Water Authority expands Drought Outreach Campaign

Increased efforts call attention to mandatory conservation measures

Severe Drought

WHEN IN DROUGHT

Save every day, every way.

This is Serious
Water Conservation is Mandatory

Mandatory conservation measures include:

- Limiting outdoor watering days and times
- Watering only during the late evening or early morning hours
- Eliminating runoff from irrigation systems
- Repairing all leaks within 72 hours
- Using hoses with shut-off valves for washing cars (or use commercial car washes that re-circulate water)

Local rules vary. Find restrictions in effect in your community at whenindrought.org.

San Diego County
Water Authority

The Water Authority and its partners offer a range of resources for increasing water conservation at homes, businesses, homeowner associations and institutions. They include rebates for purchasing water-efficient appliances and devices, incentives for replacing lawns with low-water-use landscapes, WaterSmart landscape makeover classes, tips for trimming water use indoors and outdoors and inspirational ideas for other water-wise improvements. For details, go to the Water Authority's conservation website, WaterSmartSD.org See full story on page 2.

Mandatory conservation measures necessary

With mandatory water-use restrictions now in effect, the San Diego County Water Authority will ramp up its water conservation campaign by making information more accessible online, expanding drought education presentations, encouraging greater public participation, and improving conservation resources so they are easier to use.

Many of the outreach messages will take a more serious tone to reflect severe drought conditions statewide and the immediate need to save stored water reserves for 2015. The campaign will also include increased efforts to recognize residents and business that are saving water, and enable others to do the same.

On Thursday, the Water Authority's staff shared plans for an enhanced drought outreach campaign with the Board of Directors. The plan follows a unanimous decision by the Board on July 24 to declare a Drought Alert condition calling for mandatory water conservation measures.

Expanded outreach efforts include:

- Providing media outlets in the region with drought-related public service announcements
- Working with member agencies and The Home Depot to host another series of water-efficient plant fairs this fall

- Coordinating with local food and beverage associations to develop and distribute "table tents" that promote water conservation
- Expanding advertising efforts
- Developing additional community outreach partners
- Adding a directory to www.whenindrought.org of conservation information and incentives offered by local agencies

- Increasing outreach efforts to key business groups, civic and environmental organizations, service clubs and faith-based groups
- Accelerating outreach to property management companies, landscape companies, HOAs and other property-related groups
- Encouraging people to show their support for water conservation with promotional items such as yard signs, magnets and vehicle decals

Program improvements under development include:

- Simplifying the application process for customers who qualify for turf replacement rebates from both the Water Authority and the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California
- Adding a re-programming service for irrigation controller devices to the existing, free WaterSmart Checkup residential water-use assessments
- Creating a pilot public-private partnership for offering artificial turf purchase and installation at a discounted rate to customers

"San Diego County residents have a strong track record of water conservation and responding to drought conditions, and we have seen interest in water-saving programs swell the past few months as drought conditions have worsened," said Thomas V. Wornham, Chair of the Water Authority's Board of Directors. "But our water supply challenges are growing more serious, and water supply cutbacks in 2015 are a real possibility if conditions don't improve this winter. So, we will do more to remind residents about ways to conserve and the need to comply with mandatory water-use restrictions in their communities. At the same time, we will refine several of our conservation programs to make it easier for people to take action."

The Water Authority recently updated its When in Drought webpage, www.whenindrought.org, with links to member agency websites where residents and businesses can get details about water-use restrictions in their communities.

As a wholesale water agency, the Water Authority plays an important role in coordinating drought response actions for San Diego County. The Water Authority's Board declared a Drought Watch condition in February to encourage increased voluntary water conservation. Record-setting temperatures during the first half of 2014 made voluntary conservation difficult to achieve and contributed to a rapid drawdown in reservoir levels statewide.

The current Drought Alert condition declared in July makes Drought Watch conservation measures mandatory, and it adds outdoor watering restrictions such as limiting landscape irrigation to no more than three days per week. Local rules vary based on regulations adopted by the Water Authority's 24 member agencies.

As part of its drought response efforts, the Water Authority in April launched "When in Drought: Save every day, every way," an outreach campaign to generate public support for increased water conservation and thank residents for investing in water supply reliability over the past 20 years. The Water Authority also is coordinating regional drought education and outreach efforts with its member agencies, MWD and the state Department of Water Resources to ensure the largest possible impact. The When in Drought campaign has included ads, public service announcements, online communications and drought reminders provided by community partners in public places such as San Diego International Airport and Petco Park.

While some California communities have faced reduced water deliveries for months, the San Diego region has avoided them because of two decades of investments to diversify and improve the reliability of the region's water supply sources, investments in Southern California reservoir storage and countywide water conservation efforts.

The Water Authority is not anticipating cutbacks to its imported water supplies this year that would trigger mandatory supply cutbacks to its member agencies. Allocations could happen in 2015 if conditions don't improve, but regional investments in water supply reliability such as independent Colorado River water transfers and the Carlsbad Desalination Project will help offset the impacts of any supply reductions.

It was a Shoofly Pie celebration weekend

by Dr. Rev. James L. Snyder

People ask me questions all the time. Some of those questions I can answer, some I cannot answer and some I will not answer. I wish people would ask me questions I could answer and look good about it. However, it never happens.

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage asks me questions all the time. After 43 years, I have finally figured out her questions. Most usually require one word answers. For somebody like me who spends most of his time preaching and writing, boiling an answer down to one word is something that is quite difficult.

The one great thing about my wife is, when she asks me a question, she does not really want an answer, because she already has the answer. I do not know how wives have developed this kind of intellectual mystique. I have just never had the opportunity to ask her. This probably would be the main question I would ask. Sometimes, living in the dark is okay.

Some people ask questions to get information. Some people ask questions to show off how smart they think they are, which, merely proves how dumb they actually are. Do not let them know that I said this, or they may have some questions for me. Then some people ask questions in order to trick you.

Questions are important. Sometimes my friends (both of them), will ask me a question. The primary question is simply, What is a shoofly pie? This is the kind of question I like and furthermore, I like to answer it.

The trouble with a question like this is, where do you begin? With something as marvelous and wonderful as a shoofly pie, where do you start to explain all of its delicacies?

To begin with, a shoofly pie is a slice of heaven. I am quite sure that in heaven at supper time there will be shoofly pies aplenty. I know quite a few Mennonite and Amish women who, I am quite sure, are in heaven, and if they are, they will insist on making shoofly pie. I do not know if it is in their genes, but I do know it is in their aprons.

If anybody has ever had the wonderful opportunity of eating a shoofly pie, they will know exactly what I am talking about. It is hard to explain the experience without your mouth watering so much you need a towel.

To start with, the bottom of a shoofly pie is sheer liquid pleasure. Depending on the person preparing the pie will depend on how thick that bottom layer is. Once that is laid down, the next layer is a delightful mix of flour and sugar and other secret ingredients. That layer seems to float on top of that liquid pleasure.

On the top is a crust of munchable delight that has absolutely no equal. Then, to set it off, there is a circular crust that holds all of this together in one magnificent pie.

I am not a baker so I do not know how they put all of this together and then put it in the oven and then bring out this awesome, classical dessert known as shoofly pie. Some things are so wonderful that they cannot be fully explained.

Personally, I would rather not spend much time trying to answer the question, What is a shoofly pie? I would preferably utilize that time delving into eating a shoofly pie. That is my greatest delight.

Recently I indulged this marvelous delight in the center of shoofly pie country. Everybody knows that to be Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

A conference was going to be there that I wanted to go to but I had many things that prohibited me from going there. All I could think about was the wonderful shoofly pies I could indulge in if I went to that conference. So, I worked hard to eliminate everything that would keep me from going there. Some things are, indeed, worth fighting for.

About a month before the conference was to start, I had dealt with the final obstruction and was able to make plans to go. All I could think about was, "Shoofly pie, here I come."

As soon as my flight landed, I hurried off to the nearest restaurant and indulged in my first slice of shoofly pie for the weekend. I am happy to say it was not my last piece.

At the conference, they had breakfast, lunch and dinner and for dessert, even at breakfast, was shoofly pie. I cannot tell you how many pieces of shoofly pie I ate, for the simple reason I cannot count that high without taking off my shoes. A slice of shoofly pie highlighted every meal. I am happy to say that they had more shoofly pie at this conference than I could consume although I did my very best, I assure you.

I know that life sometimes has its hard paths and things can become very difficult. That is why we need to have something to really look forward to.

The writer to the Hebrews understood this when he wrote, "Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God" (Hebrews 12:2).

Celebrating the delicacies of life enable us to survive the adversities of life.

Dear Dr. Luauna — In the midst of drought to see us through a drought.

In the Old Testament, in 1 Kings Chapter 17 there is a powerful story of a prophet of God, Elijah and his interaction with the widow of Zarephath. First the Lord sent Elijah to a brook, where He commanded the ravens to feed him, 1 Kings 17:2-6. When the brook dried up, the Lord sent Elijah to a widow in 1st Kings 17:5. What was God doing? Was this a rich widow who somehow had an abundance of money and food when all around there was lack, poverty and starvation? No, the widow was not rich, as a matter of fact, 1 Kings 17:12, she was about to cook the last of their food before she and her son would starve to death, all she had left was some oil and flour. She had given up all hope.

This is not just a story, there are many all around us today, in similar circumstances, who have lost all hope and do not have anywhere to turn, bills piling up, they are in the midst of hard times; feeling alone and overwhelmed by circumstances. I want to encourage you, Jesus is there, He is calling out to you, Matthew 11:28; "Come to Me, all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

He loves you and wants to take care of you, just as he took care of Elijah, just as he took care of the widow. Elijah trusted in God, he followed God and depended on Him. When the widow heard the word of the Lord from the prophet, she also relied upon God. 1 Kings 17:16; "The bin of flour was not used up, nor did the jar of oil run dry, according to the word of the Lord which He spoke by Elijah." Why did they make it through the drought? Because God is faithful, He is able to provide no matter what the situation! When it looks like the 11th hour and it seems like all is lost, call on Him! When the circumstances seem impossible, turn to Him who makes all things possible; when you are up against the sea, call on Him who parts it! When everything seems so dark, remember He is the light!

Trust Jesus, I know He will take care of you; I know He will provide for you, I know He will be there. Jesus is the same, yesterday, today and forever. When times are hard, run to Him. I have run to Jesus, time and time again. His love is so deep, wide and high. Jesus loves you so much! His arms are wide open, run to Him in your time of trouble! As a single mother, a cancer survivor, and a widow, I have run to Him a thousand times over, Jesus has, and is always faithful, I love you dear readers. Psalm 91:1-2; "He who dwells in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, "He is my refuge and my fortress; my God, in Him I will trust."

A Woman Called of God — The Tangled Web has taken a long time to come to print; it's a very difficult story to share. This is my personal journey. nSpired Natural Foods, Inc. is voluntarily recalling certain retail lots of Arrowhead Mills® Peanut Butters, MaraNatha® Almond Butters and Peanut Butters and specific private label nut butters packaged in glass and plastic jars because they have the potential to be contaminated with Salmonella.

The potential risk was brought to the Company's attention by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration following routine testing. The Company has received reports of four illnesses that may be associated with these specific products.

nSpired Natural Foods, Inc. is committed to producing the highest quality products and our top priority is the safety of our consumers. For this reason we are initiating this voluntary recall of the products as a precautionary measure.

A few years later, the name has changed to the "Alpine Woman's Club". The initial membership was small in number but very ambitious. Marshall Way, located off of Alpine Blvd, was named to honor the Marshall family. The energizer bunny has nothing on these two

by Diana Saenger

The smile on their faces can bring sunshine to a cloudy day. What Bill and Elizabeth Ridenour have done through their combined 181 years could be an exhibit in the Smithsonian.

Bill Ridenour turned 91 on August 20, and feels so fortunate to still have his beautiful wife Elizabeth, who is 90, to share their 73 years of marriage. On August 14, 2014, Bill and Elizabeth shared a precious moment with their friends, family and celebrated veterans.

They were part of The Spirit of 45 (www.spiritof45.org) Spirit Fest, next to the midway and celebrating the 69th anniversary of the end of WWII. Standing next to the statue of the kissing soldier and nurse next to the Midway, the Ridenours and another couple renewed their wedding vows. Stu Hedley, one of the last Pearl Harbor survivors, addressed the crowd. Many expressed comments about how moving the ceremony was, and how grateful they were for the sacrifices of so many lives for our freedom.

"This was an experience I never expected," Elizabeth said. "It was special to have our family and friends there and to listen to like-minded people talk so positive about God and our country. That meant so much to me."

Bill, patriotic to the core, was moved by this celebration. "I enjoyed marrying my beautiful bride again," he said. "But today was very special for me in thinking again about our country's precious freedom and listening to WWII Veterans speak about their sacrifices and how that came to be."

Bill and Elizabeth met at a milk delivery company in Iowa. He was a delivery man and she a book keeper.

"I was engaged to be married to someone else when Bill came to work there," Elizabeth said. "He would come in and help me with different jobs I didn't know how to do. He was so nice and helpful; eventually I fell in love with him."

Bill was working at the Rock Island Arsenal in 1942, right after Pearl Harbor happened, when he was drafted into the Army.

"I was sad," Elizabeth said. "We had only been married two years and because he worked in the defense plant, we didn't think he would be called up. I also didn't like that I had to go live with my parents again. The hardest part was the worry because we didn't know where the guys were or what they were doing. Writing letters didn't bring replies for a long time. We would go to the movies and see the newsreels of things going on, which would always make us worry."

Bill's service to his country is amazing. He was trained to work on automatic 40 millimeter guns and as a mechanic. He ended up being assigned to guard the California coast along Pacific Highway. He would soon be sailing with thousands of soldiers under the Golden Gate Bridge on the USS Weigel. Bill would be one of many who hit the beach at Leyte in the Philippines under heavy sniper fire. To this day he still has nightmares about those experiences.

"Serving in World War II after being drafted is something most will never forget," Bill said. "Serving in the states, there were good times. Going overseas had me worried. I prayed to God to get me through the war, and he did. I knew what we had to do to have the freedom in our country to be able to pray, and say or do what we want. I didn't mind being part of that. I'm so thankful for our country and to God for bringing me home. And I'm sorry for those 450,000 who lost their lives in service. They are the true heroes."

All Bill could think about was his beautiful bride back home. He wouldn't have to wait long. Once the atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima and the ship was headed to invade Japan, the peace treaty was signed by General of the Army Douglas MacArthur.

During one time while on furlough, Bill was heading home to Muscatine, Iowa. He was not only anxious to see Elizabeth, but to meet his nine-month-old son, Richard, for the first time. Bill was so anxious to get home he hitched a ride with somebody hoping to get there before they left to pick him up. Meanwhile Elizabeth had arranged for someone to bring them to the train station and meet him. As Bill was heading one direction on the road home, Elizabeth and friends were headed the other way to the train station. Eventually they were reunited.

When out of the service, Bill took up his old job of delivering milk and they bought their first home for $6000. In 1948 Elizabeth gave birth to twins, Karen and Keith. In 1958, Bill and Elizabeth picked up stakes and moved to La Mesa California. They arrived on a Thursday and stayed with friends. Bill had a job on Monday.

They bought a home in Lemon Grove, and Bill would do several jobs in his new home town; drive a transit bus, and work for a dairy. Elizabeth was not only a mom, but had several jobs during her life.

"Both of our parents were wonderful and hard-working," Karen said. "I think my mother was the first on our block to get a job outside the home. She worked in a hospital, as a social worker, supervisor for the County Welfare Department, secretary at church and still found time to help us with school papers."

Like many American homes in the 1950's, Karen said their home life was ideal.

"We had a wonderful life growing up," Karen said. "Both mom and dad were very active in Christian churches so we always had lots of friends and relatives around us. After church we would go on car rides or picnics, sometimes to Balboa Park or La Jolla Shores."

Richard said, "Growing up with them was wonderful. They were — and are — fabulous parents. The more I look back, the more grateful I am. I loved seeing them renew their vows. I learn more about them every day."

"What we really liked was how mom made our holidays so fun" Karen said. "We lost my brother Kevin in June of 1986 to lung cancer. Easter was always his favorite holiday, so our family would come together, and mom always made it fun and festive with a special egg hunt."

members of Gateway Church in El Cajon and are loved by many. Bill commands a team of prayer warriors whom he calls 24/7 whenever someone's ill. He makes a great effort to visit each and every one in the hospital, at home, or in a care facility to offer them hope and prayer. He also calls everyone on the Church Primetime class roster to wish them happy birthday or anniversary, even if they are in a foreign country on vacation.

"Years ago we started Loves Outreach, a dream of mine" Bill said. "We have 28 people who take our prayer request list and call those on it to pray for them and see if they need anything. I still love to do that."

Pastor Doug Bray of the Gateway Primetime class has known the Ridenours for many years. "I'm thankful to see someone excited about fulfilling their life's purpose and living life to the fullest," Bray said. "He's a blessing to so many people."

by Diana Saenger

People who like movies about sports, films based on true stories or those that have positive growth with the characters, will enjoy When the Game Stands Tall. The movie is based on the real life of Coach Bob Ladouceur (“Lad”), who propelled the De La Salle High School Spartans — just outside of Oakland — to a 151-game winning streak that shattered all records for any American sport.

Starring in this heartfelt story as Coach Lad is Jim Caviezel (The Passion of the Christ, Person of Interest). What was unique about this coach was that he, and ultimately his team, was less about sports and winning than becoming a band of Brothers who stick together through thick and thin no matter what.

Earning the name “the streak,” the players beat team after team, but each team member still has his own problems in life to face. It’s up to them to grasp what the coach tries to make them understand in order to be able to face those problems and overcome them, and they are put to the task when they face a team they doubt they can beat.

Just listening to the soft, mellow voice of Caviezel as the coach in the locker room was quite unusual compared to many coaches today who scream, rant and yell. I kept wondering if this was truly the way Lad spoke to his team. Luckily at the end of the film are snippets of the real coach and he absolutely did speak with the mellow voice propelled by a full heart.

Of course boys will be boys, and it’s only natural to try and walk to your own drumbeat, and in this story a few of the boys do that. The result is not a good one.

Caviezel is very convincing in his role. Especially when he has a heart attack and his players fear they will lose what’s most important to them; a man who was truly taught them how to live. For them it is far more about family, faith and friendship than running a ball for a touchdown.

Even after his heart attack, the Coach, who had been a religious studies teacher before coming to the school, still reaches out to his boys with his unique philosophical approach. Caviezel infuses just the right amount of compassion into his character when he must also deal with the results of the outfall of several boys’ actions, and yet is still stern about convincing the boys they are capable of so much more than they believe they can do.

Caviezel came from an athletic family, with a father who played basketball for John Wooden at UCLA. He himself once dreamed of an NBA career, before an injury halted it.

“It’s hard to play someone who’s living,” Caviezel said. “Because everybody wants to see if you got it right. But I didn’t set out to get every single detail of Bob right. What I wanted to get right was the spirit of the story — which to me is about how Bob was able to teach young men what it means to give full effort and to be dependable to others.”

Giving a heart-felt performance as the coach’s wife Bev, is Lorna Dern. Michael Chiklis does a great job as Coach Lad’s coaching partner. Alexander Ludwig, from The Hunger Games, does an excellent job as Chris Ryan. He must constantly contend with a father who is adamant that he win every game and make no mistakes. Clancy Brown, who plays the father, is so intense, his portrayal might make some grind their teeth while watching him.

With great direction by Thomas Carter, When the Game Stands Tall is a great film to watch and a good lesson for us all to learn — it’s not about how you fall; it’s about how you get up.

Bolts drilled by Seahawks 41-14

by Chuck Karaszia
The San Diego Chargers pre-season record evened out at 1-1 on the road in what may be the most hostile environment to play at, Century Field Stadium in Seattle, Washington.

Playing the defending Super Bowl Champions didn't make it any easier.

Tip your cap to the world champ Seahawks and their Head Coach Pete Carroll for playing their game the way they wanted to play it be it pre-season or not. Obviously, not caring what others do or think in these meaningless scoreboard exhibition games.

Playing his offensive starters for virtually the whole first half, Carroll was out to win this home-opener working on different plays with his first unit. The Seahawks started out strong on both sides of the ball building an insurmountable 24-0 lead before the final inverted score.

Not to be deterred, Chargers Head Coach Mike McCoy stuck to his game plan playing his franchise quarterback Rivers for just one series (2 of 4 pass completions), going with his backups on offense. Give it to McCoy for not getting caught up in the moment, but looking down the road of a long NFL season.

Regardless of the different game plans one thing was certain. The Bolts lost the battle in the trenches with their BIGS on the line of scrimmage.

Running the ball down the Chargers defensive throats for over 200-yards, Seattle quarterbacks scored four touchdowns on the ground, something the Chargers defense will have to repair if they wish to make it to the playoffs for a second consecutive season.

Unlike the Chargers previous opponent, the Dallas Cowboys, the Seahawks have a deep skilled bench at all positions.

With words of praise for his opponent, while explaining the ineptness his team showed, McCoy said, "This was a good football team we played. We made way too many mistakes. They didn't punt the whole game. It's tough to go on the road when the team doesn't punt and win the game. Just little breakdowns the entire football game, good and bad. We'll learn from it, move on, and get ready for the next one."

The best part about the game last Friday is that the Chargers left Seattle without any devastating injuries. Bolts linebacker Manti Te'o injured his foot Friday and is expected to miss next week's game. This is the second year in a row Te'o injured his foot against the Seahawks in a pre-season game.

Next up for the Chargers is the San Francisco 49'ers on the road in their brand new stadium in Santa Clara. Kickoff Sunday is at 1p.m., PDT.

Everlasting love ...

While Bill is out and about doing good works, Elizabeth, who has had a few health issues, maintains at home.

"I love to read, and I'm a fan of the "Downton Abbey" series and eager for the next season to begin," she said.

Bill is proud that in 2011 his tile commemorating his service to his country was placed on the Alpine Veterans Wall of Honor, and his service history a part of "Mission Accomplished-A Dream Achieved," book one of those on the Wall. Bill has also served diligently in recruiting more veterans to have their tiles on the wall, and to date is partially responsible for an additional 50 new additions.

Dan Foster, who got the Wall started several years ago, said he is always amazed and inspired by Bill. "If it wasn't for this Wall, I would have never met him. He's the most energetic, focused and patriotic person I have ever met. He even calls "my" mother in Nebraska to wish her a happy birthday. I just love and admire him."

In 2013 Bill was selected to participate in the Honor Flight of WWII Veterans to Washington D.C. to visit all the war memorials.

"This was a trip I will never forget, God Bless America!" Bill said with tears in his eyes after descending the escalator at the San Diego Airport where a crowd of 2,000 waited to greet the veterans.

"Bill is very patriotic," Elizabeth said. "It breaks our hearts to see how the country is distancing itself from Christianity."

Karen and her husband Wayne visit San Diego when they can and with each trip Karen becomes more impressed with her parents.

"They just continue to grow,"

she said. "They are a lot more active than they used to be. I think their work and friendship in the church helps to keep them active, more vibrant and seem younger. I'm proud of them both."

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property.
NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (714) 848-9272 or visit this Internet Web site www.elitepostandpub.com, using the file number assigned to this case 14-28170. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. Our Best Friends

Pet of the Week

Are you looking for a truly sweet and down-right lovable dog? Well, I think that's me. My name is ONYX, and I was named for my gorgeous, shiny black coat. I'm a Labrador/Chow mix, and I'm about three years old. I have a gentle and sometimes shy nature, so it might take me a minute or two to get to know you, but once I do, I'll be your loyal friend for life. I'm affectionate and loving, and I'd do best in either an adult home or a family where the kids are older and considerate of me. I get along nicely with other dogs, too. I'm fairly mellow, but I'd appreciate a daily walk so that I can get my exercise and so I can spend time with you. The shelter staff is fairly certain that I've already been house trained, but I'll probably need a quick refresher course when I get home. I can sit on command, and I can learn whatever you want to teach me if you'll just remember to be patient and gentle with me. I'd want to have a yard in my new home, and I'd want a soft and snuggly dog bed in the house so that I can be with you as much as possible. A dog like me won't just be a pet, I'll be a cherished member of the family who'll bring you comfort. Won't you come visit me? I'm waiting for you at the El Cajon Animal Shelter. They have a nice play yard here where we can get better acquainted. I have a strong feeling that once you meet me, you'll want to take me home and shower me with love. Love, Onyx" Kennel #24

Specialty pets inspire kids to learn

All pets bring us closer to the natural world, but specialty pets, such as fish, small pets and reptiles, provide a unique way to inspire kids to learn about the world around them. As teachers and families gear up for the start of a new school year, pets can help teach kids responsibility and how to keep a routine. They can sharpen kids' math and science skills through activities such as measuring food and water, keeping track of days of the week on a calendar and studying information about their care needs.

Learning in the classroom and beyond

Specialty pets can help make learning fun and help students learn more than just traditional academics. By working with their peers at school (or siblings at home), students learn teamwork and responsibility.

These pets also provide hands-on learning and teach lessons that will serve students their whole lives. According to Joel Sartore, National Geographic photographer and specialty pet owner, specialty pets offer many life skills and learning opportunities, such as:

Teaching kids responsibility and the importance of routines. Pets need regular food, water and cleaning of their habitats, and these tasks make learning valuable skills fun.

Helping kids learn to care for something beyond themselves. Kids often see pets as friends and want to protect them. Adults can explain that too much noise scares a pet, and the child will understand the need for good behavior.

Providing a better understanding of the natural world. Learning about a country or climate becomes more meaningful when a child can interact directly with an animal that has roots there.

Allowing kids to relate to their peers. Bonding with a pet can give kids common ground with each other and help build friendships.

Create a healthy habitat

If you are considering bringing a specialty pet into your classroom or home, you will need to provide an appropriate habitat. High-quality pet products that mimic animals' natural environments are the best option to support pet health. Such environments can also spark the curiosity of children into the world of specialty pets with products that represent their habitats in realistic and authentic ways. The pet experts at National Geographic and PetSmart offer the following recommendations to get you started.

For aquatics pets: The Aqua Oasis Aquarium is a complete starter kit, including an internal power filter with filtration media and a submersible heater. Available in various sizes, it features a curved, seamless bow-front, allowing for uninterrupted views with easy access for feeding. Low-profile hoods and integrated LED lighting add elegance, while the addition of coordinated 3-D backgrounds and decor allow pet parents to create a natural environment.

For reptile pets: The Reptile Sanctuary ensures your pet will stay securely inside while allowing pet parents to feed, play with and interact through various points around the tank. Depending on the pet's natural environment, the National Geographic line has tanks designed as desert or tropical climates and coordinated 3-D backgrounds and decor can be added to enhance these natural themes.

For small pets: The Exploration Loft is available in two sizes and offers a 360-degree view into multi-level play areas and your pets' daily lives and interesting instinctual behavior. A skylight provides easy access and fresh airflow, plus cleaning is simple with a removable top.
