organizations, and faith-based organizations may apply for this funding. Please note that the City of El Cajon does not directly fund individuals through this program.

Applications for CDBG funding are available beginning Monday, November 7, 2011. The procedures for submitting a completed application, along with the range of activities that may be financed with CDBG funds, can be found in the Guidelines for each application as set forth below. All completed applications must be submitted no later than 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, December 7, 2011 for FY 2012-13 funding.

There are two separate CDBG applications and categories of funding available: 1) Public Facilities/Capital Improvement projects; and 2) Public Services projects and programs.

Applications and Guidelines are available in four different ways:

- 1) A copy can be accessed from the City of El Cajon's website at <http://www.cityofelcajon.us/dept/redev/housing/index.aspx>

cityofelcajon.us/dept/redev/housing/index.aspx

2) The Word version of the application forms and guidelines may be obtained by e-mailing a request to ikasviki@cityofelcajon.us. The Word version will allow applicants to fill-in the requested information on a computer.

3) A paper copy of the application and guidelines can be mailed to you by calling the Redevelopment & Housing Division at (619) 441-1786.

4) A paper copy of the application can be obtained in person by visiting the Redevelopment & Housing Division public counter at 200 Civic Center Way, Third Floor, El Cajon, CA 92020 during normal business hours.

The City Council will hold a public hearing on the proposed CDBG projects tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, February 14, 2012 at 7 p.m. to allocate FY 2012-13 CDBG funds. A second public hearing is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, April 10, 2012 at 3:00 p.m. Final adoption of funding allocations is expected to occur at the second public hearing. Both hearings will be held in the Council Chambers located at 200 Civic Center Way in El Cajon.

2006 Aston Martin Vantage V8

by Dave Stall

The 2006 Aston Martin Vantage – with only 13,453 miles – at Jakes Motorcars in San Diego, is another fine example of a classic exotic car from this dealer. This Aston Martin is perfect and has all the features anyone would want in an exotic car including sound, speed and comfort. The V8 Vantage is a two-seater sports car and the third car in the lineup that bears a strong family resemblance to the DB9 and the Vanquish.

This 06 Aston Martin has a flawless interior and tires. The interior is all Aston Martin, with much of the styling for the switches and instruments derived from exclusive watches and premium audio gear. The interior makes extensive use of leather and anodized aluminum.

The front-engine rear-wheel-drive V8 Vantage is aimed squarely at the Porsche 911. The V8 Vantage is powered by a 380-horsepower 4.3-liter V8 engine combined with a rear-mounted 6-speed transaxle. Performance should be impressive with a promised top speed of 175 mph and 0-60 mph in just 4.9 seconds. (No I didn't push it to 175, but I thought about it!) Drivers could opt for the V12 but the V8 worked just fine for me.

As far as how it drove; it was such a joy with good acceleration and decent fuel mileage, 13 city and 19 freeway. Okay, maybe that's not as good as a Toyota Corolla, but hey, it's an Aston Martin.

Check out this ride. New it would have set an owner back $110,000 plus options. This model is going for $68,000. What a savings!

Jakes Motorcars is a wholesaler that's opened its doors to the general public offering classic cars at a reasonable price so the blue collar worker can ride in style.

Chargers give Kansas City a Halloween treat

by Chuck Karaszia

There's a log jam atop the AFC West. Three teams are tied for first place; the Chiefs, Raiders, and San Diego Chargers, all owning (4-3) records. This occurred on the heels of a 23-20 Chargers overtime loss to the Kansas City Chiefs at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, viewed by a national television audience on the stage of Monday Night Football.

For the second week in a row, the San Diego Chargers came up short again.

Strange and humiliating best describe the latest Halloween blunder by the Bolts. Inconsistent describes the way the Bolts performed in this game. A team is judged quarter to quarter, half to half in a game. There was nothing long enough to justify this measure. There were some good and bad plays.

At the 7:11 mark in the fourth quarter, the Chargers had just tied the score at 20 points each. Curtis Brinkley, subbing for the injured Mike Tolbert (hand, hamstring) scored a touchdown on a two-yard run, and caught the two-point conversion pass.

Then the sloppy play that never should have happened, did. With 48 seconds left and 15-yards away from the goal line, the Chargers plan was to 'kill' some clock time before setting up a Nick Novack game winning field goal.

Chargers center Nick Hardwick, as he had done thousands of times, snapped the ball to quarterback Philip Rivers. This time Rivers fumbled the snap giving the ball and game away. The Chargers failed to score and the Chiefs won in O.T. on a 30-yard Ryan Succop field goal with 5:16 left in the game.

Shooting himself in the foot is what Chargers' quarterback Philip Rivers did throwing two horrible first quarter interceptions. The Chargers also committed twelve inexcusable penalties. In the last two games the Bolts have committed 25 penalties. No Chargers quarterback has turned the ball over in so short of span of time, nor has the team committed so many fouls in that period of time.

Now the Chargers have beaten themselves two games in a row. This was embarrassing just in the way they lost them. No positives in this one.

Chargers Head Coach Norv Turner agreed. He said, "I don't know if I've ever been involved in a game that ended that way in terms you're thinking you're going to kick a game winning field goal. The Chiefs had no time outs; the clock was going to run out. You were going to put the ball on the left hash and kick the game winning field goal. It didn't happen. It's one of those things no one will have an explanation for."

Turner did have some proud offerings for his team. "I thought our guy's fought hard to go down and tie the game up. Defensively we played good to keep us in the game and give us a chance. Kansas City didn't get many first downs and thought we did a good job stopping them. Offensively we found a rhythm and thought Philip did a good job putting us in a position to win. Brinkley played at a high level. We just weren't able to finish the game."

After a long flight home and a short practice week, the Bolts face the undefeated Super Bowl Champion Green Bay Packers this Sunday at Qualcomm Stadium. This game is sold out and will be televised locally. Kickoff is set for 1:15 p.m.
