Could planning groups be facing extinction?

by Patt Bixby

The Lakeside Community Planning Group is urging Lakeside community members to contact their County Supervisor (Dianne Jacob) in regards to a purposed modification of the existing planning group structure. Because Lakeside, along with a number of other communities, is unincorporated, the Planning Group is the place where people can come and present their projects, voice their opinions and get community input. The LCPG urges people to contact their Supervisor before February 29 and voice their opinion on the importance of Lakeside keeping its Planning Group so that community input is not lost. County Supervisor can be reached at diannejacob@sdcounty.ca.gov.

In 2011, the County Board of Supervisors formed a red tape reduction task force to examine the land development permitting process and identify opportunities for operational improvements that would result in more efficient permit processing. On Dec. 7, 2011, the task Force presented a report with a series of recommendations to the Board of Supervisors. During the December meeting, the board directed immediate implementation of a subset of the recommendations. The staff was advised to evaluate the implementation and return on Feb. 9, 2012. One of the recommendations relates to the structure of community planning groups and sponsor groups. The task force recommends modifying the existing planning groups structure or leave community planning groups under the County's "umbrella" with changes.

The Lakeside Planning Group urges the community to tell their County Supervisor they want a voice between the community and the County. Keep the Lakeside Planning Group as it is.

Behind the scenes at LMS

by Betty McMillen

Saturday School can be fun and educational, at least that's what a group of adults thought last Saturday when Lakeside Middle School Principal, Steve Mull, took them on a behind the scenes tour of the new and old multi million dollar remodeling of the school.

What started out as a small group of Historical Society members grew into an interested crowd of 45 Lakeside citizens, school board members and even Dr Brian Bristol, the School District's new Superintendent. Everyone was excited about seeing the extensive remodeling project, a dream come true for the Principal and Building Committee who worked on the plans.

The front of the school has had a dramatic change although it is hard to see from the street at this point due to construction equipment and screening.

The former bus circle has been moved to the right of the school so buses, parent's cars and walking students no longer create a dangerous mix competing for a quick exit.

In its place there is a large quad area for multi uses such as rallies, ASB gatherings and band performances.

To the left of the school the auditorium is in the same location but the former kitchen and teachers lounge have been magically transformed into an elegant glass lobby entrance for theater goers and it can also be used as a meeting room and other multi uses.

The school will be geared toward theater arts ... a passion of Mr. Mulls. He calls it "The Jewel of Lakeside." The inside of the auditorium has taken on an electronic transformation with rows and rows of lights, microphones, and sound system which was donated by the Lakeside Stadium Association. The stage has been lowered and enlarged to hold over 100 youthful actors. There is a grid to hold scenery backdrops and also new curtains.

Gone are the stacking chairs and in their place rows of stadium seating for 380 people, the seating actually folds back to the walls to make way for a large dance floor.

It seems that everything has been carefully planned out so it has multi uses.

Behind the stage in what used to be the Principals offices, there is the "green room" where actors ready themselves for the stage. There is a wall of art to honor Dr Steven Halfacre, the former school Superintendent, who worked so hard to keep art alive in Lakeside schools.

Since Performing Arts is the focus of this school the dance classes are geared toward theater productions. They have top notch bands and orchestras. Even the wood shop builds sets for the stage. Shop Teacher, Cliff Mull, had to get a special credential to teach this class. He said that woodshop isn't going away but it is changing with computer technology.

Most of the actual classrooms are older, some from the 1950s and even back to the 1930s, but they have been modernized with the latest learning tools and every one has rows of computers and a "Smart Board" which is a modern electronic version of a blackboard and all the rooms are interconnected by this technology. No other school district in the country has this, Mr Mull said "It is unbelievable what the kids are learning." Teacher, Mr Best, has one of the oldest classrooms and he has taught in there for over 20 years but he was a leader in pushing for the newest technology for the students.

Motorcycle riders around the world honor young boy's wish

by Diana Saenger

It started as a request when 13-year-old Josiah Trujillo met P.J. Byrne during a poker run to Rady Children's Hospital. Trujillo, a big fan of Harley Davidson motorcycles, suffers from Spina Bifida. He asked Byrne if he could get 3000 bikers to ride by his house. Not wanting Trujillo to be disappointed, he told the youth he lived in Carlsbad, not Sturgis, and asked if 100 would be okay, which Trujillo said it would.

With motor-roaring engines, helmets and jackets bearing emblems from clubs all over Southern California, and other states it was the hearts full of compassion that brought more than 4000 bikers out last Sunday for the "Ride For Josiah" to ride by Trujillo's house. Encased on the front porch, his big smile and silent wave was a silent thank you to the roar of thousands of bikes. Many went up to greet Trujillo in person and riders were invited to park their bikes in an adjacent field and be treated to a lunch by the Trujillo family and sponsors.

Bikers around the world held the same compassion to make a young boy's wish come true. Bikers from London and 22,000 miles away in Australia also rode for the cause. Crystal Radcliffe fired up her Harley 1200 Sportster Custom early in the morning to join friend Vic Cook in the ride. The San Diego Ride also included a ride by Rady Children's Hospital where children waved excitedly from the windows as the bikers paced by.

Crystal Radcliffe about to mount her motorcycle for the ride.

Man's Best Friend, Chopper, rides for Josiah.

"All day long there were endless bikes as far as the eye could see," Radcliffe said. "It was the most memorable and touching thing I've ever done."

Youth Of The Year Award nominations now being accepted

The City of El Cajon Teen Coalition would like to recognize youth for making a difference in our community. If you see, hear, or know of a youth who has gone the extra mile to improve the quality of life in our community, take this opportunity to acknowledge and reward that effort. "The Success of Tomorrow... Depends on the Youth of Today!" How Does This Work? The City of El Cajon Teen Coalition presents a "Youth of the Year" Award to recognize those youth who go above and beyond in serving their community either through their leadership abilities and/or their quality or level of community service in El Cajon. Leadership can be defined as those individuals who consistently facilitate a team vision and help guide others towards success. Community service is work that helps better the community through the value and impact of those served.

Final awards will be based on dedication, commitment beyond what may be required by school, and demonstrated impact of those served. Who is Eligible? Two youth will be awarded each year: one youth currently at the middle school level (grades 6th - 8th) and one youth currently at the high school level (grades 9th - 12th). Note: Recognized work by youth is based on their personal merits and contributions and is not intended to be limited to their school involvement. All nominations are reserved for youth who are City of El Cajon residents. Youth will be recognized and awarded for service accomplished within the calendar year previous to the nomination period. For Health's Sake

Know your medications

Winter travel season is here, the American Pharmacists Association encourages consumers to talk with their pharmacist about their medications before they pack their bags. This will help ensure each person knows the best way to pack their medications, what to do if the medication is lost and anything to be aware of with travel and the medication.

Travel disrupts healthcare routines and the normal things consumers do to take care of themselves – such as adhering to a medication regimen – can sometimes fall from the top list of priorities.

Here are some tips to help travelers maintain a healthy medication regime throughout the travel season:

Organize a health kit that contains all of your prescription and over-the-counter medications, herbal supplements, vitamins and minerals. Ensure that medications are packed correctly and pack ample medication and equipment. Some medications have special storage instructions or require specific dosing equipment. Always carry your medications in the original bottles in the carry-on luggage if flying or crossing borders.

Bring more medications than expected to use. Talk to your pharmacist about the possibility of obtaining a medication “vacation supply” from your insurance company, he/she may be able to help. Being prepared for unexpected extended travel helps ensure safe and effective medication use. It is also good to know your insurance company’s policy on medication transfers and replacement supplies if your medication is lost.

Pack a “Preventative Medicine” Kit. Talk with the pharmacist about any over-the-counter medications that should be packed for the area of the world being traveled to. Basics include: anti-diarrhea, anti-nausea, antihistamine, anti-motion sickness, mild laxative or stool softener, medicine for pain or fever and antibacterial/antifungal cream/ointment.

Get up-to-date on any vaccines that may be needed. Make sure to get your annual flu shot. If traveling overseas, make sure all of the travel vaccine recommendations put out by the CDC are met.

Beware of “Drugged Driving.” Certain medications can impair perception, judgment and reaction times causing a hazardous driving situation. Talk with your pharmacist about side effects your medication may cause and whether you can adjust your dosing schedule to avoid times you may need to operate a vehicle.

Carry an updated personal medication and vaccination record. This is a list of prescriptions, over-the-counter and herbal medications, how to take them, and why. This list should also contain an up-to-date history of vaccinations. If unexpectedly admitted into a hospital, or must see a healthcare provider while traveling, the list can help them understand your current treatments. To download a personal medication list www.pharmacist.com/pmr.

Have a plan for adjusting medication regimen. Travel may require you to adjust your medication regimen, or when you take your medication, for time and routine changes. If you are traveling across the country and would normally take a medication twice a day, for example, you may need to adjust that schedule to take your medications approximately twelve hours apart—which may be earlier or later than your first bedtime or morning on another coast. Ask your pharmacist about how to alter your schedule to fit your health-care needs.

Be careful or avoid drinking alcohol, especially when flying or visiting cities in higher altitudes. Alcohol can interact with many prescription and over-the-counter medicines.

Ask your pharmacist if there are any foods or beverages that conflict with current medicines. Travelers are more inclined to eat unfamiliar foods when traveling to new cities or foreign countries.

Practice good hygiene, get rest and eat well. Frequent hand-washing/cleansing, use of alcohol-based hand sanitizer and coughing/sneezing into your sleeve or a tissue will protect you and others. In addition, try not to overdo it and not get run down, eat right and drink plenty of water (and depending upon the location, bottled water may be needed) are good practices that can reduce the risk of getting sick.

The American Pharmacists Association, founded in 1852 as the American Pharmaceutical Association, is a 501 (c) (6) organization, representing more than 62,000 practicing pharmacists, pharmaceutical scientists, student pharmacists, pharmacy technicians and others interested in advancing the profession.

Grossmont Healthcare District presents scholarships to nursing students

The Grossmont Healthcare District (GHD, a public agency that supports various health-related community programs and services in San Diego’s East County, has presented $6,000 in scholarships to three nursing students based on their community involvement and future plans in the nursing profession. They include Karen Adams of El Cajon, Melissa Foster of La Mesa and Linda Matheny of El Cajon. Adams received $3,000, while Foster and Matheny each received $1,500. All three are nursing students at Grossmont College.

“We were impressed with each recipient’s career goals, as well as their volunteer experiences,” said GHD board member Michael Emerson, who served as chair of the Community Grants and Sponsorships Committee, which reviewed the scholarship applications.

Adams, who hopes to work in a hospital, clinic or school, has traveled to Fiji and Nicaragua on relief assistance trips. Foster, who wants to focus on preventing childhood obesity, taught exercise at Murray Manor Elementary School in La Mesa. Matheny, who inspires to help provide healthcare to those without health insurance, has administered flu shots to college students and supported fund-raising walks for epilepsy research.

The GHD scholarships are named the Richard Bea RN Memorial Nursing Scholarships in memory of former GHD board member Richard Bea, a registered nurse who worked at Grossmont Hospital for 18 years. Bea served on the GHD board from 1996, including as board president, until his death in 1999.

The scholarships are intended to encourage the development of nurses new to the profession. Applicants are required to have completed one year in a registered nursing program approved by the National League for Nursing Accrediting Commission and provide evidence of current enrollment and community volunteer work, along with a letter of recommendation and a 500-word essay on “The Future of Nursing in My Community.” They also must reside within the GHD boundaries for a minimum of one year, or have graduated from a high school located within the District.

Laughter is the Best Medicine

Ever wonder

Why the sun lightens our hair, but darkens our skin? Why women can’t put on mascara with their mouth closed? Why don’t you ever see the headline ‘Psychic Wins Lottery’? Why is ‘abbreviated’ such a long word? Why is lemon juice made with artificial flavor, and dish washing liquid made with real lemons? Why is the man who invests all your money called a broker? Why isn’t there mouse-flavored cat food? You know that indestructible black box that is used on airplanes? Why don’t they make the whole plane out of that stuff?!

Inspiration

Trying to go somewhere, I ended up nowhere

Rev. James L. Snyder

It was one of those weeks where, if I accomplished anything that delicious slice of information has completely eluded the tiny gray cells floating in my cranium. It is not as if those little gray cells had anything else to do.

As I suffused my weary body into my La-Z-Boy chair, I knew I was tired but I could not figure out what I had done during the week to make me this tired. After all, it did not seem like I had accomplished anything of significance this week. I was trying to do something, of course, but I had absolutely nothing to show for it.

A verse of Scripture began

'A World of Enlightened Action' the 15th Annual Gandhi-King Season for Nonviolence

The Gandhi King Season for Nonviolence (SNV) will commence for the 15th consecutive year on January 30, 2012 in cities across the globe. The annual 64 day campaign, co-founded in 1998 by Dr. Arun Gandhi and the Association for Global New Thought (AGNT), is an educational, media and grassroots awareness campaign spanning the January 30 and April 4 memorial anniversaries of Mahatma Gandhi and Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

The purpose of the campaign is to focus education and media attention on the philosophy of attaining peace through nonviolent action as demonstrated by Gandhi, King. Using an "omni-local" model of citizen empowerment in more than 900 cities in 67 countries since inception, the program offers tools and training to self-organizing groups that use nonviolent principles and practices to heal conflict in families and communities. The campaign is especially effective in schools and congregations where participants representing diverse age groups, cultures, religions and political ideologies collaborate to identify "local heroes of nonviolence," and help connect like-minded agencies and initiatives within the same community. The official SNV Website, maintained by AGNT conveners, offers free to all participants, customized programs, full resource libraries, artwork, instructions, curricula and extensive practical toolkit.

The Season for Nonviolence has been launched at the United Nations each year from 1998 through 2012. These events have brought forth substantive endorsements and commitments from the former UN Secretary General, Kofi Annan, the U.S. Ambassador to India, Vice President Al Gore, and the Director General of UNESCO on behalf of its Culture of Peace and nonviolence appeal by the Nobel Peace Laureates. The theme for this year's student-based program is "Global Peace Through Social Media: There's an APP for That!" Speakers will include students from Susan B. Wagner High School, and media guru, Nipun Mehta, a young west coast innovator who has re-defined social technologies for volunteerism and compassionate service.

Again, this year, the City of El Cajon's Mayor, Mark Lewis, issued a proclamation proclaiming the city's support for 'A Season for Nonviolence' urging all residents to participate in local, national and global campaigns to honor those who are using non-violence to build communities that respect the dignity and work of every human being.

If you are interested in participating in the Season for Nonviolence, please contact:

haunting me as I thought about this. "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin" (James 4:17). What was I supposed to "doeth" that I did not get around to "doething"?

Of course, there was that funeral I had this past week. Unfortunately, I opened my book to the wrong page and begin the funeral by saying, "Dearly beloved we are gathered together here to unite these two in holy matrimony."

Holy macaroni! What a difference the wrong page makes. At least I was not officiating at a wedding and said, "Ashes to ashes, and dirt to dirt." Although, to be honest about it, I have had some weddings where I thought that phrase fit.

I was tempted, only for a moment, to query the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage but I feared she would tell me. There is something to say about mystery. Nothing is more mysterious than the feminine side of the marriage equation. Odd isn't it, that the marriage equation is not always even.

As I reflected upon my week past, I duly noted the activities that occupied most of my week. Apart from the funeral, I had several hospital visits to make. As is usually the case, people conspire to go to the hospital at the same time but never at the same hospital. One even went out of town to go to a hospital.

Other visits were made and other activities attended. Certain deadlines were staring me in the face and I stared right back at them defiantly. I am not sure who won.

Services and Bible studies needed to be prepared for which can take up a lot of time. Then, don't you know it; my truck is always out of gas when I am in a hurry. I suppose I could fill my tank up when it got down to a certain level, but where would the fun be in that? Nothing compares to the adrenaline of being in a hurry and late for an appointment and then running out of gas.

Do not get me wrong here. It is not that I do not enjoy giving my wife a call on the cell phone when stranded along the side of the road. It is the highlight of the stranded experience. Usually, her response to my phone call is what stresses me out.

"What," she declares in that sarcastic tone of hers, "have you run out of gas again?"

It is her theatrical use of the word "again" that I believe could easily earn her an Oscar. I once presented her with an Oscar Meyer wiener, but she did not enjoy the joke. Personally, I thought it was a great joke and I really did not appreciate her reaction. Needless to say, I have not repeated that sin, although temptation is what it is.

I suppose I did do things and accomplished something this past week, but it really does not explain why I am as tired as I am tonight. I can remember there was a time that I did not even know the meaning of tired. I got tired all right; I just did not know the meaning of the word tired.

Then the whole thing dawned on me. It was almost like being hit on the head with an iron skillet by you know whom. The lights flashed. The lightbulb went on. I had an epiphany to end all epiphanies.

At this point, I am surprised my wife did not get the jump on me with this one. The reason I am so tired is because I am old. There, I said it. I have come to that point in life where being young is a fond fading memory.

As this bit of information began marinating in my cranium, it had a very comforting effect. Up to this point, I had been worrying about the fact that I was tired and I could not link that condition with any specific activity. As is usually the case, there are good sound reasons for everything. I began to look at my tired condition in a completely different light.

I have earned my being tired. It is something I have worked for all my life. Now, here it is. I am now collecting those wonderful dividends from all that activity of the past.

As I thought about this, a marvelous verse of Scripture came to my mind. "The glory of young men is their strength: and the beauty of old men is the gray head" (Proverbs 20:29 KJV).

Being tired is the crown of a lifetime of activity.

Dear Dr. Luauna

to Have Fun

My mother goes to church and she is constantly lecturing me about my life. I am young, I just turned 21 and all I want to do is have fun with my friends. I have my own job, my own car and my own apartment. She is always scaring me about partying in Tijuana and Hollywood. I am a good person and I believe in God. I wish my mom would leave me alone and let me enjoy myself.

Signed, Girl Just Wants

Dear Girl Just Wants to Have Fun,

There are two different issues at work in your letter, the natural concern of a mother for her young daughter and for your spiritual well-being. As a mother of a son and daughter, I also cautioned my children about the dangers of the world. Parents are compelled by our God-given nurturing and love for our kids. As Christian mothers, we are also driven to our knees for the safety, protection of our children and grandchildren.

The world we live in today is not safe. I do not have room in this column to list the grave dangers all around, which are intensified in the party environments you mentioned. Just watching the news is enough to bring me to prayer for all young people. I cannot begin to tell you about the prayer requests and counseling sessions I hold with parents whose teenagers and young adults fall into harmful and addictive behavior that started out as fun. From experience I can tell you I became a Christian in my early 20s, your age. I saw with my own eyes the consequences of the "party" life on my family and friends all around. Alcoholism, drug addiction, unwanted children, suicide, depression, violence, financial problems, etc, this is not an exaggeration at all. My own husband was murdered when he went to a bar with his friends. There he met a married woman and went home with her. Her husband came home and caught them; my husband was assaulted and died. I was left a young widow and single mother.

In John 1:15-17, these verses caution believers in Christ not to love the world. Matthew 15:8-9, Jesus taught that we cannot say we are Christians with our lips and not mean it with our heart. Romans 10:9-10, "that if you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you will be saved. For with the heart one believes unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." Many people claim to believe in God and Jesus, this verse clearly says the confession of our mouth must accompany our belief which should produce righteous behavior.

I am sure your mother loves you; she only has your best interest at heart for your safety and your spiritual well-being. You can have good, clean fun and serve the Lord with all your heart, the choice is yours for your life and your eternity. Please come to church, living for Jesus is an adventure and fun with no regrets!

The Champions of Tomorrow

by Chuck Karazsia

"The Champions of Tomorrow," six bouts of live pro boxing presented by Bobby D Presents in association with Barron Entertainment and Jorge Marron Productions, in partnership with Gonzalez Sports Academy, takes place Friday, Jan. 27 at the Gonzalez Sports Academy - a 29,000 square-ft complex located in Chula Vista, CA.

"We will feature boxers from all over San Diego County and Tijuana," said boxing promoter Bobby DePhilippi. "South Bay fighters will fight in front of their family, friends and neighbors. The facility is equipped to learn, practice and train the fundamentals of baseball and other sports."

In the much anticipated eight-round main event Oscar Godoy (4-1, 2 KO's), a 21-year-old welterweight from Watsonville, California - by way of Colonia Libertad Tijuana, Mexico - hopes to continue his winning ways of three consecutive victories. He squares off against hard punching Joshua Marks (7-3, 7 KO's). A native from the state of Georgia who made Imperial Valley his home, Marks' seven professional victories were all fought and won in Mexico.

A special event attraction will feature National City's own Adrian Vargas (5-0, 3 KO's). He will risk his untarnished record against Gabriel Medina of Hemet, California, who is making his professional debut. South San Diego resident, Pablo "Bronco" Armenta (6-1-1, 2 KO's) faces Omar Sanchez (3-2, 1 KO) in a battle of featherweights. Making a much anticipated pro debut is top amateur Jonathan Quiroz of Vista, California. He will trade punches with Anthony Briones (0-1).

Tijuana super bantamweight boxer Christian "Huevo" Bojorquez (4-0, 1 KO) will slug it out with Raymondo Chacon (3-1, 2 KO's) of Los Angeles. Rounding out the event will be Pablo Copul (6-2, 4 KO's) from the Mexican Yucatan. His opponent had yet to be determined.

The fight is a benefit event for the Athletes of the Future Foundation (AFF). A percentage of the profit is to be donated to nonprofit organization. Many celebrities are expected to be in attendance.

"The response we have been getting is great," DePhilippi said. "I'm very excited to bring live professional boxing back to Chula Vista."

Ticket prices start at $30 and can be purchased directly at the venue, or by calling (619) 420-8866. Tickets also may be purchased online at www.SanDiegoFights.com. Doors open at 7 p.m. Live boxing begins at 8 p.m.

Action packed aerial bantering and culture in 'Red Tails'

Review by Diana Saenger

It's been more than 20 years since HBO made the movie The Tuskegee Army detailing the all-black World War II aerial squadron who surprised their comrades with their flying skills. For almost that long, George Lucas has wanted to make the first of a three-part story about the Tuskegee Army, but studios balked about the story's all-black cast. So Lucas threw in his own money to make Red Tails, the first of that series, and if it's profitable, Lucas will proceed on.

Most of the backlash about the movie is more about the simple plot and poor dialogue, and not the actual acting. The 332nd Fighter Group is stationed in Italy and assigned to fly their P-51 Mustangs painted with distinct red tails in support of other American forces. Major Emmanuel Stance (Cuba Gooding Jr.) and Colonel A. J. Bullard (Terrence Howard) share command of this outfit. Stance is to make sure his guys stand up to their assignments while Bullard spends time at the Pentagon fighting for his flyers to have the same rights as their white equivalents.

Screenwriters John Ridley and Aaron McGruder have a high bar with creating strong personalities of actors that other than Gooding Jr. and Howard, which many moviegoers are not familiar with. Squadron leader Marty "Easy" Julian (Nate Parker) has problems squaring his shoulders to lead, and that along with his own flying missions soon cause him to take a flask of alcohol with him and often rely on it too much.

Joe Little (David Oyelowo) is a hot shot on ground and off. He's always the one when Marty says to head home, that takes off on his own for one last blaze of bullets. He's ahead of the curve in town, too. While the black soldiers are not even welcome in the club with other soldiers, Joe lands Sofia (Daniela Ruah), a very beautiful young lady who surprisingly falls for Joe even though they don't speak each other's language. I found this plotline a little hard to believe.

Samuel "Joker" George (Elijah Kelley) is a real kick, both on the ground and in the air. Meanwhile there's David "Deke" Watkins (Marcus T. Paulk), who carries a picture of an African-American Savior he calls "Black Jesus" and relies on for the squadron's safe return back to the base. Ray "Junior" Gannon (Tristan Wilds), the junior man in the cockpit, is always trying to measure up to his comrades.

These actors and the entire men who portray the Tuskegee Army do a fine job with what they have. That's partly because when the actors arrived on location, they were driven to a warehouse on the outskirts of Prague and shown their accommodations – a sparsely furnished military style tent with only a small heater to warm them, just like the original Tuskegee Army lived in during the war. Stripped of all electronic devices, given a blanket and a bunk, the real work began.

Even though Lucas went all out with interviewing real Tuskegee Army, hands-on training for the men in actual P-51s and hiring Industrial Light & Magic and other companies to handle special effects, to me the film still felt boggy and a paint-by-number plot.

However, some of the fight scenes are very intense, and if the film does nothing else than educate new generations about these incredible heroic men, then I say see Red Tails.

Review by Diana Saenger

1. HUGO

I liked the creative story-telling – except for the over-the-top station attendant role; impressed by the Cinematography by Robert Richardson who captures the magic of the story well; the Production by Dante Ferretti was impressive; Kingsley and Asa Butterfield gave excellent performances; loved how Scorsese moved it into the classic film era.

2. MIDNIGHT IN PARIS

I'm not a Woody Allen fan but I thoroughly enjoyed this film – there's romance, intrigue, the time travel is fascinating, totally creative characters from the past as well as obnoxious ones in the present, it's funny with great performances – what's not to enjoy?

3. THE DEBT

In addition to terrific performances by a strong cast, John Madden (Proof) deserves credit for his superb direction, and screenwriters Matthew Vaughn, Jane Goldman and Peter Straughan must be recognized for their tight, compelling screenplay adaptation. But I think the real visionary who makes this film haunt and enthrall is cinematographer Ben Davis (Hannibal Rising). He creates dark shadows that show just enough in a scene to create a chilling edginess without revealing too much plot. His eye behind the camera is a great mirror to the words on the page.

4. MONEY BALL

The adaptation is smart, the story is interesting and one many knew nothing about; Pitt is the best he's been in a long time, and Jonah Hill is superb.

5. WIN WIN

McCarthy pens his stories like making a cake. The batter, though tasty enough by itself, serves a much bigger purpose. McCarthy takes ordinary people we can relate to, throws hurdles in their paths and takes them on a journey that in the end is as sweet as frosting on a cake.

6. WARRIOR

This film is much deeper than about fighting. It's about "redemption, reconciliation and the power of the human spirit.", director Gavin O'Connor knows how to get a heartwarming and crowd-cheering story out of a supposed sports movie. The excellent cast helped him do the same with this film.

7. THE MUSIC NEVER STOPPED

No "father knows best"

world in this one – the generation gap is here, and it's a fact. The adapted screenplay lays out this story so well, and J.K. Simmons as the dad, and Lou Taylor Pucci as the mentally challenged son, are wonderful in portraying the ups and downs of their relationship based only on music.

8. TAKE SHELTER

What I liked about this film was that it surprised me, a couple in love with a daughter who has a hearing loss and money problems in the family seemed so cliché, but when Curtis, played remarkably well by Michael Shannon began to have dreams that affected everything he thought and did, I was glued to the story. Even though his desperation is quiet it speaks volumes in every action. Quite compelling.

9. THE ARTIST

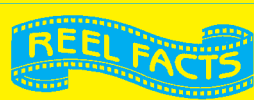

While I found the film entertaining, avant-garde and well made with a great cast, it didn't wow me as best film of the year, because I review silent films and am aware of how well a film can tell a story without sound, but also know people who refuse to see subtitled films will rarely change their minds, so making this a best film of the year I feel would be a disservice.

10. THE HELP

A great adaptation of the book, the dichotomy of the past era of 1963 where life was like a grade 6 rafting ride – a thrill a minute for some, a turbulent nightmare for others – was highly interesting. Production by Mark Ricker was great, the cast incredible, and you could really feel the plight of these maids. There's a lot of emotional heart here.

Director Shawn Levy on 'Real Steel'

Interview by Diana Saenger

Director/Producer Shawn Levy is a well-known name among moviegoers giving audiences some of the most successful films which to date have grossed more than 1.7 billion dollars worldwide. Those include Date Night, two Night At the Museum films, The Pink Panther, Cheaper By The Dozen, Big Fat Liar and more. Levy was the director of Real Steel, the heartfelt story about an absentee father (Hugh Jackman) trying to reconnect with his 11-year-old son (Dakota Goyo) through the sport of robot boxing. The film has done nearly $300 million at the box office world wide. Levy was generous to do an interview about the release of the Real Steel movie and Blu-Ray & DVD Combo released January 24, 2012.

Q. How hard was it to get Hugh Jackman to be lead in Real Steel?

SL: He's a great actor and very accessible, and I found him really interesting. He did want to make sure the movie was about more than robots before he signed on. He's genuinely a really nice guy and easy to work with. He makes the entire cast feel at ease.

Q. Why was the topic of MMA fighting appealing to you?

SL: Because it's a film with

Shawn Levy on the set of Real Steel.Levy gives direction to Hugh Jackman on the set of Real Steel. Photo Credit: DreamWorks II Distribution Co., LLC

a cinematic scale that exceeds anything I've previously done. You have to leave it to the audience to master the technical complexities of the film. There's a lot to the thoroughness and beauty of aesthetics. And whether the viewing is a second or third in ones own home, repeated watching will reveal different aspects. There is so much going on you have to allow your eyes to wonder.

Q. Why do you think audiences embrace it so much?

SL: I didn't know who fans were most impassioned about in the film but we got positive feedback from parents and families. Especially fathers and sons, and I heard that boys are now collecting every robot that's in the movie. I also was told that fathers cried in the final fight. Even robot boxing fans found it warm hearted.

Q. I was surprised to learn the story was adapted from a 1963 'Twilight Zone' episode.

SL: Yes, the premise of that show was a robot hero's journey.

Q. The production of the film is amazing and I understood you actually wanted the camera crews to feel they were in the ring?

SL: Yes, so we had to pre-capture the fights with real human fighters in a mo-cap stage. And my visual effects and production crew – some who worked on Avatar, were familiar with this technology. And as far as the future, it didn't seem there was too much to make it seem like 2020. I didn't want the future to feel futuristic or the movie to feel distant from us. I wanted it to feel accessible and the emotions to resonant.

Q. How much extra control did you have over the Blu-Ray release – there doesn't seem to be anything missing.

SL: While working on the film we shot some of the extra scenes we'd need. I really wanted to give viewers the presence of sound and image as broad and as profound as we could. The extras really go in-depth behind the scenes and visit every aspect of the production. The details and vivid tech design are some of the best I've seen.

Q. How lucky were you to find such a good actor in Dakota Koto?

SL: He was a real find. Very sweet. He just did a visit to Japan for the toy premier, and it was quite a trip, but he handled it fine. He's a well-raised kid.

Levy graduated at the age of 20 from the Drama Department of Yale University. He later studied film in the Masters Film Production Program at USC where he produced and directed the short film Broken Record. This film won the Gold Plaque at the Chicago Film Festival, in addition to being selected to screen at the Director's Guild of America.

He currently has 19 films in production and serves as executive producer of the new hit ABC comedy Last Man Standing, starring Tim Allen.

North of the Border pleases the palate

Enchilada burrito surrounded by chips.

by Diana Saenger

North of the Border is a new restaurant at Viejas Casino on the upper level. Open three weeks, North of the Border is drawing raves from customers for its food and décor. The stylish and intimate space offers much for the eye to see from walls with wonderful graphics, wall covering in what looks like snake skin and colorful titles covering a pole that announces tacos. The lightening is soft and focused and even the multi-colored floor boards are vibrant and add atmosphere to the room.

Casino Shift Manager Lou DiBella said the restaurant is doing well. “We’re very proud that all the design and work was done in-house,” he said. “We’re getting lots of good feedback about it.”

The menu is simple, but the food far exceeds that of a typical taco shop, yet at very reasonable prices. Six different tacos are offered, none over $5.25. One diner told me she really enjoyed her fish taco and found it very fresh. Burritos come in 11 choices and the A LA Carte menu features tostadas, quesadillas and side options. A help-yourself condiment bar at the front lets eaters finish off their own plates.

Combination Plates come with rice and beans and offer several choices of items including carne asada fries. I was surprised by the Carne Asada plate I ordered that came with rice and beans and several side condiments. The Carne Asada was the best tasting and most tender I have ever had. There was plenty of food for only $7.50. The menu items are excellently seasoned and inspired by a blend of flavors and spices from North of the Border. Viejas Sou Chef Roger Hernandez is partially responsible for the fine tasting menu items. Beverage options offer several choices including domestic and imported beer.

Tim Babbitt, the Food and Beverage Manager of North of the Border, is partly responsible for the restaurant’s success. He’s a moving machine, constantly checking on diners to make sure their food is right and enjoyable; keeping the room looking top shape and at times helping the staff so that all customers get first rate food and service.

“I’m really enjoying this restaurant,” he said. “It’s fun, we have great food, a great staff and it’s a terrific spot for our guests to set and relax and enjoy the ambiance of the Casino.”

North of the Border is open Sunday – Thursday, 10 a.m. – 10 p.m., Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. – 2 a.m. Patrons are reminded everyone must be 18 years of age or older to dine in the casino.

2012 The Year of the Dragon

Gung Hay Fat Choy!

(Best Wishes and Congratulations!)

The Chinese New Year celebration started this year on Monday, January 23rd and will last 15 days ending with the Lantern Festival on Monday, February 6th. The Chinese Calendar has a 12 year cycle with each year represented by an animal. This year is the Year of the Dragon, the most powerful animal. It is said that the people born in each animal's year have some of the characteristics of that animal.

The New Year is a time of family. In many of our large cities, like San Francisco, there are lots of fun family events: dinners, parades, concerts, races, zoo visits and fireworks. Vendors sell flowers, fruits, candies and pastries. The U.S. Postal Service has a new stamp with the design of a dragon on it for the year of 2012. Everyone can join in the fun!

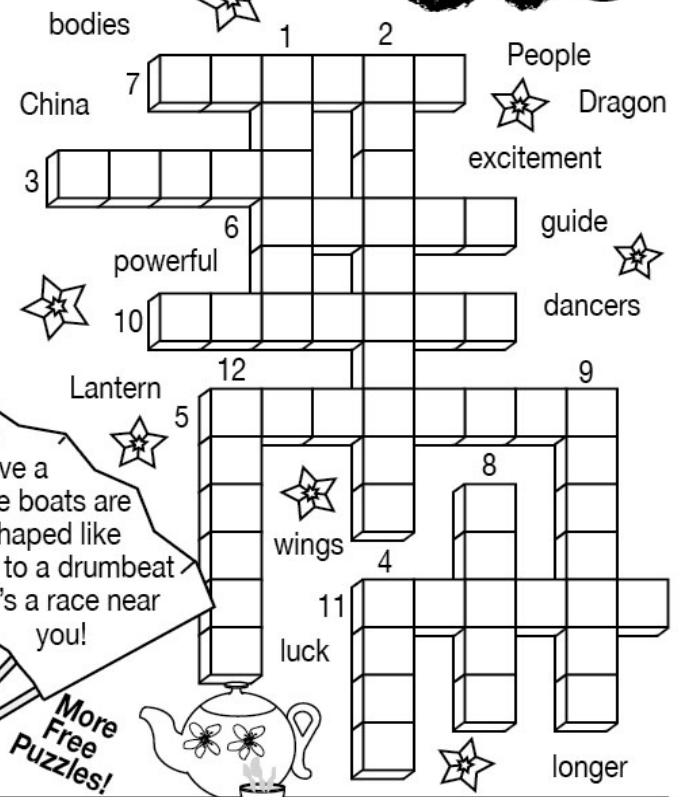

Read the clues to fill in the puzzle about the Chinese New Year:

1. This year, 2012, is the Year of the _____.
2. It is to be full of _____ – following the quiet Year of the Rabbit.
3. The dragon is one of the best known symbols in _____.
4. It is mostly a symbol of good _____.
5. The dragon is said to come from the sky – a heavenly, _____ creature.
6. Dragons are wise and said to visit the Emperor to _____ him.
7. Chinese dragons have long _____, short legs, five toes, sharp teeth and claws.
8. Some are pictured with _____ and some are not, but they all can fly.
9. A dragon dance is part of the _____ Festival held on the last day of celebration.
10. A team of _____ makes up the dragon and controls the head and body.
11. The _____ the dragon the more luck it will bring.
12. _____ born in the dragon's year are said to be smart, leaders and risk takers.

Later, during the year, many states have a Dragon Boat Festival. The boats are long, brightly painted, and shaped like dragons. The crews paddle to a drumbeat to win the race. See if there's a race near you!

12 Animals of the Chinese Zodiac

Connect the dots to see what glowing thing people make to hang for -

The Last Day

The traditional Chinese Calendar is based on the cycles of the moon and features twelve animals, with each animal standing for one year. Each animal has qualities that are said to be shared by people born in its year. This year, 2012, is the Year of the Dragon. Dragons are smart and willing to take risks – so are the people born in the Year of the Dragon.

Fill in the blanks above with consonants to spell the names of the 12 animals of the Chinese Calendar.

TO TORI ANN FACEMIRE, RESPONDENT ABOVE NAMED:

YOU ARE HEREBY SUMMONED and required to answer the Petition in this action, a copy of which is herewith served upon you, and to serve a copy of your Answer to the said Petition on the Petitioner or her attorney, Timothy H. Farr, at his office, 115 McGee Street, Greenville, South Carolina, 29601, within thirty (30) days after the service hereof, exclusive of the day of such service, and if you fail to answer the Petition within the time aforesaid, the Petitioner in this action will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the Petition. PETITION TO CONSTRUCT WILL Case No. 2009ES2301982

IN THE PROBATE COURT FOR THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA COUNTY OF GREENVILLE

Vicki Lightle as Personal Representative of the Estate of Izetta Wilson, Petitioner, vs. Patricia D. Lyons, Harold Wilson, Pamela J. McCain and Tori Ann Facemire, Respondents. IN RE: Estate of Izetta Wilson

The Petitioner would respectfully show unto the Court as follows:

That Petitioner is the duly appointed Personal Representative of the Estate of Izetta Wilson, deceased.

That at the time of decedent's death decedent had a Will which has been filed with the Greenville County Probate Court.

That the Will of decedent makes provision for various items but contains no residuary clause and therefore Petitioner alleges that, except for those items designated, the property of deceased must pass pursuant to the South Carolina Code of Laws regarding intestacy. That all of the intestate heirs of the decedent have been made parties to this action, Tori Ann Facemire being the sole child of James R. Facemire, deceased, a son of the decedent. That the Will directs that Harold Wilson is to receive the automobile specifying a 1992 Cavalier, although at the time of the decedent's death, she did not own a 1992 Cavalier but did own a 2003 Pontiac Sunfire which Petitioner alleges should go to Harold Wilson, it being the intent of the decedent for Harold Wilson to have her vehicle.

That, subject to payment of all claims against the estate, administration expenses, and after making distribution of assets as directed in the Will, all remaining assets should pass to the intestate heirs.

WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays as follows: That the Court determine the intestate heirs of the decedent;

That the Court find that the decedent died intestate as to all properties not otherwise identified to the Will;

That the Court find that it was the intent of the decedent to convey to Harold Wilson the automobile which she owned at the time of her death; and

For such other and further relief as this Court may deem just and proper.

In the "Technology Lounge" which is part of the Library, there are many large TV screens for students to see power point presentations. The outdoor lunch quad is new and improved and can also be used for a multitude of events. The best part being that the adults can see all the students at all times.

The all new infrastructure, heating and air conditioning has been a part of bond money. Throughout all of the remodeling work, tractors and building permits Mr Mull has been protective of the historic rock flag pole monument dedicated to Otto Marks in 1938 and he took special interest in preserving the old Oak Trees and Christmas Tree that were planted by Lakeside students and citizens many years ago. He has a special cabinet which will display the school's history such as a 1930s graduation certificate that he covets.

He said this renovation has been a real leaning experience and "I love my job!"

The bond measure that Lakeside citizens passed to obtain money for upgrades and remodeling of the Lakeside Schools was for $80 million. $6 million went to Lakeside Middle School renovation.
