Senator Anderson's Corner

Office of Senator Anderson

On Saturday, Sept. 27 Friends of Cats held their first 'Catoberfest,' hosted by KGB Radio DJ Coe Lewis, and you could say the event went purrfectly. Friends of Cats, a volunteer- and donation-run cat shelter located in El Cajon, put together the free event for all cat lovers to attend. A German style buffet, tours of the shelter, door prizes and a chance to win a cat-themed quilt was also enjoyed by attendees.

Senator Joel Anderson

Coe Lewis displays the quilts.

In addition to being a well-known radio personality in San Diego, Coe Lewis is known for her deep love of animals and for her work with many local animal shelters over the years. She is especially supportive of Friends of Cats because they are the oldest no-kill shelter in Southern California. "Friends of Cats approached me and I have been working with them for years now," said Lewis. "While their budget is very humble, every last cent goes straight back to the cats."

State Senator Joel Anderson thanked the shelter's volunteer leadership with Certificates of Recognition and stated, "Friends of Cats is a wonderful example of what passionate people can accomplish when they volunteer their time and treasury for a cause that is important to them. Thanks to the volunteers who serve on the Board of Directors, every year hundreds of cats have a safe place to live while they await adoption."

What sets Friends of Cats apart from other shelters is that the cats live together in large rooms where they have a wide array of toys, cat trees, companions, and caretakers. Shelter Manager Janet Bianchini said the most rewarding part of working with Friends of Cats is "being able to help the cats and be a voice for them, and knowing that they are here and safe until they do have a home."

NFPA and The Home Depot team up for Fire Prevention Week

by Michael Roizen, MD, and Mehmet Oz, MD

The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) and The Home Depot are working together to promote the importance of working smoke alarms in support of Fire Prevention Week's 2014 campaign, "Working Smoke Alarms Save Lives: Test Yours Every Month!"

"Teaming up with NFPA to promote Fire Prevention Week helps reinforce important fire safety messages among the thousands of customers who enter our stores nationwide each day," says Hila Roberts, merchant, fire safety, for The Home Depot. "Where smoke alarms play a key role in home fire safety, NFPA's information and resources help educate the public about the extreme importance of smoke alarms in the home. Partnering with them enables us to educate our customers to buy the right alarms to keep their families safe."

Each fall, The Home Depot helps educate customers about ways to protect their homes and families from potential fire risks with a month-long safety campaign that includes an in-store workshop:

On Saturday, October 18,

The Home Depot's U.S. stores will host a workshop for adults to learn how to install and maintain smoke alarms.

"Partnering with The Home Depot during Fire Prevention Week provides a tremendous opportunity to remind the public just how important it is to make sure their smoke alarms are working, and to test them every month," said Lorraine Carli, NFPA's vice president of Outreach and Advocacy.

For more information about Fire Prevention Week and smoke alarms, visit www.fpw.org.

About the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) NFPA is a worldwide leader in fire, electrical, building, and life safety. The mission of the international nonprofit organization founded in 1896 is to reduce the worldwide burden of fire and other hazards on the quality of life by providing and advocating consensus codes and standards, research, training, and education. NFPA develops more than 300 codes and standards to minimize the possibility and effects of fire and other hazards. All NFPA codes and standards can be viewed at no cost at www.nfpa.org/freeaccess.

About Fire Prevention Week NFPA has been the official sponsor of Fire Prevention Week since 1922. According to the National Archives and Records Administration's Library Information Center, Fire Prevention Week is the longest running public health and safety observance on record. The President of the United States has signed a proclamation proclaiming a national observance during that week every year since 1925. Visit www.firepreventionweek.org for more safety information.

The little fireman

A fireman is at the station house working outside on the fire truck when he notices a little boy next door. The little boy is in a little red wagon with little ladders hung off the side. He is wearing a fireman's hat and has the wagon tied to a dog.

The fireman says "Hey little boy. What are you doing?"

The little boy says "I'm pretending to be a fireman and this is my fire truck!"

The fireman walks over to take a closer look. "Little boy that sure is a nice fire truck!" the fireman says.

"Thanks mister", says the little boy.

The fireman looks a little closer and notices the little boy has tied the dog to the wagon by its testicles. "Little boy", says the fireman, "I don't want to tell you how to run your fire truck, but if you were to tie that rope around the dog's neck I think you could go faster."

The little boy says, "You're probably right mister, but then I wouldn't have a siren!"

Dear Dr. Luauna — Truth brings freedom

Dear Friends,

Today while we were working on the inside of our new building in San Diego, I noticed two trash cans chained up to a tree outside the back door. I asked the neighboring people if the two cans belonged to them. Then I noticed a solar light above our back door. The neighbor said, "No, it belongs to a man who sleeps on your back step and uses his solar system above your door." Looking at the trash cans, I noticed a sleeping bag sticking out of one can. Both cans were filled, I'm sure with all his personal items.

Thinking, "I need do something," and of course I didn't want to just throw his stuff away in case he came back that night and found it all gone. So I wrote a note and placed it on each can. "With respect, this is a '24 hour notice'. Please unchain your stuff (cans) and find a new place to sleep. Tomorrow the chains will be cut and the cans will be thrown in the dumpster. I'm asking you to please do not sleep on the back step; this is private property, thank you, and I would like to meet you personally."

I never thought I would be giving a homeless man a 24 hour notice. Homelessness is a big problem in San Diego. It's easy to be homeless in this area, its beautiful weather 72 degrees, all year around and with so many government funded food programs. Many of those that are homeless don't feel a need to work. It seems to be much easier to stay on drugs, drunk, and homeless.

This is why preaching the gospel is very important, it's a message of hope, love, and grace. It brings life to those who receive Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior. But preaching the gospel also requires preaching repentance. Just feeding the homeless will never change the condition of their heart.

Many have said to me, "Dr. Luauna, the book of John speaks only of LOVE." But I say, maybe we should stop and think about this man named John, for he is also the greatest human penman of the book of Revelation. John's last message pens the word repentance 7 times. You see, dear readers, the word "faith" is not found in the book of John, does it mean we don't preach faith or walk by faith?

Maybe we who are called to preach, should understand, we are called to preach, "The whole counsel of God!" Too much candy in time can kill and destroy your teeth, blood, and breaks down our bodies.

We must remember Paul's powerful words in Acts 20:26-27; "Therefore I testify to you this day that I am innocent of the blood of all of you, for I did not shrink from declaring to you the whole counsel of God." We should never shrink back from bringing truth. Truth brings freedom to every soul who will receive it; even the homeless can be free when we speak truth. Most are running from a problem, past, or just lazy. If we continue to just feed their tummy. Don't give them a dollar, give them JESUS.

Everyone needs a miracle in the mind; we all need JESUS, not just handouts. We can reach them, but with Spiritual Food. Rise up, valiant warrior, Rise up. Be His true watchmen. Preach, for it's the TRUTH that will set the captives free. Great is your reward!

Pet of the Week

Shotzie's Story...

"Hello, friends! My name is SHOTZIE, and I'm an affectionate, playful, and friendly pit bull who wants to share my love with you. I'm about four years old, and I'm a very good girl. I walk beautifully on a leash, so we can take nice walks and enjoy the California sunshine together. I also love to chase after toys, so I'd need a yard in my new home. I'd be a loving family pet, and I'd do best in a home where the kids are older. I'd need to be the only dog in my new home, too. The shelter staff is fairly certain that I've already been house trained, but I might need a quick refresher course when I get to my new home. I'm a smart and wonderful girl, and I already know how to sit on command. I'm also quite well-mannered. I sure hope you'll come visit me. I'm waiting for you at the El Cajon Animal Shelter, and I'd sure like to find a new loving home as soon as possible. Won't you come to the shelter so we can get to know each other? They have a great play yard here where we can spend some time together. I hope to see you soon. Love, Shotzie" Kennel #2

Should she stay or should she go?

Deciding whether to take your pet along on your road trips

It's common knowledge that pets are welcome at dog parks, most people parks, and most pet stores. Beyond that, however, the world can sometimes seem a little unfriendly to pet parents who would like to bring their furry best friends along everywhere possible. What many pet parents don't realize is that their pets are welcome in more places than they might think.

Your dog is your family member, so it's only natural to want to enjoy her company all the time, and take her along everywhere possible. However, the decision to travel with a pet - particularly on an extended road trip - is one that requires a good deal of consideration. There are several questions you should ask yourself before loading Fido or Fifi up in the car, and all of them involve ensuring your pet's ultimate comfort and well-being.

What is your pet's temperament?

If your pet is easygoing and adaptable, taking her along is an easy decision. However, if your pet is nervous, anxious, grumpy, uneasy on car rides, or skittish when it comes to new places or new people, she may not be a great candidate for a trip.

You also have to consider others as you plan your trip. If you will be dealing with crowds, using public transportation or visiting beaches, parks or pet friendly hot spots, your pet needs to be well-behaved, properly socialized and friendly.

Is the trip one your pet will enjoy?

Make sure that your travel plans include staying somewhere your pet will be comfortable, and doing things she'll be happy doing. For example, if your pet loves an outdoor adventure, a destination with hiking or river romping will be right up her alley. However, if you will be stuck in work meetings and have to find a doggie day care (as many pet friendly hotels do not allow pets to stay alone in rooms), or you're staying with Aunt Bessie and she doesn't have a yard, you may want to rethink the idea of bringing her along.

Is your pet in good health?

If your pet is sick, pregnant, or injured, it's best if she stays home until she is feeling well. After all, she may need more care than you can give her while you're traveling, and since she can't speak, there's no real way of knowing her actual level of discomfort. Pain or discomfort may even cause a change in her temperament, and you may find that your happy-go-lucky furry friend suddenly isn't such a pleasant travel companion.

If your pet is elderly, but in good health, you will need to make a judgment call - if she is used to traveling with you and still seems enthusiastic at the idea, you can probably take her along with no problem, provided she can still comfortably participate. A quick consult with your veterinarian can help you determine whether car travel is right for an elderly pet.

Are you crossing state lines?

Different states have different restrictions on pets. Some states require quarantines for carnivorous animals, and some require an up-to-date certificate stating that your pet is in good health. It's a good idea to get such a certificate if you plan to travel through different states.

If your pet is healthy and has the right temperament, hitting the road together is a fantastic way to break up the routine with some new adventures, and a great opportunity to bond. However, even if your pet isn't ideally suited to travel, all is not lost.

There are many ways to alleviate temperament issues. The right training and coaching can help desensitize your pet to the things that upset her and help her become comfortable with traveling. Be aware that most of these techniques take time, and if you want your pet to be a happy traveler, you must be patient and go at her pace.

If your pet is a nervous traveler, planning shorter trips, or planning trips that would be fun and interesting for her can help her adapt and learn that travel can be pleasant. If she suffers from motion sickness, there are plenty of proven remedies that can help her stay well on car rides, including reconditioning, holistic remedies, or medication.

In the end, with a little bit of patience and work on both your parts, even a reluctant rider can learn to enjoy car trips with you, making traveling with your pet a win for everyone.

'The Judge' — excellent cast in poignant drama

Review by Diana Saenger

Casting a prominent and recognizable actor in a movie usually ups the anticipation as well as audience turnout in theaters. And casting two or more of those actors together probably means the film is worth seeing. That's certainly the case with director David Dobkin's The Judge, starring Robert Downey Jr., Robert Duvall, Billy Bob Thornton, Vincent D'Onofrio, and Vera Farmiga.

Downey Jr. portrays Hank Palmer, an aggressive Chicago lawyer — which comes as no surprise since his father is Judge Joseph Palmer (Duvall) in Carlinville, Indiana. Hank has not been back home for many years, but after hearing the bad news of his mother's passing, he feels obligated to return to Carlinville one more time. Along with the grief of losing his mother, Hank also finds out his father has been charged with a murder. The Judge doesn't think he will need any legal help because he's not guilty. He will soon find out that's a big misconception.

Hank feels uncomfortable at home. He and his father have rarely gotten along, and he and his brother Glen (D'Onofrio) aren't the kind to slap and hug each other. But Hank seems happy to see his brother Dale (Jeremy Strong), a simple and gentle young man whose life revolves around his Super 8 camera. With little notice by his family, Dale has captured years of the family's history, personalities of his father and brothers, and whatever may strike his fancy at the moment.

As much as Hank wants to leave and go back to his daughter in Chicago — especially since his wife is leaving him — he starts to get a glimpse of what this case is really about. He realizes his father will not be able to squirm out of this one without his help. The Judge will hear none of this. He's been the town judge for 42 years and figures he has a lot of favors owed to him. In fact, when it's clear he can't represent himself, he ignores Hank and hires in-over-his-head Dax Shepard (C. P. Kennedy) to be his counsel.

Hank has never understood why his father has never liked him. Perhaps it has to do with something Hank did in the past. Even now, Hank remarks that his dad will hug everyone, but only shake Hank's hand. Once the trial starts Hank might as well be chomping on bricks because Dax does nothing right in representing Hank's father. This is one of the areas of the film where Downey shines; he squirms, fumes, throws things and makes faces at both Dax and his father. Nothing changes.

In between court sessions Hank runs into his high school sweetheart Samantha, played sexily and sweetly by Vera Farmiga. During their first meeting they get off on the wrong foot, but neither one can deny there's still a sexual tension between them. Hank has to remind himself of why he's here in town. That reminder comes in one very poignant scene when Hank has to help his father with one of the most embarrassing moments anyone can experience. It's then that the hate Hank feels for his dad disappears from Downey's face.

So they return to the courtroom, this time with a surprising new element. Dwight Dickham (Thornton) a prosecutor from Gary, Indiana, is the prosecutor in the Judge's trial. He's very familiar with the way Hank works — taking on the cases of criminals he's too eager to get set free. Dwight wants to make an example of both the Judge and Hank. The setting in the old-world courtroom seems fitting because of the juxtaposition of old ways and new ways to have a trial, and one can't help but wonder if the icy Dwight will triumph or fail in this case.

It's wonderful to watch Downey and Duvall together — for the first time — and likewise Downey and Thornton. Nick Schenk (Gran Torino) and Bill Dubuque's screenplay, adapted from a story by Dobkin and Schenk, easily combines several difficult situations into a story of redemption, regret, and perception. These three actors rise in the subtleness of beautiful cinematography by the exceptionally talented Janusz Kaminski (War Horse, Lincoln, Saving Private Ryan), but they can instantly become cold as ice in harsh situations.

Filled with exceptional talent, The Judge is definitely a movie most viewers will enjoy.

Kiwanis MMQ Golf Tournament a success

Curly Collier.

by Diana Saenger
On Friday, Oct. 3, the Kiwanis Club of Alpine put on the 25th Annual Miracle Mile of Quarters Golf Tournament at Admiral Baker Golf Course in San Diego. The Tournament is named after the late Curly Collier who started the Tournament 25 years ago.

Collier, a 45 year Kiwanian, wanted the Tournament named after Rady Children's Hospital's Annual fund raiser at the Hospital called "The Miracle Mile of Quarters" which involves the children laying down over a mile of quarters in front of the Hospital on a red carpet. Collier wanted an outlet for the Alpine Kiwanis Club to raise money for Rady Children's Hospital. To date, since 1990 the Tournament has raised upwards to $875,000 for the Hospital.

On a beautiful day of the sun shining, flowers blooming and the grass very green, approximately 30 Kiwanians arrived at Admiral Baker Golf Course to begin work at 9 a.m. Golfers from all over San Diego County began arriving as registration started at 11 a.m.

The Tournament was played on the South Course, which is an exciting 18-hole regulation course. Many gifts were planned for the golfers on the course and each twosome registered had a golf cart. A Shotgun Start was arranged and started at one o'clock.

Besides a wonderful round of golf, a fun evening was planned for the golfers. They were entertained after a fantastic dinner by a longtime Kiwanian and San Diego Padre Announcer, Mark Grant. Grant conducted a lively sport memorabilia auction and raffle drawings. The Event was well attended according to Grant and a substantial amount of money was raised for Rady Children's Hospital.

Rady Children's Hospital is San Diego's only designated Pediatric Trauma Center and the only area Hospital dedicated solely to Pediatric Care. All proceeds from this Tournament go directly to the Hospital.

Jets get knocked down over Mission Valley

San Diego Chargers Running Back Brandon Oliver (43) celebrates one of his two touchdowns during the NFL football game between the New York Jets and the San Diego Chargers at Qualcomm Stadium.

by Chuck Karaszia
While the high-flying Blue Angels swooped over Qualcomm Stadium Sunday, a good old fashioned whipping was taking place inside the arena as the San Diego Chargers totally dominated, dismantling the New York Jets 31-0.

Winners of four straight, a

perfect (3-0) at home the (4-1) San Diego Chargers stand alone atop the AFC West with the best record in the AFC.

On a hot afternoon in Mission Valley, with game time temperature in the '90's, San Diego's defense pitched a shutout leaving the Jets feeling black & blue. Chargers quarterback Philip Rivers scorched a Jets secondary for nearly 300-yards with three touchdown passes. And a Chargers rookie running back making his NFL debut sparked his team in extraordinary spectacular fashion.

This game was a case for the defense pitching — the first Chargers shutout in four years. Limiting the Jets running game to 91-yards on 21 carries, the 'white lightning' defense gave New York starting quarterback Gino Smith (4-12, 27 yds) an early shower to cool the heat he took from a relentless pass rush and gang tackling Chargers defenders. His backup, Michael Vick did not fare much better (8-19, 47 yards) as they held the dangerous running QB to 14-yards on two carries.

Shutting out the Jets from scoring, San Diego has four consecutive quarters of not allowing any points. The Chargers defense held the Jets to 150-yards of total offense and just one third down conversion in 11 attempts. They also controlled the Jets offense in field position by not allowing them to get past the 50-yard line until the fourth quarter. That is something unheard of in the modern day high-scoring NFL.

"They (the defense) did an outstanding job of going out there and playing the way we wanted trying to get turnovers," declared Mike McCoy.

Closing out the first half with a brilliant interception, CB Brandon Flowers now has a pick in back-to-back games. OLB Jarrett Johnson forced a fumble Sunday and now has two achieved in back-to-back games.

The Chargers discovered a running game of their own after losing yet another running back to the injury list Sunday when Donald Brown (neck) left the game in the second quarter after a clothes line tackle sidelined him.

"Next man up" was #43 rookie running back Brandon Oliver. The non-drafted free agent rookie from Buffalo let everyone know in his first NFL appearance he is here to stay. At 5-8, 208, he resembles a flashy Darren Sproles in the open field, and a bruising Mike Tolbert running between the tackles.

All he did Sunday was gain 182-total yards on offense, the most since Tomlinson in 2007. Gaining 114-yards on 19 carries against the NFL's number one run defense of the Jets, give credit to his athletic ability, but also to the Chargers offensive line for opening lanes to run. The shortest Chargers roster player also caught four passes for 68-yards leading the Chargers receivers. He scored two touchdowns in his first appearance the first in the second quarter (15-yard run), the second in the third quarter from a (9-yard Rivers pass). Oliver became the first Charger ever to have a 50-yard run and a 50-yard catch in the same game.

"He did a great job stepping up and making the most of his opportunities," acknowledged head Coach McCoy.

Chargers quarterback Philip Rivers was the incomparable gunslinger. Having his best season in an already illustrious career, the signal caller with his quarterback rating of 125.0 Sunday is second to none in that category. He now has four consecutive games above 120.0

In the game Rivers completed 20 of 28 passes 288-yards, three touchdowns. Tossing two of them to his favorite receiver Antonio Gates (8 & 12yd). The duo's 64'th & 65'th. One TD pass went to rookie Brandon Oliver (9-yd.) Rivers is poised and on track to get his team to the next level.

"He's special, the simplest way to say it," said Turner. "He's a great competitor. He works extremely hard. He's a great person to have as the face of your franchise."

Controlling the clock 20:20 to 9:40 in T.O.P. San Diego kept their offense on the field, keeping the Jets defense out of breath and gassed. The San Diego Chargers Wide Receiver Seyi Ajirotutu (16) with an open field tackle on New York Jets Wide Receiver Saalim Hakim (15) on a kickoff return.

Jets looked like a team that couldn't wait to get out of San Diego.

"It was a great team effort by all three phases," chimed Turner.

Injuries are mounting and players are dropping like flies. Coach Turner responded to the epidemic Chargers injuries saying,

"It's been tough, I am not going to lie. We got leadership, a great training staff working to get the guy's back as quickly as possible when they're healthy to go. We got a deep roster as I said coming out of training camp. We have a number of injuries but it's all part of the game. The healthiest 45 are going to play every Sunday. We got some great coaches here. The plays they use, the adjustments they made, the personnel we have. They just keep plugging away."

Next up the Raiders in Oakland. Kickoff Sunday is 1:05 p.m.

Fire Safety! Spread the Word!

Fire Prevention Week
Oct. 5 to 11, 2014

In the days of horse-drawn fire carts, Dalmatians did the job of running in front of the horses to clear the path and to guide them to the fire!
Today Dalmatians are mascots of firehouses. Sometimes we help to locate people in fires. We also make good guard dogs, watching over the firehouse and the equipment.

Firefighters rush to the rescue when there is a fire. Did you know that they also work hard to spread the word about fire prevention and safety?

Here are 6 ways that we learn about fire safety:

1. Programs are being developed on _____ that will show fake flames and fire situations to help kids learn how to react if they are ever stuck in a fire.
2. Cartoon _____ like Smokey Bear or Marty, the fire explorer, and Jett, his pet turtle (part of the USFA for kids) teach safety.
3. They are mascots at fire houses; some dogs or other _____ are trained to alert people when there is smoke, or to help find people in fires.
4. Firefighters can send _____ by remote control into dangerous fires to fight them.
5. Firehouses have _____ in which firefighters will visit classrooms to speak
6. _____ travel the country in buses; are set up at schools, malls or fairs.

Spots, the firehouse Dalmatian, is letting me try on his cool helmet.

- ☐ Never use elevators if there is a fire (stairs are much safer).
- ☐ Smoke rises. If there is a fire, stay low: crawl under the smoke.
