Alpine Kiwanis donate a book to every student at Alpine Elementary

by Diana Saenger

As part of Dave Truax's reign as President of Alpine Kiwanis this past year, reading was an important program he initiated. Having just passed the gavel to incoming President Jim Cate, Truax, with the help of his wife Janet, wanted to give every student at Alpine Elementary their own book to take home and read.

Different titles were selected according to grade level, and volunteers arrived on Thursday, September 27 to present the books to every class grades 1-5.

"It was a great turn out and very welcomed by the staff, teachers and kids," Truax said.

On Saturday, Sept., 29 E Clampus Vitus, Lakeside Historical Society members and the public were present as a monument recognizing the Historic Lakeside Speedway was unveiled at the Historic Olde Church on Maine Avenue in Lakeside.

E Clampus Vitus is a fraternal organization that researches western historical sites each year and picks one as the recipient of a plaque and monument. This year the Lakeside speedway - built in 1907 by Lakeside Inn owner John H. Gay - was chosen. Considered the first purpose-driven racetrack in the United States at the time, the 60 ft. wide oval track circling Lindo Lake near the Inn was clay-packed, which allowed for added speed. This was the site in which Barney Olfield, in his Green Hornet racing car, set a world record.

Lakeside Historical Society President Barbara Hogue thanked D.J. David Blayblock-Nobel Grand Humbug- E Clampus Vitus for the plaque and monument and expressed the society's appreciation for this special recognition. Blayblock extended thanks to the Lakeside historical society, Alpine Rock and Block and Grand Noble Historian Andy Davies-XNGH, RC Stevens and the Squibob Monument construction crew and Historical Society grounds keeper, John Swank.

Inspiration

Would someone please call 'timeout?'

by Rev. James L. Snyder

I just realized that summer is now over. Where in the world did it go?

In fact, that is a very good question. Where does the summer go when it leaves? Is there some place that summer, winter, spring and fall go to chill out? When they get there, what in the world are they doing?

Someone suggested, and I will not divulge any names only to say they live in the same residence I do, that as a person gets older time goes faster. I absolutely resemble that comment.

This past week I finally adjusted myself to my summertime schedule. I do not know about anybody else, but it takes me a long time to get into a new schedule.

While I am thinking about it, who in the world invented these seasons? Why didn't they let a good thing go? I would much have preferred that we simply divide our time by day or night. If it is dark, for example, it has to be night. And, if the sun is up and it is shining and bright, it must be day. I could live with something like that. At least I would know what time it really was.

I was actually wallowing in a hopeless spirit of despondency. What is a person to do?

Then something rather strange happened. One of my friends was playing football and his first game was on a Saturday morning. I thought maybe the distraction might cheer me up a little bit and encourage me to keep on keeping on.

I cannot remember the last time I was at a football game. Of course that does not mean too much, I cannot remember what I had for lunch yesterday. It was good to get into a different venue, and air out my soul.

Then it hit me. No, not the football, although that might have helped to a certain degree. But a thought hit me, which is just about as rare as being hit by a football at a football game.

I had just gotten into the spirit of watching the game when all of a sudden I heard a whistle and a coach yelled, "Timeout." At that moment everything stopped. I looked at the clock on the scoreboard and it had stopped. I had forgotten about this little quirk in football.

The clock did not start and the game did not commence until the coach yelled, "play ball." Or something to that effect.

That got me thinking. If they can do that for football, why can't we do that for life? After all, life is far more important than a football game. Who is that coach that yells, "Timeout," and everybody stops? What kind of authority does he have?

We need to bring this kind of thinking into life in general. It seems to me that everything in life is thought out in great detail except actually living life. Football has been well thought out and is comprised of rules and regulations. Baseball the same. Hockey... Well maybe not so much hockey. Most games are well thought out, have rules to live by, and if something isn't going the way it is supposed to go, the coach has the privilege of yelling "Timeout."

How many times could I have used this little rule in my life?

Wouldn't it be nice to stop life when you have made an inappropriate remark, maybe you said something to your wife that came out the wrong side of your mouth. I have done that many a times. I think it would be rather nice if when I realize what I have just said, to be able to yell "Timeout." Then do it over again.

The other day one of my checks from my checking account bounced. That would have been a perfect time to yell "timeout" and redo the whole thing.

There are so many things in life that could benefit from this one little thing called "timeout." I suggest that we began implementing this into our daily life. After all, our daily life is much more important than a football game, a hockey game, or a baseball game. I think whenever something goes awry we should have the privilege to stop it right in its tracks and do it over again. It does not matter how many times we have to do it over again, we continue doing it over until we get it right.

It would make life more exciting if I knew that if I made a mistake I could call "Timeout," do a do-over, and make everything right.

I think we need to have a very stern conversation with good old Father Time. He is so much a stickler for time marching on. But sometimes you get tired of marching and need to sit down and take a breather. Then sometimes, you need to change the direction in which you are marching. It is not so bad the time marches on but when it needs to turn around and march the other way that is a completely different story.

In thinking further along this line, I discovered God already has a "Timeout" plan. I found it in 1 John 1:9(KJV), "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

With this in mind, I certainly want to take full advantage of God's "Timeout" plan.

Created for greatness

Dear Readers,

A hiker walking through the mountains in Canada came across a broken nest, looking around he discovered an egg. Picking up the egg he wrapped it and placed it in his backpack. Reaching his home, he thought, maybe this egg can hatch. Having chickens he placed the bigger egg under his hen.

The hen welcomed the egg and kept it just as warm as the other eggs. One by one the eggs started hatching, and to the hiker's surprise the bigger egg hatched as well. The hen was the proud mother of all the hatched eggs. Teaching them to scratch for food in the chicken coop, the hiker watched as the strange fuzzy looking bird awkwardly followed the lead of the hen that hatched it.

At night, just like all the other chicks, it huddled under the hen at her clucks. They all found warmth under the hen's wings. Time passed, and the bird was getting so much bigger, and still scratching for food like the other chickens. More time passed, and its feathers started to grow into place. One day the hiker noticed another bird soaring back and forth above the chicken coop. Looking through his binoculars he realized it was a beautiful bald eagle. Its majestic wings spread, and it glided so smoothly in the air. Then the hiker noticed the bird in the chicken coop kept looking up. He also noticed it was taking shape like the eagle. Yet it continued to scratch like a chicken, acting out like the other chickens.

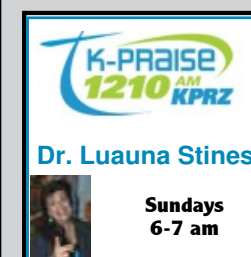

The hiker built another addition to the coop and separated the bigger bird from his chickens. It was looking more and more like an eagle, yet its actions were like a chicken. The hiker watched the eagle soar back and forth; it's screeching sound as if calling to the eagle in the chicken coop. Yet the eagle just glanced up from time to time.

The hiker removed the wire from the top of the coop, and waited for the eagle to return. Day after day the eagle in the chicken coop just looked and glanced up as the other eagle seemed like it was crying out for him to RISE UP, get out of the chicken coop. Finally one day the hiker noticed that the eagle in the coop was paying more attention to the eagle in the air. He opened his wings trying to fly, and settled on the highest perch in the coop. His eyes continued to follow the eagle soaring. He attempted again to fly. The hiker realized that it was as if the eagle knew the other needed help to learn what he was born to do.

So many Christians are like that eagle, stuck in the chicken coop; not knowing they are born for greatness. We are all created in the image of the Almighty God. When we discover what God says about us and then apply His Word to our lives, we can soar to greater heights. Isaiah 40:31; "But those who wait on the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings like an eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint."

Jesus loves you, don't let the devil, or your own fears keep you in the chicken coop. Come to church, and let me teach you God's Word, RISE UP.

In Memorandum

Wilton S. "Curly" Collier was born on April 19, 1921 in Vernon, Texas. With his loving family at his bedside, he died on September 23, 2012 at his home in La Mesa. His beloved wife, Pauline, preceded him in death. Together they raised four children: Kenneth, Wilton, Tommy and Paula. He is also survived by six grandchildren: Kimberly, Timothy, Michelle, Dawn, Lee and Deborah: fourteen great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

He began his service to others in the US Army Air Corps, Pacific Theater from 1940 to 1945. That service was honored in July with a tile on the Veterans' Wall of Honor in Alpine.

His dedication to "Saving the Children of the World, One child at a Time" through Kiwanis International began when he joined the Kiwanis Club of Alpine in 1967. He served in every office and received every recognition/award possible in his local club and Division 31 of California-Nevada-Hawaii District. His most recent award, the 45 year Legion of Honor was bestowed by Dave Truax, 2011-2012 President of the Alpine Club.

As Curly's awards are too numerous to list, so are his acts of service. Two stand out in the memories of those who knew him. As President of Alpine Kiwanis, 1970-1971 he was responsible for donations that added much needed space to the Alpine Fire Department building, bought radio equipment and provided the first ambulance to the department.

The thing that makes the name Curly Collier recognized throughout Kiwanis International and much of the San Diego community is his tireless dedication to Rady Children's Hospital. In addition to encouraging countless individual donors, he organized the Alpine Kiwanis Miracle Mile of Quarters Golf Tournament 23 years ago. The tournament has raised more than $800,000 to benefit the children served by this hospital.

Curly's service example has set the bar high for those who follow. He is loved by many and will be missed.

A Memorial Service will be held on Sunday, October 28, 2012, 1 p.m. at St. Andrews Lutheran Church, 8350 Lake Murray Blvd. (corner of Lake Murray Blvd. and Jackson Drive) La Mesa, CA., 91941.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks donations be made to the Curly Collier Endowment Fund at Rady Children's Hospital.

For Health's Sake

Innovative program huge help for parents of children with Autism

Last fall, 6-year-old Jake was beyond a handful for his parents: As a child with autism, Jake was unable to do what his mom and dad asked; he constantly threw tantrums when he didn't get his way, had no friends and could not be taken out in public because of his unpredictable and often aggressive behavior.

Like so many families in a similar situation, Jake's parents were completely unequipped to deal with their son's behavior. They had no skills or training, and as a result they were desperate for help as they allowed Jake to have his way more often than not.

Thanks to an innovative program operated by Vista Hill's STAR (Support, Training, Assessment & Research) Specialties division, Jake and his parents got that help.

After 22 weeks of intensive hands-on training for both parents and child, the youngster's behavior has improved dramatically, he's much more even-tempered and the extreme stress on the family has subsided. The family can even go out for recreation or a restaurant meal and Jake does just fine.

"The success with this family and many others like them is the kind of leading-edge results we anticipated when we added STAR Specialties to the Vista Hill family of programs over a year ago," said Robert Dean, Vista Hill President and CEO. "The rise in the incidence of children with autism is a serious concern. Having this capability is critical in helping parents deal with what is one of the most difficult challenges a family can ever face."

The program, called FIT (Family Intensive Training Program), is unique in San Diego because FIT experts "behavior coaches" provide the training in a group environment in which a number of families all learn together how to manage the children's problem behaviors while equipping the kids with social skills, according to Linda Collins, Ph.D., who heads the program.

Collins created STAR Specialties to help children with high functioning autism/Asperger's as well as children with autism who may have more sensory and behavioral issues due to added challenges with their understanding and use of language.

"Social skills training conducted with multiple parents together with their children in a group environment is our real innovation—one we have not seen anywhere else in the country—and the key is that parents and their children not only learn from behavior coaches, they also gain a tremendous amount of knowledge from sharing challenges with other parents and learning what has and hasn't worked with each family," said Collins. "The combination of those two elements has really helped us transform the lives of many of these families—something that we're able to measure statistically, as we look at the before and after behaviors, but which we can also gauge in a more emotional way in the deep appreciation our parents express over the remarkable progress their children have made."

Collins added that FIT, which is funded by the California Department of Developmental Services distributed through the San Diego Regional Center (SDRCDD), is also a much more cost-effective program because group instruction is much less expensive than traditional one-on-one training.

For families not receiving SDRCDD services, scholarships opportunities are available. New sessions begin regularly.

Current locations include Santee, San Marcos, Del Mar, Rancho Bernardo, National City and Old Town. Additional sites are available. For more information on the FIT program, call 858-514-5170, or visit the STAR Specialties website at www.starspecialties.org.

I have contacts

A policeman pulled a female driver over and asked to see her license.

After looking it over, he said to her, "Lady, it stipulates here on your license that you should be wearing glasses."

"Well, I have contacts," the woman replied.

"Look lady, I don't care who you know," snapped the officer. "You're getting a ticket."

'Won't Back Down' — passionate and timely

Review by Diana Saenger

With many films already released about making schools better, moviegoers might moan about yet another one hitting the big screen. Won't Back Down won't win awards but because of Viola Davis and Maggie Gyllenhaal's positive performances, the movie will appeal to those who teach or have children attending school.

Jamie Fitzpatrick (Gyllenhaal) is a single mother already working two jobs and worried about her daughter's poor performance at school. Eight-year-old Malia (Emily Alyn Lind) has dyslexia. Her classmates tease her unmercifully and most of the union teachers seem to have little interest in how the students are doing.

One exception is Nona Alberts (Viola Davis). She does care and tries to do her best but many wrongs Nona wants to correct are hampered by stone-minded Principal Holland (Bill Nunn). Nona is also having some trouble of her own at home. Her son Cody (Dante Brown) is slow in learning and it's something that Nona cannot deal with or accept. It's such a problem in their home, her husband Charles (Lance Reddick) eventually moves out and wants to take Cody with him.

When Jamie becomes aware that other parents are experiencing the same frustration as she and Nona, the two women began a campaign to create their own nonunion character school. They're fought at every turn, but even when Olivia Lopez (Marianne Jean-Baptiste), chair of the school board, tells them their paperwork alone will take three years to get through the system, they don't give up.

These dynamos are strictly led by passion and what's at stake, and they manage to get a group behind them while still dealing with their own situations. Nona hits a low when Cody does move to his father's. Jamie gets involved with Michael (Oscar Isaac), a gifted teacher who engages his students. Their relationship has challenges, however, as he's a firm believer in the union and won't back Jamie's plan.

Davis and Gyllenhaal are both incredible. They wear the passion of their characters on their sleeves and are not afraid to stand up for what they believe is right.

Won't Back Down is inspired by true events and focuses on parenthood, friendship, hope and courage.

'Looper' — unusual intriguing

Review by Diana Saenger

Anyone heading out to see Looper should take their love of action, adventure and the unusual along – but leave any concerns about reason or logic at home. It's 2074 and the world has not improved over time. Mobsters rule; the streets are packed with homeless people living day to day; and you'll most likely get shot if you try to steal someone's food.

However, Joe (Joseph Gordon-Levitt) is doing okay. He's a hired assassin – called a Looper – who stands in a field and waits for a bound and head-wrapped person to suddenly plop in the field out of nowhere. It's actually some unlucky guy the mob has sent back in time to 2044 to be killed by Joe. Once he fires his Blunderbuss – a weapon that can only fire short range – and kills the suspect, a Looper can zip open the back of the dead person's shirt and find their payment of either gold or silver bars.

New to the 2074 era, time travel can only be used by government agents. When Joe travels back home, he hides part of his money in a hole below his floor, pays for the drugs he's addicted to, which are dropped into his eyes, and heads to a night club. There he fantasizes on Suzie (Piper Perabo), a pleaser who doesn't generally like Loopers but thinks Joe still has a bit of civility about him.

Maybe that's why fellow Looper Seth (Paul Dano, in a much-too-short role), comes to Joe when he messes up by letting his victim get away. So Looper boss, Abe (Jeff Daniels), orders Seth's Loop closed, and Seth knows his minutes are numbered. Joe tries to help but only gets into trouble with the boss.

Strangely, the same thing happens to Joe when he's standing there looking at his own self (Bruce Willis) from the future. Older Joe shows up with no face cover and in the split-minute when Joe fails to pull the trigger, older Joe escapes.

From this point the film becomes a sci-fi Goodfellas. It's best not to try keeping up with who is doing what to whom. Instead, just hang on for the ride! Running for his life, Joe ends up in a corn field, drawn to an address given him to save or kill the "Rainmaker," an evil person in 2074 but back where Joe is in 2044, Cid, the Rainmaker, is a charming and astute 5-year-old boy played by Pierce Chagnon, a real charmer.

Cid's mother Sara (Emily Blunt) meets Joe at the end of her rifle. She's there to protect Cid, knowing his future lies in her hands. She and Joe eventually become friends, but their alliance doesn't make them ready for the evil they will face.

Director and writer Rian Johnson (The Brother's Bloom, Brick, Breaking Bad) has created a thoroughly intriguing film for the most part. There are many scenes – as I hinted at earlier – that beg to be explained, however the fast pacing and excellent cast continue to draw us into the story.

Gordon-Levitt (made up to resemble Willis) is amazing. He's come a long way from the TV episodes he made in the late 80s. There isn't a moment in the film that we don't wait for the next step Joe takes. Willis may be losing a few hairs but his acting skills continue to impress and delight. He and Gordon-Levitt make a great team. In the scene where young Joe and old Joe face off at a café, there's more going on between them than the lines in the script can indicate.

Looper reminds me a lot of 2010's Inception. It's certainly entertaining, and the ultimate message that rises to the top at the end of the film is worth waiting for.

Chargers enjoy a Kansas City barbecue

by Chuck Karazsia

What a difference a week makes. Just seven days after getting bounced by the Falcons at home, the Bolts made a bold statement last Sunday in Kansas City, destroying the Chiefs 37-20 at Arrowhead Stadium.

"It didn't tell us anything new about what we already knew in the locker room," said confident Chargers quarterback Philip Rivers. "We knew we were resilient and that we were going to come right back."

Improving their overall record to (3-1), 2-0 within the AFC Western Division, the Chargers offense and defense brought their own thunder and lightning that sent K.C. fans clamoring for the exits early, while dropping the Chiefs to (1-3), tied for last place with the Oakland Raiders.

On the road, in a tough venue, the Chargers came out fast and strong, taking the home crowd out of the game early. The Bolts defense forced Kansas City into committing six turnovers (three fumbles, three interceptions).

Exceptionally strong, best describes the way the Chargers defensive front seven harassed the Chiefs offense. Taking the ball away from K.C. five times in the first-half (most since 1997), Takeo Spikes started the defensive thunder stripping the ball from K.C. running back Jamaal Charles. It was recovered by Shaun Phillips to setup the Bolts third score of the first quarter, giving San Diego an early 17-0 lead.

After an Eric Weddle interception early in the second quarter, Chargers linebacker Donald Butler played like a man possessed. He stepped in front of a deflected Cassel pass, picked it, and rumbled 21-yards for a pick six – giving San Diego a 27-6 halftime lead.

Exceptionally strong early on best describes the Bolts lightning offense, capitalizing and converting three K.C. turnovers into 17 first-half points.

Managing the game well, Rivers made the most of his 18 pass completions, distributing the ball to eight different receivers. Tossing one touchdown pass to WR-KR Eddie Royal at 10:04 in the first quarter.

Chargers ...

Continued from page 14 one-two punch. Mathews provides deceptive moves and pure speed, and Battle fights through the line of scrimmage on power running situations. The former Chief powered over the goal line twice on one and four-yard touchdown bursts. Ronnie Brown showed his versatility catching three passes for nearly 50-yards.

Turning point in the game may have been in the third quarter after K.C. made it a two-score game. Although held to one first down in the period, Rivers led an offensive drive that held onto the ball for over five minutes off the clock, breaking any momentum Kassel and the Chiefs offense may have had. Battle then scored his second touchdown. Game over.

The Chargers will face their biggest test of the young season Sunday when they travel to the Superdome of New Orleans to face Drew Brees and the New Orleans Saints. Kickoff is at 5:20 p.m.

Pet of the Week

RADAR and his kennel mate, Klinger, found their way to our shelter when they got lost and couldn't find their way home. Both dogs are handsome Chihuahuas who are approximately one-and-a-half years old. Radar is a loving, sensitive boy who is still getting used to life at the shelter. He becomes more confident each day, however. Radar and Klinger can be adopted separately or together, but they sure enjoy spending time with one another. Radar gets along nicely with other dogs, he loves to be very close to his special person, and he would probably do best in a home with older, considerate children. Radar walks nicely on the leash, and he would make a perfect house (or apartment) dog. The shelter staff is not sure if Radar is house trained, so they're still watching him to be sure. Please visit Radar in kennel #53, then ask the helpful staff if you can get to know him better in our lovely play yard

San Diego Humane Society Pet of the Week

Simba is a 12-year-old red tabby male. Adoption Fee: "Pick Your Purr-fect Price" Animal ID#: 94309

Why I'd make a great companion: I have been at the San Diego Humane Society since March 16, 2012. This means the staff here has had plenty of time to get to know me. Everyone tells me I am purr-fect because I am the largest cat you have ever seen and I am also the most loving! The 3 words that best describe me are lucky, lazy and loving. My favorite activities include sleeping on the couch and watching old movies with you. A few other things you should know about me are that I am going to require a bit more care than the average cat here. I have something called Diabetes, but I don't let that slow me down. My friends here help me get the exercise that I need. Although I'd prefer to sleep all day, they help me enjoy short workout sessions to keep me healthy and in-shape. Don't let my Diabetes make you turn the other way, I am the biggest lap cat here - you won't find one better than me!
